Cuba to Press Charge Against Machado, Aids

Island Asks Extradition of Former President From Bahamas.

Republic Sues Exiles to Regain Millions Allegedly Stolen.

Havana, Aug. 16 (U.P.).—Efforts to extradite Gerardo Machado, exiled President of Cuba, now in the Bahama Islands, British West Indies, and return him to Cuba for trial on charges of embezzling public funds and assassinations, were instituted by Cuban authorities today.

Machado is recognized as a political refugee from the new regime of Provisional President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, but it was felt extradition could be effected.

Machado is residing temporarily in the Bahamas.

He has indicated he may proceed to New York. His first plans were to go to Bermuda and thence, presumably, to England, where he is rumored to have most of his personal fortune in banks.

May Change Plans.

The extradition move might change his program, particularly that part of it calling for a visit to the United States, regarded as friendly toward the provisional regime.

The extradition papers were drawn at the instance of Jose Garcilaso de la Vega, an attorney. Acting for the authorities, he filed civil suits against Machado and others in his government, seeking to recover millions allegedly pocketed by them.

President de Cespedes refrained from comment on these events. Persons close to the presidential palace intimated he was a prime mover in the effort to bring Machado and his lieutenants back to Havana for trial.

Machado was charged with throwing the republic into debt of nearly $160,000,000, most of which is held by banks in New York and by bondholders in the United States.

Study Strike Unrest.

The De Cespedes government meanwhile turned its attention to restoring normal economic life in the country and thoroughly breaking up the general strike which, in part, hangs on, causing renewed unrest.

The stevedore and dock worker strike continued throughout the island. Financial losses to merchants and shippers were heavy. Food stuffs, badly needed, rotted in the bay.

U. S. Ambassador Sumner Welles said today he was highly optimistic over the situation regarding the future of the present congress and the port strikes. He said the congressional question probably would be settled by tomorrow. Some demand all members resign and new elections be held.

"All's Well," Says Machado

Philadelphia, Aug. 16. (AP)—Deposed President Gerard Machado, of Cuba, comforted his wife and family today by telephonic word that he is well and "everything is all right" with him in his exile in Nassau, the Bahamas.

He telephoned in response to a radio message sent soon after the family arrived here and took a suite in a West Philadelphia hotel.

The family will remain at the hotel "at least until tomorrow night." Further plans probably will be formulated in another telephone call tonight.

Senora Machado, three daughters, three sons-in-law, five grandchildren, and seven servants were in the party here.

It was reported that warnings had been received by Senora Machado against revolutionist sympathizers in the metropolis.

A police cordon guarded the hotel.

Cuban's Arrest Asked.

Havana, Aug. 16 (AP).—Cuban authorities today asked Florida police to arrest Espinosa Izquierdo, employe of the central district, when he arrived at Key West aboard the steamer Florida. They charged he carried with him $30,000 of the department's money.

President Plans Trip To Coast Next Year

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt yesterday told Hugh A. Thatcher, of Los Angeles, that he is planning a visit to the Pacafic Coast next summer. Thatcher, county supervisor, was received by the President in a brief courtesy call.

He said Mr. Roosevelt expressed the hope of going to the Pacific Coast after the next session of Congress, which convenes in January and probably will run through until June.

Treasury Invites Bids For $60,000,000 Bills

(Associated Press.)

The Treasury yesterday invited bids for $60,000,000 of 91-day Treasury bills to be sold to the highest bidder next Monday.

They will be dated August 23 and will mature November 22. The money will be used to retire an equal amount of maturing bills.

Sterling Chosen Envoy From Cuba

As its first major diplomatic appointment, the new Cuban government of Provisional President de Cespedes last night named Marques Sterling as ambassador to the United States.

Ambassador Designate Sterling will succeed Oscar Cintas, former President Machado's envoy here. Cintas now is in Havana.

For the last three years Sterling has been Cuban envoy to Mexico, where he was dean of the Diplomatic Corps.

Ambassador Sterling is a career diplomat, who was prominently associated with the faction favoring a change in the Machado regime.

Another appointment was the naming of Gen. Garcia Velles as ambassador to Spain.

Mystery Flying Boat Is Tested At Anacostia

Planes With Great Speed May Repay Balbo's Visit to America.

A mystery plane that "in speed and endurance surpasses all previous flying boats" is being secretly tested at the Naval Air Station, Secretary of the Navy Swanson said yesterday.

The "super-ship," capable of a transatlantic flight, may be used as the unit for a mass flight similar to the Balbo visit. Secretary Swanson refused to reveal any details of the new craft.

Engines are mounted in the single wing after designs of Admiral Ernest J. King and Gen. B. D. Foulois. Equipped to fight, the plane is fully capable of an ocean crossing.

At the time of the Balbo visit, President Roosevelt expressed a hope that the United States would be able to return the call of the Italian airmen. It is considered that the new ship will be the unit around which a transatlantic mass flight by the Navy will be built.

The ship is the only one of its type delivered so far. If completely satisfactory, a group will be ordered, it was learned.

Secretary Swanson said he did not care to "give the enemy" any information about the plane. Asked who the "enemy" was, he replied.

"Any one unfavorable to this Nation."

Train Trapped By Landslide

Cloudburst at Floriston, Calif., Also Said to Imperil Autoists.

Reno, Nev., Aug. 16 (U.P.).—A cloudburst and giant landslide in the narrow Truckee River Canyon of the Sierras late today was reported to have damaged the Crown-Willamette Paper Co.'s mills at Floriston, Calif., trapped a Southern Pacific eastbound train and possibly endangered the lives of several motorists. Communication lines were down here.

The spot where the landslide was reported to have occurred is on a narrow curve in the California-Nevada highway, high above the narrow gorge of the river.

Meager reports received here said the cloudburst swept down the Floriston Canyon shortly after 5 p. m. The landslide followed.

Garner Urges Texas To Vote for Repeal

Austin, Tex., Aug. 16 (AP).—Vice President John N. Garner today appealed to Texans to vote for repeal of National prohibition at a special election August 26.

In a letter to Roy Miller, Texas director of the Democratic National campaign, the Vice President, who is at his home in Uvalde, stated his views. However, he did not commit himself on the proposition of modification of the Texas constitution to permit the sale of 3.2 per cent beer. That proposal also will be submitted August 26.

Garner said he voted against submission of the eighteenth amendment when it was first presented to Congress "because I believed it violated a fundamental principle of government. Since then I have availed myself of every opportunity to assist in bringing about its repeal."

Quick Action Urged To 'Peg' Grain Prices

(Associated Press.)

Messages urging quick Government action to "peg" grain prices piled up at the Department of Agriculture yesterday, but Secretary Wallace and farm administrators indicated they intended to disregard them and leave marketing regulations entirely to grain exchanges for the present.

Chicago Gang Trap Is Laid In Wisconsin

Kidnaping Hunt Widens After Pair Escape from 300 Policemen.

Hamm and Urschel Plot Suspects Believed to Be at Resorts.

Chicago, Aug. 16 (AP).—A kidnap chase started in Chicago by 300 massed police spread to southern Wisconsin tonight with confident predictions that Touhy gangsters, and others suspected of kidnaping, would be caught.

The locale of the hunt was the Wisconsin resort district, about 100 miles north of Chicago, where gangsters long have congregated and several kidnap victims have believed they were held captive.

Two score Chicago police were rushed to the region today with machine guns, rifles and bombs. They rode in automobiles of sufficient speed to overtake any suspects who might be driven from the wooded retreats.

Hideouts Uncovered.

Evidence concerning several gangster hideouts previously had been gathered by detectives disguised as farmers and tourists, police officials said.

They had hopes of arresting additional conspirators in the kidnapings of William Hamm, jr., St. Paul brewer, and Charles Urschel, rich Oklahoma City oil man.

John Factor, millionaire speculator, whose negotiations to make a ransom payment started the anti-abduction drive, reported today he had been threatened with death by the men who kidnaped him several weeks ago.

Denies "Tip" to Police.

"They'll never believe I didn't help the police," Factor wailed. "It was none of my doing. The police tapped my telephone wires, learned about the payment and then horned in."

Factor said the threat came by telephone. He was secluded in his hotel suite today under heavy guard with his son, Jerome, also a victim of kidnapers some weeks ago, and other members of his family.

Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker said failure of his mobilized forces to catch two kidnaping suspects in the suburbs yesterday was "just a bad break."

He said that three weeks of preparations preceded the attempt. Army airplanes were used to spot the fugitives and blue prints of an area 4 miles square were made so that no road might be unwatched. Hundreds of automobiles were delayed for hours on several arterial highways while police waited for the trap to spring.

Detective Is Blamed.

Shoemaker said the fiasco was caused in part by failure of Detective Frank McKenna to arrive on time at a roadside lunch stand at which the ransom was to be paid. As a result, McKenna gave the money to two suspects, riding in an automobile, at some distance from the stand.

A cordon of police, therefore, was unable to surround the suspects' automobile. The fugitives speeded about the vicinity for a time and finally escaped in a wood. One of them told a farmer he was being pursued by an irate wife and purchased transportation to a street car line for $10. The other also escaped.

One of the men to whom the ransom package, containing $500 in marked currency provided by Factor, was paid was believed by police to be George Kelly, sought in the Urschel kidnaping and in the killing of five persons in an attempted delivery of Frank Nash, convict, in the Kansas City Union railroad station several weeks ago.

Police Here On Lookout.

District and Eastern police were warned yesterday by the Department of Justice to watch roads closely for a heavily armed sedan with two men and two women.

The department said the four were involved in the Urschel kidnaping and named George Kelly as one of the occupants. At the same time, Chicago authorities claimed Kelly was one of the two men who escaped the monster man-hunt there.

The department warning said the sedan was equipped with two machine guns and urged caution in apprehending any of the passengers. The car is supposed to be approaching the East.

Gov. Ferguson Wants Liberal Cotton Loans

Auxtin, Tex., Aug. 16 (AP).—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson today telegraphed President Roosevelt a suggestion that the Federal Reserve Board authorize liberal loans to farmers on cotton until the market is improved.

She recommended "loans of 90 per cent of the value of cotton for twelve months at 5 per cent on all spot cotton offered."

Chile's Congress Honors Ambassador Culbertson

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 16 (AP).—William S. Culbertson, American Ambassador, who recently announced he would retire after a decade in the diplomatic service, today was received at a joint session of Congress, officially honoring his five years here.

Hop Off Fails

David Gatti, 1½ Years, Starts Trek North, But Policeman Halts It.

David Gatti severed home ties yesterday and departed on foot for the Far North. He was only partly successful, getting as far north of his home at 4604 Fifteenth street northwest as the Sixteenth street reservoir before his flight was interrupted by the law.

David, 21 months old, ambled off from home at noon. Park and Metropolitan policemen in automobiles, on motorcycles and afoot rushed to the scene after his mother, Mrs. S. A. Gatti, discovered he was missing and called for help.

Park Policeman Walter Sconyers, ordered to scour Rock Creek Park for the youngster, found him sitting complacently on a bench near the reservoir. Hustled back home in Sconyers' sidecar, David emitted squalls indicating he was quite satisfied where he was and wouldn't get out. But four arms, those of his mother and the arms of the law, prevailed. So David made his exit from police circles and adventure.

Action on Milk Market Plans Urged by Cities

Peek Promises Results as Tense Troubles Loom; Price Cuts Likely.

(Associated Press.)

Representatives of several cities that have milk marketing agreements awaiting action warned the farm administrator yesterday that unless they are approved quickly the programs may fall through entirely.

Detroit, Philadelphia and a group of California cities were assured Tuesday by George N. Peek, administrator of the farm act, that everything possible would be done to speed action. Yesterday their representatives were still at the department waiting for something to happen.

Detroit's case is one of the most acute. The hearing on Detroit's proposed agreement was held July 6, and spokesmen for the group said the price to the producer was raised July 20 in expectation of a speedy decision.

East Action Still Delayed.

Several weeks have gone by and the Detroiters are still being shunted from office to office in the Department of Agriculture. Members of the delegation said yesterday they had been promised action in a hurry, but that the price paid the producer might have to be reduced if action were not forthcoming.

This reduction, they said, would probably create a tense situation in the Detroit area, but that buyers could not afford to pay the increased price much longer unless the agreement went into effect.

The Philadelphia hearing was June 19 and those for the four California areas, Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco and Oakland, in the periods between July 10 and July 14.

Protests Are Filed.

Additional briefs, suggested amendments and protests were filed in a 10-day period subsequent to the open hearing and the record closed.

Members of the Philadelphia group said that in anticipation of a decision by the farm administration they had persuaded New Jersey authorities to postpone action affecting milk in territories adjacent to Philadelphia. The New Jersey Milk Board, they added, had grown tired of waiting and had decided to go ahead with its program.

Members of the California group are being bombarded with telegrams asking why something has not been done. Represenatives of still other cities say they are having similar experiences.

23 Exiled Cubans Arrive in Jamaica

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 16 (U.P.). Gen. Alberto Herrera, war secretary in the Machado regime in Cuba, and 22 fugitive members of that government, arrived here today aboard the steamer Quirigua, and received permission to come ashore.

"I do not wish to make any statement respecting occurrences in Cuba," Gen. Herrera said. "Out of the country, I feel my nationality as a Cuban even more than ever. For this reason, I may say I have a great feeling of satisfaction that the sovereignty of Cuba has been retained and her destinies controlled by Cubans."

Herrera was one of the bitterest opponents to United States efforts at mediation or intervention in Cuba's political affairs in any form. He indicated he may go to Europe after resting a few days in this British island.

James Roosevelt Sits For Portrait in Oil

Boston, Aug. 16. (U.P.)—Mrs. James Roosevelt, wife of the president's eldest son, has decided she wants an oil painting of her husband and has engaged an artist to do the portrait.

Henry O'Conor, Boston and New York artist, started the portrait today during a half hour sitting at Jimmie's Milk street insurance office.

During the sittings all business friends and patronage seekers will be excluded from the office. The likeness will be completed in about a month.

Large Profits Of City Milk Firms Shown

Senate Quiz Reveals Big Income; Dealers Cried "We're Failing."

Price Favoritism Also Shown By Records of Two Companies.

Affiliates of the National Dairy Products Corporation in the Capital have shown net profits of $1,791,889 since their acquisition by the parent organization during the last four years, the Senate Milk Investigating Committee was told yesterday.

Disclosure of the profits came soon after dairy farmers had testified that the distributor bargaining agent had warned the farmers against impending failure of distributors unless the dairy farmers agreed to a low price for their product.

Because of heavy withdrawals each June, auditors testified, the New York-controlled Chestnut Farms and Chevy Chase Dairies had paid only small personal property taxes to the District.

Control 60 Per Cent.

These milk distributors, according to John Magill, secretary of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association, control 60 per cent of the milk purchased from association members.

Evidence of price discrimination among customers was revealed by Norman Simpson, Government auditor, who testified that different prices are charged to various customers.

Among the notable cases of discrimination reported were: Former Secretary of the Treasury Mellon paying 13 cents a quart for four bottles of milk daily, as compared with 12 cents a quart charged to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace for three quarts. They are customers of the Chestnut Farms Dairy.

Yearly Profits Shown.

The net profits of the Chestnut Farms Dairy, since its acquisition by National Dairies, Simpson testified, were: From April to December, 1929, $186,000; 1930, $292,324; 1931, $379,958; 1932, $432,028, and for the first six months of this year $247,814.

Since its purchase by the same corporation in 1931, Chevy Chase has shown the following net profits: 1931, $167,219; 1932, $103,719, and for the first six months of this year, $74,597. The actual price paid for the dairies by the corporation was $4,412,000, the auditor testified.

Retail Sales Show Loss.

Mr. Simpson, under questioning by Roger Whiteford, counsel for Chestnut Farms, admitted that retail milk sales showed a loss. Elwood Seal, special counsel for the committee, developed the point that overlapping of milk routes was greatly responsible for the deficiency in retail milk sales. It costs 3.6 cents to deliver a bottle of milk, Simpson said. He found that Chevy Chase and Chestnut Farms have duplicate routes, although they are both owned by the same corporation, he said.

Among the assets of the National Dairy affiliate, Mr. Simpson said, he found a note for $190,000, payable by the present owners of the Walker-Hill Dairy, which operates as an independent.

Profits From 8 to 40 Per Cent.

Thompson's Dairy, an independent, capitalized at $172,000 in 1924, showed gross earnings of $81,449, G. W. Rosen, an auditor, told the committee. Profits of this company have ranged from 8 per cent to 40 per cent, since that time it was disclosed.

Since 1924, he said, the bulk of the gross earnings has been di-

Pennsylvania Stages First Parade of NRA

Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 16 (AP).—America's first official NRA parade, celebrating the strike truce in southwestern Pennsylvania's soft coal field, attracted more than 30,000 persons tonight, who joined in a tumultuous demonstration.

Gen. Amos A. Fries, chairman of the national parade committee of the Recovery Administration, and Col. Hector Lazo, a member of the NRA, flew from Washington to participate and afterwards addressed a crowd of more than 10,000 at Hustead Field.

Coast Guard Hunts 60 Tagged Tunas

New York, Aug. 16 (AP).—Coast Guardsmen were assigned to another duty today, in addition to their routine of blasting icebergs, saving swimmers and aiding ships in distress.

By order of the Treasury Department they will keep a weather eye out for 60 tuna fish liberated by a government aquarium in Lisbon, Portugal, June 22, 1932.

The Portuguese Legation in Washington made the request to the State Department, which passed it on to the Coast Guard. The idea is to start an international movement to ascertain the habits, customs and traditions of the tuna, important in the Portuguese fishing trade.

The guardsmen's task was simplified, as each tuna carries on its tail a metal disc with the notation "R. P. Aquario, Lisbao, Portugal."

Steel Code Held Near; President Clears Path To Rush NRA Program

Trying to Settle Steel Problems

Chief Executive Acts to Eliminate Delays and Opposition.

Newspaper Code Receives Approval

Johnson Hastens Pacts For Automobile, Oil and Coal Groups.

President Roosevelt yesterday gathered the power of his recovery machinery to eliminate opposition and delay from the path of the recovery program.

Myron Taylor, chairman of the board of the U. S. Steel Corporation, and Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Co., conferred with the President at the White House for an hour. Other representatives of the steel industry conferred throughout the day with recovery officials.

Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, at the end of a hard-driving day, told reporters that he is confident a code for the steel industry will be agreed on soon.

Opposition to the provisions of the recovery law, especially collective bargaining, has centered in the steel industry and in concerns directly or indirectly controlled by the steel interests.

Quiet on Conference.

Earlier in the afternoon K. M. Simpson, deputy administrator in charge of the steel code negotiations, said the day had brought no change in the situation, made tense the day before when representatives of the steel industry refused to sit in a conference called by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins at which William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, was present as the representative of the labor advisory board of the Recovery Administration.

No announcement was made at the White House following the visit of the steel men. They asked for the conference at which to lay some of their problems before the Chief Executive, it was said.

Gen. Johnson bent efforts to speed drafting and approval of codes to govern other important industries, including oil, coal and automobiles.

Oil Men Meet Today.

Representatives of the oil industry are to confer with Gen. Johnson this morning. Public hearings have been held on proposals for governing the industry and it was understood the recovery administrator will offer compromise proposals today.

A proposed price control advanced by oil men was stricken from the code by the recovery administration but that, linked with the question of control of production, continues in the forefront of discussions.

Gen. Johnson took a partially completed oil code to the White House late in the afternoon and discussed its provisions with President Roosevelt prior to submitting the compromise to the oil men today.

Hearings will begin tomorrow on the automobile code submitted by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Representatives of the industry conferred yesterday with Robert Lea, deputy administrator, who will have charge of the hearings. Henry Ford, largest manufacturer, has remained without the fold.

Green at Meeting.

Green sat in the conferences as the representative of the labor advisory board and there were mutual expressions of esteem. The automobile code, like many others which have been submitted, con-

Repeal Bill Presented To Kentucky Assembly

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 16 (AP).—A bill providing for election of 15 delegates from the State at large on November 7 to pass upon repeal of the prohibition amendment at a State convention on December 11, was introduced at the special session of the Kentucky General Assembly today.

The measure is sponsored by the Democratic administration of Gov. Ruby Laffoon.

U. S. Mediator Moves to Halt Major Strike

60,000 Garment Workers Walk Out in Protest to Sweatshops.

New York, Aug. 16 (AP).—The first major industrial strike in the metropolitan area since creation of the NRA—a walkout of 60,000 garment workers—was only a few hours old today when the Government stepped in to mediate.

Former Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, chairman of the city committee of the NRA, was authorized by the National Labor Board at Washington to negotiate a settlement. He said he had perfected plans to end the dispute and would confer with leaders of the workers at a hotel tomorrow at noon.

Whalen said that he had been in telephonic communication with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and that the NRA administrator was in full accord with his mediation endeavors. He expressed the belief the strike and the conditions that caused it would be a matter of history by Monday.

The strike, which has as its object higher wages and the end of the sweatshop, according to labor leaders, affected garment workers in New York, New Jersey, parts of Eastern Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

The strike started quietly at 10 a. m. Although the busy garment district was crowded with strikers, police reported only minor disturbances and only six arrests.

Labor leaders claimed the strike would deal a final blow to sweatshop conditions in the industry, which they allege have existed for years.

Mrs. Freida Riley Freed in Florida

Miamian Who Assaulted Baltimorean Receives Conditional Pardon.

Tallahassee, Fla., Aug. 16 (AP).—The State pardon board today granted a conditional pardon to Mrs. Freida J. Riley, of Miami, sentenced to serve 10 years in prison for assaulting Mrs. Adeline Stork, of Baltimore.

Full pardons were granted to her son, Bernard Riley, and Jimmy Duffy, both convicted with her.

The pardon board took action on Mrs. Riley's case shortly after her appeal from conviction was dismisssed by the State Supreme Court on application of her attorneys.

Duffy was sentenced to seven years in prison for aiding Mrs. Riley in the attack on Mrs. Stork. Bernard Riley was placed under suspended sentence.

Odd Job Man Gets $1,800 as Swindler

Owen Sound, Ont., Aug. 16 (AP). A transient who looked enough like a millionaire to cash a bogus check for $1,500 and have another accepted as payment for a $600 automobile is being hunted by police of western Ontario.

The man, who applied for relief at Kincardine some time ago under the name of Barrymore Foster, was engaged as an odd-job man at the home of Arthur Fraser, reputedly wealthy Philadelphian, at Inverhuron Beach.

Foster purchased the automobile with a check purporting to be signed by Fraser and drove away. Local police received word today from Guelph that a check for $1,500 had been cashed there.

Reyjavik, Iceland, Aug. 16 (AP). Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh expect to remain in Iceland until at least Friday, when they may fly to England.

The couple will await their base ship, the Jelling, due here Friday morning with supplies. Meanwhile, they will continue their northern aerial route mapping activities with flights in this vicinity.

Col. Lindbergh said last night that England might be their next destination. (The distance to North Scotland is about 600 miles and to England about 850).

300 Assyrians Killed in Iraq

Newspaper Report Holds Kurds Used In Attack On Christians.

London, Thursday, Aug. 17 (AP).—The Daily Herald reported today that more than 300 Assyrian Christians had been massacred in a village in northern Iraq within two miles of an Iraq army camp.

The killings were attributed to the commander of Iraq troops in northern Iraq who was said to have used Kurds to attack the Assyrians as they were returning from French Syria after recent border disturbances.

The commander also was alleged to have caused 14 Assyrian prisoners to be summarily shot.

The Herald said the affair would be investigated by the League of Nations.

More than 100 persons were reported killed early this month in savage warfare between the Iraq army and Assyrian Christians who crossed into Syria from their territory in Iraq.

Police Nip Kidnap Plot on Capitalist

St. Louis Authorities Also Reveal Extortion Plan Against Brewer.

St. Louis, Aug. 16 (AP).—Reported plots to kidnap Henry Chouteau, capitalist, and to extort between $5,000 and $10,000 from August A. Busch, jr., wealthy brewer, were revealed by police here tonight.

Joseph Gerk, chief of police, said he had discussed with Chouteau information regarding the alleged plot.

Gerk also said a letter demanding the money from Busch, vice president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., had been turned over to the postal authorities.

Weather Man Warns Of Storm In Tropics

(Associated Press.)

The Weather Bureau last night issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory, 9:30 p. m.—Tropical disturbance, slight to moderate intensity, central about 175 miles west by south of Jamaica, apparently moving west-northwestward. Another disturbance of slight intensity developing in neighborhood of Granada."

July Pay Rolls Boosted, Fifth Month in Row

'Very Satisfactory,' Says Roosevelt, Discussing Recovery Figures.

American industry reported larger factory pay rolls and improved employment conditions in July, for the fifth consecutive month. Every report since April has shown an improvement over the previous month, but in both June and July the percentage of increase has been larger than in the earlier months of the recovery period.

As compared with a year ago, 89 principal industries showed a combined increase of 21.9 per cent in the number of workers employed in July, and an increase of 28.8 per cent in the aggregate weekly pay roll index.

These index figures mean the combined weekly pay roll for American factories stood at about $109,000,000 last month, as against $85,000,000 a week in July last year.

The combined factory roll last month showed a few more than 6,000,000 persons employed, against 5,000,000 in July last year.

President Pleased.

In discussing these official complications of the Labor Department at his press conference yesterday, President Roosevelt described the indicated sustained recovery trend as "very satisfactory." There has been a slight seasonal decline in some industrial lines since the last week in July, but Labor Department experts anticipate that with the NRA spread-work movement gaining momentum almost daily, the August employment index will show an improvement over July.

One of the most encouraging facts called to the President's attention is that automobile production up to August 10 this year equaled the output for the entire calendar year 1932. Although the demand for new cars has fallen off slightly during the last month it still is abnormally well sustained for this season of the year.

18,090 Plants Surveyed.

The Labor Department's July survey covered 18,090 manufacturing establishments with a combined employment roll of 3,023,821 persons. These establishments represent, roughly, half of the total factory employment in the country. Their combined weekly pay roll for July was $54,553,744, showing average weekly earnings of approximately $18 for each worker. This figure is about $4 a week better than the minimum wage prescribed in the principal NRA industrial codes approved to date.

Using the average for the year 1926 as the index base of 100, the Labor Department computed July factory employment at 67.3 per cent of normal. The index for June this year was 62.8 per cent of normal. The increase in factory employment for the month was officially computed at 7.2 per cent.

The Labor Department regards the July increase in employment as especially significant, for the reason the normal seasonal tendency between June and July is downward.

Figures Contrasted.

During the ten years since 1923 the July survey has shown an average decrease of 2.2 per cent in employment as compared with June and an average decline of 5.4 per cent in combined factory pay rolls. This year, employment increased by 7.2 per cent over June and combined pay rolls for July were 7.9 per cent better than June.

President Roosevelt was particularly pleased to note that the July pay-roll index improved by a greater percentage over June than did the employment rolls. This tendency he interpreted as evidence of a generally rising wage rate throughout domestic industry, in response to demands of the industrial recovery program.

Out of 89 manufacturing industries surveyed in July, 77 reported increases in wage earners at work and 71 recorded larger weekly pay rolls.

"The twelve industries reporting decreases in employment between June and July," the Labor Department's report said, "were those which usually report seasonal declines at this time, the most pronounced losses appearing in the silverware, women's clothing and millinery industries. Five of the 12 decreases reported in July were changes of less than 1 per cent."

Other Figures Recorded.

Despite the sustained industrial improvement since the March crisis, however, combined factory pay rolls in July were but 46.5 per cent of the 1926 average. From the July level, therefore, these pay rolls would have to double before the 1926 volume of purchasing power is completely restored to industrial workers of the Nation.

With the factory survey, the Labor Department also made public comparative index figures covering 16 nonmanufacturing industries. Twelve of the 16 groups covered by this report showed increases in the number of men at work and 11 reported larger weekly pay rolls in July than in June.

The only notable decline in both employment and pay rolls was in the building construction industry, which reported a fractional loss in both indices.

5,000,000 Hogs Go To Nation's Needy

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt stamped his approval yesterday on the Agriculture Department's plan to kill two birds with one stone by slaughtering about 5,000,000 swine that the farmers don't know how to feed and giving them to hungry unemployed.

The program has been worked out by the department primarily to aid farmers who have more hogs than they can feed because of the drought in the farm belt.

Though plans for getting the meat to the distressed unemployed have not been announced, Harry L. Hopkins, Federal relief administrator, said he would begin distribution soon and turn the meat over "to the most needy families."

U. S. to Attend Geneva Arms Parley Oct. 16

Davis Confers With President and Phillips; Program Modified.

The United States will attend the Geneva disarmament conference October 16 with a modified program.

Norman H. Davis, ambassador-at-large, called at the White House yesterday and conferred with President Roosevelt. Earlier in the day he had talked with Undersecreary of State William Phillips, reviewing the work of the conference.

The modification in the American disarmament plan will be more in the spirit of the American delegation than in the actual program presented. The President is known to be anxious to secure agreement among the great powers for reduction of armament burdens, but he prefers that the United States not take the initiative.

A fortnight ago the Navy Department announced the naval building program to the amount of $238,000,000 for the construction of 37 ships to bring the United States nearer its quota under the London Treaty.

The President is known to feel that what has been called the "missionary attitude" of the United States at the disarmament meetings should now be abandoned. The Government will be ready to go as far as any other nations in reducing the costs of maintaining military establishments, but it will follow and not lead.

Milk Cost Threat Disclosed in Quiz

verted to additional capitalization, so that it now has a capitalization of $571,000.

Threat of failure of Washington milk distributors was used to bludgeon dairy farmers into acquiescence to low prices for their product, the committee was told.

Heeps Denies Warning.

Enormous profits, it was disclosed, were being reaped by distributors when the warning of pending failures was made by Isaac W. Heeps, of Baltimore, who is manager of the Eastern States Marketing Association. This association handles milk for the Washington and Baltimore areas.

"Heeps told us that Washington distributors had to have a better spread or they wouldn't be able to exist," said Lawson King, a dairy farmer. Heeps denied that he had ever made the assertion.

"He talked so much in favor of the distributors that I asked him 'Do you expect the farmers to believe that?' and I received no answer," said King.

M. S. Action Revealed.

The Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association received a warning from the Department of Justice when it diverted the milk supply from an independent distributor to a local affiliate of the National Dairy Produce Corporation, it was revealed.

John Magill, jr., secretary of the association, said that the practice of diversion had then been stopped. He also admitted he had asked the cooperation of the Thompson Dairy in having trucks which brought milk to the dairy to discontinue delivering milk to the Alderney-Green Meadows and Fairfax Farms Dairy. The latter dairy is the one from which the milk had been diverted.

Price Agreement Denied.

Both Magill and Heeps emphatically denied, under questioning by Senators William H. King and Pat McCarran, that they had ever sought an agreement on the retail price of milk. Their sole interest, they said, is that the producer get a fair price for his product.

Production costs do not enter into the price of milk received by the producer, Heeps testified. The only practice, he explained, is to fix the price of milk shipped into Washington at 4 cents per gallon higher than the price paid for milk shipped into the Baltimore area. The prices, he admitted, are purely arbitrary, and are fixed by him, Mr. Magill, and F. W. Walker, president of the Maryland and Virginia Producers Association. Heeps receives a salary of $18,000 a year from the Maryland Dairymen's League, and $5,000 from the Maryland and Virginia Producers Association.

Floridian Named Labor Assistant

Richardson Saunders, of Miami, Well Known as Financial Expert.

Richardson Saunders, Florida, engineer and financial expert, yesterday was appointed by President Roosevelt as Assistant to the Secretary of Labor.

His new post will be Saunders' second Government job. From 1919 to 1923 he served with the U. S. Shipping Board as consulting engineer and financial adviser. Prior to this connection he had done work in engineering and business reorganization.

Since 1926 he has lived in Miami, where he has been president of the Chamber of Commerce, vice chairman of the board of directors of the City National Bank, and secretary to the Board of Regents of the University of Miami.

Order by Ickes Halts Selling Of Indian Land

Commissioner John Collier Acts Quickly to Nullify Allotment Law.

(Associated Press.)

The American Indian lands, long a subject of controversy between the red and white races, are to be immediately protected from further sale under an order approved yesterday by Secretary Ickes of the Interior Department.

Acting with the Secretary's approval, Commissioner John Collier, of the Indian Bureau, ordered all Indian superintendents to stop immediately the sale of Indian lands under the so-called allotment law.

Law Was Passed in 1887.

The allotment law, passed in 1887 to establish Indian reservations, provided each man, woman and child a parcel of land which was held in trust by the government. When the owner died it became virtually mandatory to sell the land, and neighboring Indians having little or no capital saw their lands passing into the hands of the white man.

When the law was passed the Indian lands in the country totaled 133,000,000 acres. At present they are only 47,000,000 acres and Collier asserts the sale of the Indian home lands has been one of the principal causes of "the ruin of tribes in all parts of the country."

Will Check Squandering.

Collier said the immediate effect of the order will be temporarily to check a squandering of Indian lands which, if continued, would disinherit all but a few. There are now 7,000,000 acres of irrigated and dry farming land belonging to heirs of deceased allottees which would have to be sold under the allotment system and the heirs would become homeless wanderers.

The order will apply to the Osages and the Five Tribes Indians insofar as the sale of their land is subject to control by the Federal Government.

President to Speed Recovery Program

tains an open shop provision, but that was not discussed, Lea said.

Despite the apparent tenseness over the situation in the steel and steel dominated industries, President Roosevelt and recovery officials found several things to point out as indicating beneficial results already achieved.

Labor Department figures showed an increase in employment in July for the fifth consecutive month. Employment increased 7.2 and pay rolls 7.9 per cent over June. It was pointed out that July usually shows a seasonal decline in both employment and pay rolls.

The recovery administration made public a code for newspaper publishers, held hearings on a code for lumber retailers and received proposed codes from other industries, including cigarette, chewing and smoking tobacco and snuff manufacturers.

Roosevelt Plan To Slash Total Of Army Posts

Allotting of Public Works Funds Delayed by His Economy Program.

The Army's allotment of public works funds is being held up because President Roosevelt expects to eliminate a number of Army posts, he said yesterday.

The President revealed that this reduction in the number of posts has been in his mind for some time. He has not decided what number of posts will be eliminated, but said that a consolidation would save many millions. The War Department has not been asked to recommend posts to be discontinued.

As an example of the dispersion of Army units, the President pointed to a regiment of 1,000 men which might be scattered in four localities.

None of the Army building program to be financed with public works money has been approved, the President said. It would be useless, he pointed out, to authorize a building on a post which would be abandoned. For this reason, the whole program is being held up.

There are only two reasons for building new barracks, the President said. One is to replace old and unsanitary barracks. The other is to provide quarters for men who now receive money to pay for their quarters off the Army posts.

There are eight Army posts in Maryland and Virginia, but War Department officials were hopeful that most of these would be retained. Forts Myer and George G. Meade, it is expected, will be continued, although Fort Washington may be discontinued.

Farley to Dedicate Albany Postoffice

Several Party Notables to Accompany Him on New York Trip.

Postmaster General Farley will lead a party of Democratic officials into his home State tonight for a round of visits, which will include dedication of the new postoffice in Albany, N. Y.

W. W. Howes, Second Assistant Postmaster General; Lawrence W. Robert, jr., Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Ambrose O'Connell, special assistant to the Postmaster General, and Emil Hurja, personnel director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, will accompany Mr. Farley from Washington. At New York they will be joined by Vincent Dailey, director of the Democratic Union of New York.

Mr. Farley will speak to the New York State postal supervisers, in Troy, tomorrow morning. The same day he will dedicate Albany postoffice.

On Saturday he will attend the Young Men's Democratic Club convention at Elmira. Sunday afternoon he will participate in a clambake of the Rockland County Democratic Club. Rockland is the home county of Mr. Farley. Monday he will attend a Democratic picnic of the Monmouth County, N. J., Democrats.

Labor Board Will Quiz Employers on Charges

(Associated Press.)

The National Labor Board has decided to deal directly with company officials in cases where workers charge they have been discriminated against and discharged because of union activities.

Dr. Leo Wolman, acting chairman, said yesterday that many complaints had been received, particularly from the coal fields of West Virginia and Kentucky. The first step will be to submit the charges by individuals, groups and organizations, to the company with a request for information. When that has been received, Dr. Wolman said, the board will be ready to act, if necessary.

New Post Offices Filled.

(Associated Press.)

Appointment of Charles G. Coppege as Postmaster at Beaumont, Powhatan County, and Mrs. Janet Senad as Postmaster at Elk Hill, Goochland County, both in Virginia, was announced yesterday by the Post Office Department. Both are new offices. The department also announced establishment of a star-route service from Mount Solon to Bridgewater Railway Station via Bridgewater.

Late Rainfall Mars Music of Juvenile Fete

3,500 Scurry Away At Climax of Program; Performers Hailed.

Up to the time of "The Star-Spangled Banner" the Weatherman managed to keep the lowering clouds from leaking too much last night, but at that point they sprung unpluggable leaks, and 3,500 persons scurried away from the "Summertime Juvenile Festival of 1933," presented under auspices of the Community Center Department at the Sylvan Theater.

A great diversity of acts was presented, of which, if a prizewinner were to be selected, the "Indian Camp Scene," depicted by the Salvation Army Life-Saving Scouts and Guards, directed by Capt. Wilbur Young, would take the honors. Of the specialities, the Egyptian dance of Betty Raymond and the acrobatic peacock routine of Marion Wolburg, student of the Hoffman-Haskins School of Dance and taker of the first price in the recent Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer competition, must be singled out for especial mention.

Other Features.

Runners-up for honors would include "Scenes from Robin Hood," sung by the Lucky Friday Boys Glee Club of Friendship House under the direction of Alice Byars, Bernice Anderson and Sara Bergling, with Sonia de Blumenthal as accompanist; "Dances from Foreign Lands," by a group from the Neighborhood House, directed by Lena Barghausen, with Mrs. Joseph Stoddard, pianist, and Mrs. Duff Lewis, violinist, and the series of night-club sketches and impersonation by members of the Washington Juvenile Artists Club.

Showing the effects of haste in preparation, but nevertheless timely in conception, was the Southeast Community Center's presentation of "The Dance of the Blue Eagle," originated and staged by Evelyn Davis and accompanied by Laurette Marks Hullings.

The Boys Band played Sousa's "Under the Double Eagle" for a stirring finale.

Boys Band Hailed.

The Washington Elks Boys Band deserves especial credit for its well-played concert prior to the main program, as well as furnishing incidental music and the closing playing of the national anthem so melodramatically greeted by the weatherman.

Among the other groups participating were Troop 79, Boy Scouts, E. L. Maschmayer, scoutmaster; groups from the Virginia Avenue and Chevy Chase Playgrounds; Boys Club of Washington, led by Allen Larken; Troop 78, Girl Scouts, directed by Lieut. Esther Pick, and Girl Reserves Camp "Stay at Home" of the Y. W. C. A., directed by Mabel R. Cook and Esther Quisenberry.

Citizen's Suit Against Ogden Mills Dismissed

Louisville, Aug. 16 (AP).—A citizen's suit against former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, Robert H. Lucas and other Federal officials seeking $1,318,000 for alleged failure to collect income taxes, has been dismissed by Federal Judge Charles I. Dawson.

The suit charged failure to collect taxes from William F. Knebelkamp on profits alleged to have been made on an illegal whisky transaction. Judge Dawson said there was a "misjoinder of parties in the suit" and that it was "fatally lacking in definiteness."

Wet Ballot Seen In Missouri Poll

Governor Urges Citizens to Vote; 3-to-1 Repeal Victory Likely.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 16 (AP).—Gov. Guy B. Park today urged Missouri citizens to vote Saturday in the State election on the proposed repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"I was elected on and I will stand on the Democratic platform," he said, forecasting returns favoring repeal 3 to 1.

Lack of interest of the average Missourian has caused antiprohibition chieftains their only expressed concern. Dry leaders have made no forecast of the result. Joseph T. Davis, St. Louis attorney and head of the United Repeal Council of Missouri, said 100 of the State's 114 counties favored elimination of the eighteenth amendment.

Missouri is the twenty-second State to vote on the question. The 21 which have balloted all favored repeal.

Roosevelt Gets Celler Liquor Control Plan

A plan for Federal control of the liquor traffic following repeal of the eighteenth amendment was presented to President Roosevelt yesterday by Representative Emanuel Celler (Democrat), New York.

Representative Celler, a member of the House Judiciary Committee, declined to reveal details of his plan, but stated that it would provide for codification of State liquor laws, Federal liquor distribution and policing the dry States.

Roper Differs With Johnson On Federal Cut

Says He Finds no Inconsistency with Drive to Get Industry Jobs.

Secretary of Commerce Roper sees no inconsistency in the Government's policy of cutting personnel while industry is called upon to boost wages and hire more workers under the Blue Eagles.

"In thinking through this situation, it should not be overlooked that we are dealing in the departments with a future, continuing and permanent program, and under national recovery with a temporary and emergency program," he told newspapermen yesterday.

Differs With Johnson.

His statement was in direct conflict with the view voiced Tuesday by National Recovery Administrator Johnson that "every one knows that there is an inconsistency, and a regrettable one."

Mr. Roper is chairman of the National Recovery Board, of which Gen. Johnson is a member.

"This administration has promised the people that expenditures in operation of the normal functions of the Government should be reduced at least 25 per cent, or a necessary amount, to keep expenditures for the normal function of government within its income," Secretary Roper said yesterday.

Employe Total Not Cut.

"This plan has been carried out. The other feature is an emergency program, so recognized by Congress in the appropriations for its public works and recovery endeavors."

Roper made public figures indicating there are almost as many people employed in the Government in Washington now as in the peak month June, 1932. There were 65,619 in civil service agencies then, and his figures indicate there are 63,067 civil service employes now. But, in addition, emergency agencies have hired about 2,500 workers in Washington.

Lawyer Admits Murder of 4 to Avert 'Squeal'

Ohioan Says He Poisoned Whole Family to Be Sure of Silence.

Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 16 (U.P.). Mark H. Shank, Akron, Ohio, lawyer, confessed today that he fatally poisoned four persons in a frantic effort to protect his legal reputation.

Shank told authorities, in a detailed confession, that he put strychnine in grape juice drunk in a roadside lunch yesterday by Alvin Colley, his wife and their three children.

Colley died at the wheel of his small roadster just before it careened into a fence off the Little Rock-Malvern highway late yesterday.

Mrs. Colley was found dead by her husband's side. Two of their children, Clement, 10, and Clyde, 7, were sitting dead in the rumble seat. Their youngest son, 4-year-old Cline, was alive but ill today from the poison.

Colley had fled Akron July 27 before officers could serve on him a warrant for stealing an allegedly forged receipt from the Akron prosecuting attorney's office. The receipt was evidence against a client of Shank in a forgery case.

Shank admitted, authorities said, that he trailed the Colley family to Arkansas and poisoned them to keep himself from being involved in the theft case. He was afraid Colley would tell officers, should he be caught, that the attorney had hired him to steal the paper.

Shank was caught as he fled the Colley automobile after it crashed with the dead driver at the wheel.

Mrs. E. P. Wheatley Funeral Tomorrow

Requiem Mass Will be Said At 10 a. m. at Church of the Nativity.

Requiem mass at the Church of the Nativity will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow for Mrs. Emma Phillippa Wheatley, who died Tuesday evening at her home, 508 Concord avenue. Interment will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mrs. Wheatley was 77 years old. She had been a resident of Washington for 74 years. She was made a widow about six years ago by the death of her husband, Joseph M. Wheatley, to whom she was married February 22, 1881. Mr. Wheatley was a coal merchant and owned three yards in Washington, one on the site of the present Union Station.

Surviving their mother are four children, Miss Mamie J. Wheatley, Mrs. Joseph Lorch, Mrs. George B. Barse and H. Winship Wheatley. Numerous grandchildren also survive.

Widow Is Grilled In 'Torch' Death

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 16 (AP).—Earl Hanson, who died in his flaming automobile last Sunday, was buried today, but his former wife did not attend the funeral services.

She was questioned again concerning the mysterious death of her divorced husband and again declared she had nothing to do with it.

"I have told everything I know about it," she told State's Attorney Robert Nash.

"I can face my Maker with a clear conscience."

Authorities announced no further progress in their study of clews, which included a porcelain basin and a box of penny matches found near the driveway of Mrs. Hanson's home, where her former husband was burned to death, and a container of gasoline in her garage from which some fuel had been extracted.

Officials believe some one poured gasoline on Hanson's car or person and then applied a match.

4,000 Admirers Visit Renovized Old House

More than 4,000 persons had visited the renovized house, at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, up to last night.

The house, star exhibit of the Board of Trade's Renovized Washington campaign, was opened Monday night. Its transformation from a shack has been hailed as a remarkable demonstration of renovise possibilities.

Mutiny Is Ended By Prison Miners

Petros, Tenn., Aug. 16 (AP).—Their strike ended, 182 Brushy Mountain Prison convicts who mutinied as a protest against a new deputy warden's discipline were back at work today in the mine where they carried on a two-day revolt.

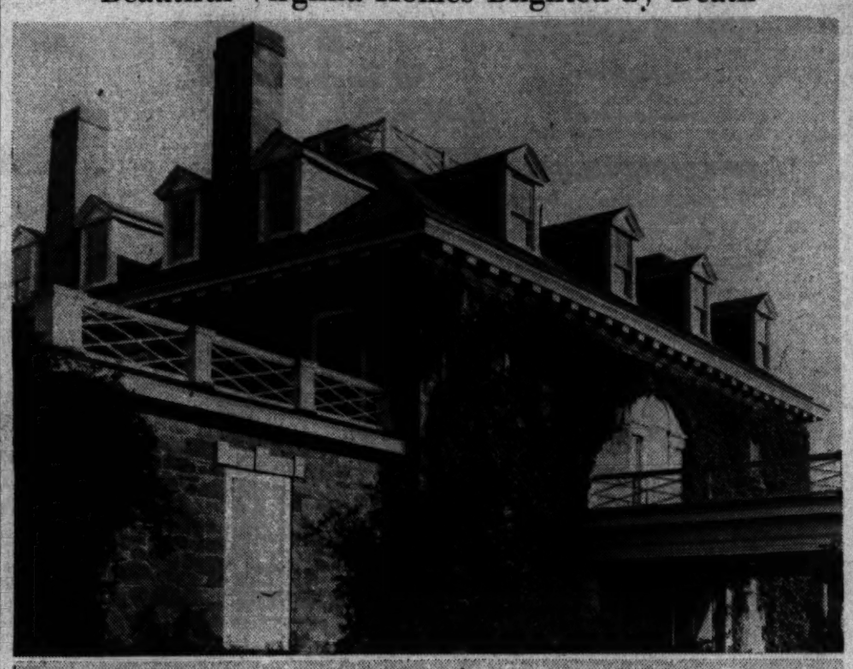
"Everything's lovely," was the succinct description of the situation given by Dr. E. W. Cocke, State commissioner of institutions, who late yesterday induced the main body of the insurgents to come out of the mine and lay their complaints before him.

About a score had straggled out before Dr. Cocke's arrival from Nashville, and all but 17 emerged late yesterday after he had gone to the mine entrance and assured two spokesmen for the revolters that he would deal with them "man to man" and hear their complaints against Deputy Warden O. C. Hendricks. The 17 holdouts gave up during the night.

Highway Markers Placed.

Installation of U. S. highway markers was started yesterday by the District, Wisconsin avenue being the first thoroughfare to have the shields placed. Within the next few days, the work will be completed on all streets and avenues on through highway routes.

Beautiful Virginia Homes Blighted by Death



Above—The home of Gen. John Watts Kearney and his beautiful bride. Not more than a score of visitors ever entered the place from the time it was built until Mrs. Kearney died in 1920, according to neighbors and relatives. Only the immediate family was welcome in the home. Now it is closed to even the sun. Below—Repose, once the palatial home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Addison Patterson. The mansion overlooks Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson; Ash Lawn, the home of James Monroe, and the entire City of Charlottesville. It cost about a quarter of a million dollars to build. Patterson, son of a Charlottesville tailor who made a fortune in real estate, has never been back to it since his wife died. During her life they lived in virtual seclusion there.

Patterson and Kearney Mansions Located on Mountain Tops.

"For Sale" signs today placard two mountain-top palaces near Charlottesville—show places of Virginia—the result of recent deaths in millionaire families.

Behind each is a similar, weird story more fantastic than fiction. Yet, though neither family knew the other, except by sight, their stories almost parallel.

Each place is on the top of the highest peak of two Blue Ridge mountain ranges. Each cost more than $250,000 to complete. Each is a marvel of architectural beauty—replete with luxurious appointments. Only the footsteps of an occasional prospective buyer and the hushed voices in conversation with caretakers echo through the castle-like halls.

Detached seclusion—both places are quite inaccessible from public highways over winding mountain trails—has caused even steady, matter-of-fact caretakers to declare that ghosts of former owners pay the places frequent visits. Both caretakers were employed by the original owners, and they declare they have heard their former masters' voices in conversation with others of the family.

Tailor Became Wealthy.

"Repose," the more pretentious of the two places, was the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Addison Patterson. Patterson was the son of a Charlottesville tailor who went away in his youth to Philadelphia and there amassed a fortune in real estate. He returned to his home city, bought a mountain that was high enough and spacious enough to completely overlook the homes of Thomas Jefferson at Monticello and James Monroe at Ash Lawn and there built an exquisite mansion.

Nowhere in Virginia is a more beautiful view obtainable than from the front lawn of this magnificent place. Pride of possession alone should have made the builder eager to show it to all his friends and countrymen, but he did just the opposite. On one occasion, according to servants and neighbors, two friends of the family over a long period motored from another State to visit the master and mistress of "Repose" only to be met at the door and told that no visitors were being received.

Finally, death took Mrs. Patterson. Without once returning to the mansion after the funeral, Patterson gave the entire estate—house, stables, servants, residence and all—to a Charlottesville hospital which is now trying to sell it. Furniture worth thousands of dollars has been removed to the hospital and the mansion is bare. But lack of interior decoration does not rob the place of its beauty.

Owned by Gen. Kearney.

With the death three weeks ago of Gen. John Watts Kearney, at his daughter's home in Cape May, N. J., public attention was called to the other mansion and the weird story of its occupancy. The place is just across the mountain tops from University of Virginia observatory on the other fork of the Blue Ridge mountains from that on which "Repose" is located.

Months were required to level the top of the mountain. Then a mansion of hand cut stone containing 25 rooms was erected by the general for his youthful bride. It was Gen. Kearney's second marriage. His wife was 23 and he was in his sixties, records show. Mrs. Kearney was considered one of the most beautiful women in the South, socially prominent and the daughter of Mrs. Julian Harrison of the University of Virginia. The wedding was at the home of Maj. Green Payton in West Range of the university, and was an event of great social importance. That was in 1898. Immediately afterward Gen. Kearney built the palace for his bride and, according to stories of relatives and neighbors, not more than a score of persons other than immediate relatives visited the home as guests until the death of Mrs. Kearney in 1920.

Again, as soon as the wife had died, the husband abandoned the home and took up residence elsewhere. False blinds have been erected. The place is closed even to the light of the sun.

In the palatial reception room are pieces of gilded furniture fashionable in the "gay nineties" and now doubly enhanced in value by virtue of their age and design. Gen. Kearney's den has been dismantled except for the huge fireplace, a corner book case of hand carved walnut containing a number of law books—he was a prominent lawyer in Washington and New York—and a spacious wood box which hid kindling for the fireplace and was a bench on which to sit before the fire.

Once again the view is magnificent. Terraces of roses are tangled and matted until the terrace walls are hardly visible. The place bespeaks utter abandon and desolation, yet containing untold possibilities to the man with money and an eye for the beautiful.

"After the missus died, the general wouldn't let us cut any of the vines or anything. Honeysuckle overran the place and the rambler roses took to the trees," the caretaker said. "It is such a beautiful place it is a shame to let it grow up this way. But that was the general's orders—he was indeed a strange man."

Jamaica Floods Take 70 Lives

$2,000,000 Damage Done by Worst Tragedy in 80 Years.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 16 (AP). Seventy persons were drowned early today in floods which struck this city and the parishes of St. Thomas, St. Catherine and St. Mary following upon a storm accompanied by lightning and high wind.

Damage was estimated at approximately $2,000,000 as bridges and buildings were swept away and banana plantations leveled. One hundred houses were abandoned they were damaged so badly.

The government established relief stations to care for the homeless.

The storm, which lasted six hours, was described as the worst in eighty years.

Assailant Hunted In Fatal Stabbing

Man Dies In Hospital After Attacker at Former's Home Escapes.

Collier Miller, 32, colored, employe of the Washington Gas Light Co., was stabbed to death last night on the sidewalk in front of his home, 2408 Virginia avenue northwest.

Neighbors told police that Miller was attacked by an unidentified Negro as he entered the front yard of his home. Miller's assailant escaped before the arrival of police.

Detectives at the Third Precinct investigating the murder, said they knew Miller's assailant and immediately launched a search. Miller died at Emergency Hospital.

5 Robbers Routed By Cashier's Shots

Fletcher, Okla., Aug. 16 (AP).—Bullets from the pistol of George Littlefield, assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Fletcher, routed five men who attempted to rob the bank this afternoon.

Littlefield attempted to discharge a tear gas gun when two of the men entered the bank, but the weapon failed to work. He ducked quickly for a pistol. The robbers opened fire and Littlefield returned it. When one of the pair apparently was wounded they fled to an automobile and roared away with their three companions.

The assistant cashier estimated more than 20 shots were exchanged. He was uninjured.

D. J. Callahan, Washington Is Supreme President Catholic Order.

Chicago, Aug. 16. (AP)—Martin H. Carmody, of Grand Rapids, today was reelected supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus at the closing convention session of the supreme council of the organization.

Except for routine business transactions, the only action of the convention was adoption of a resolution pledging cooperation with the national recovery act.

Other officers reelected were William McGinley, of New York, supreme secretary; D. J. Callahan, of Washington, D. C., supreme president; Luke E. Hart, of St. Louis, supreme advocate; Dr. Edward W. Fahey, of St. Paul, supreme physician, and David F. Supple, of San Francisco, supreme warden.

Walkout Is Ended By Cigar Makers

Tampa Workers Charged Factories Violated Pact with NRA.

Tampa, Fla., Aug. 16 (AP).—More than 4,000 cigar workers went back to their jobs today, ending a strike which took nearly 9,000 men from Tampa factories last Wednesday.

Practically all factories closed by the walkout were either in production today or preparing to begin tomorrow. Long lines of workers formed at each factory.

The workers quit their jobs, claiming the manufacturers were not operating under provisions of the National Recovery Administration.

Reno, Nev., Aug. 16 (A.P.).—George B. Thatcher, attorney for Carole Lombard, said today she would file suit at Carson City Friday for dissolution of her marriage to William Powell, film star. Thatcher said Powell would not contest the action.

Urschel Kidnap Suspects Held On Huge Bond

Bailey and Two Texas Farmers, Wives Deny Guilt in Jail Court.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 16 (AP).—The Federal Government took the first steps today in the prosecution of Harvey Bailey and four others, charged with the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire, by ordering them held on bonds totaling $300,000.

Each pleaded not guilty before Lee R. Smith, United States Commissioner, in an improvised courtroom on the fifth floor of the Dallas County jail, where they had been since their arrest early Saturday morning at a farmhouse near Paradise, Tex.

Bonds were set as follows: Bailey, $100,000; R. G. Shannon, Wise County farmer, on whose land Bailey was captured; Mrs. Shannon, Armon Shannon, his son, and Mrs. Oleta Shannon, Armon's wife, $50,000 each.

Federal agents pointed out that even though Bailey were to make bond, they still would not release him since he is an escaped convict from the Kansas Penitentiary at Lansing and charged with murder in connection with the Kansas City Union Station massacre, in which four policemen and a convict were killed in an attempt to free the convict.

Bailey and the Shannons will be held here pending possible removal to Oklahoma City on Federal warrants, which arrived yesterday.

Police at Denver today increased their guard over Albert Bates, held there as another of the kidnapers of Urschel. At the same time, Colorado officers kept a close watch for a 16-cylinder car believed to have been occupied by George (Machine Gun) Kelly, the third man Federal officers say was connected with the abduction.

Alabama Lynching Probe Is Postponed

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Aug. 16 (U.P.).—A special grand jury investigating the lynching of two Negroes Sunday recessed late today until September 4 without making any report.

Circuit Solicitor Edward DeGraffenreid said the recess was necessary to give time for "additional investigation."

The solicitor said he felt "certain he will be able to clear up this deplorable affair."

Oil Man Is Charged In $91,000 Bond Theft

Los Angeles, Aug. 16 (AP).—Elmer S. Wagoner, 38, former Oklahoma City oil man, arrested here August 5 as he stepped from an airplane with a handbag containing $91,000 worth of Liberty bonds and Federal gold notes, was charged today with receiving and bringing stolen property into the State.

Arraigned in Municipal Court, Wagoner was held in default of $50,000 bail, and his preliminary hearing set for August 25.

"Rubberneck" Wagon Gives Horses Break

Hollywood, Aug. 16 (AP).—Horse-drawn vehicles for sightseeing are coming back to Hollywood, along with roller skating and bicycle riding.

The board of public utilities and transportation, considering an application by Wallace Braden to operate a motorless rubberneck wagon, ruled that it had no power to keep him off the streets.

$12,000,000 Promised For Upper Mississippi

(Associated Press.)

Senator Schall (Republican) Minnesota, said yesterday that President Roosevelt told him he was authorizing the immediate use of $12,000,000 to build the 9-foot channel in the upper Mississippi River.

The Minnesota senator, who conferred at the White House, also said the President wanted the dams so constructed for the upper Mississippi project that the channel could eventually be made 12 feet deep. A total cost of about $100,000,000 is expected to cover the whole project which the President has in mind.

Rousing Device Relied Upon by Distance Flier

Water Squirt and Siren to Aid de Pinedo; Hop Data Stolen.

New York, Aug. 16 (AP).—Sneak thieves broke into the automobile of Gen. Francesco de Pinedo today and stole instruments and data the Italian flier intended to use on his proposed long-distance transoceanic flight.

The aviator and his backer, Capt. Ugo V. D'Annunzio, were shopping downtown for charts and parked the automobile. The door was pried off and a brief case of important data, barograph and a chronograph were stolen.

Weather Is Adverse.

Gen. de Pinedo had planned to leave Floyd Bennett Field tomorrow in his huge Bellanca monoplane, but adverse weather conditions have developed.

The stolen data concerned operating tests made for fuel consumption, motor temperatures and performance over a period of months.

The Italian aviator, for his endeavor to break the long-distance flight record, has devised two methods for keeping awake.

The first method involves a siren which automatically screams when the plane's position varies from the course. The second consists of a gadget which will squirt water on his face in case the first method fails to awaken him.

He expects to fly at high altitudes and thus be able to sleep a few minutes at a time without danger of falling into the sea or crashing into a mountain range.

The 140-pound flier, who has been preparing more carefully for this trip, he said, than any other he has ever undertaken, is confident he will break the distance record set recently by the Frenchmen, Codos and Possi, who flew about 5,700 miles from New York to Rayak, Syria.

Postoffice Work Delayed by Ickes

(Associated Press.)

Plans for a large number of proposed new postoffices approved by the Treasury Department have been indefinitely put aside because Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, objected to one being erected in his home town of Winnetka, Ill.

The Secretary, glancing down the list submitted as prospective projects for public works funds, noted the recommendation for one in his home town to cost $160,000.

"We could use that much money in Winnetka," the Secretary said, "but not for that."

Commenting that it was probable none of the other cities on the list needed postoffices any worse than Winnetka, he had the entire group held up for study.

Baptists Meet In Alexandria, 500 Attending

Washington and Upperville Clergymen Deliver Addresses.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone: Alexandria 323.

The seventy-eighth annual session of the Potomac Baptist Association convened in the First Baptist Church in Alexandria yesterday, with 500 persons in attendance, 91 of whom are delegates. The association embraces Alexandria and the Counties of Arlington, Fairfax, Loudoun, Fauquier, Prince William, Stafford and Culpeper. The Rev. Charles Taylor, Hamilton, is moderator; the Rev. C. Wirt Trainham, Marshall, clerk, and the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, Alexandria, heads the committee of the entertaining church.

Three sessions were held yesterday. The convention will close this afternoon with the election of officers.

At the morning session the program committee, headed by the Rev. S. Y. Craig, Fairfax, submitted its report and this was followed by the recognition of pastors and visiting members. The report of the association worker was submitted by the Rev. Trainham, the treasurer's report by the Rev. G. H. Field, Upperville, and a report on women's work by Mrs. J. C. Rogers, Round Hill, which was followed by an address by the Rev. P. L. Mitchell, Clarendon.

Committee appointments were announced by the moderator, after which the Rev. Fletcher Ford, Upperville, delivered the annual sermon, his subject being "Plain Talk to My Fellow Churchmen."

The evening program included services of song and prayer; pageant by the B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist Church, and an address by the Rev. Dr. Rufus W. Weaver, Washington, whose subject was "Young Baptists Facing a Disturbing Future."

The session this morning will open at 10 o'clock.

That Other Suit.

ONE of the most puzzling problems in bidding is the question of when a player should bid his second suit if partner has supported the first. It is generally conceded that it must always be shown when the first suit is denied, as no fit has been discovered and it is essential to reach the contract which will please both hands the most. However, when a fit is already determined, the question of showing or concealing one's distribution becomes a real problem.

Broadly speaking, there are only four situations in which a new suit should be shown when the first has been supported. The first is when a game is highly doubtful, and it is barely possible that it might be made in the second suit and not in the first, as, for example, when a 5-4 distribution is held and it seems preferable to try to reach a declaration in which a 4-4 combination can be played, rather than a 5-3 or even a 5-4. The second is when some rebid must be made and it is desirable to use the type of bid which must be construed as an inferential force. This occurs most frequently when one's hand is fairly weak and the intention is to pass below game if partner makes a minimum response. The third occurs when it is desirable to make a mild slam try. The fourth is the rarest and occurs when a 3-no-trump contract seems desirable and when it is imperative that an attempt be made to force partner to bid. I will take these up in order.

The best example I can think of for the first situation occurred in Hand No. 1 of the American Bridge Olympic. Declarer held the following hand, and, of course, bid a Club.

Spades	A 3
Hearts	J 10
Diamonds	A Q J 4
Clubs	A Q 10 5 3

After a Heart over-call his partner raised to two Clubs. It is now apparent that the only possible game is in a minor, which requires eleven tricks. Partner's raise, while free, does not guarantee any tremendous strength and consequently eleven tricks will probably be very hard to make. It is imperative that the best contract be found and it might very well turn out that five Diamonds can be made, while four Clubs can not. Hence, the Diamond suit should be shown, and the proper bid is two Diamonds. Through this bid a final contract of five Diamonds is reached and made. Five Clubs can not be made, as partner's hand consists of the following:

Spades	Q 2
Hearts	7 5 3
Diamonds	K 10 8 6
Clubs	K J 8 6

It is apparent that, played in Diamonds, one Spade can be discarded on the long Club, whereas, at Clubs, the long Spade can not be discarded on anything.

The second case is quite common. Let us say that you have opened the bidding with one Spade, holding the following hand:

Spades	A K 7 6
Hearts	J 9 5 3
Diamonds	A J 10 4
Clubs	6

Partner raises to two spades. It is obvious that some rebid must be found, but the hand is not strong enough to justify a 3-Spade bid, as this would compel partner to bid four if he held only a normal raise. The proper bid is three Diamonds—an inferential force. If partner now bids three Spades, showing that his raise was weak, the hand should be passed. Make the hand only a little stronger, such as the following:

Spades	A K J 7 6
Hearts	Q 5 3
Diamonds	A J 10 4
Clubs	6

and the diamonds should not be shown at all. Four spades should be bid immediately.

The third case is extremely important, as many hands require mild Slam tries where a direct Slam try would be an overbid. Take, for example, the following hand:

Spades	A Q 8 7 5
Hearts	8 6
Diamonds	6
Clubs	A K J 5 4

You open the bidding with a spade and your partner responds with three spades. It is not hard to visualize a hand on which six could be made very easily and at the same time it is not hard to visualize a hand on which six would be set two tricks. Obviously, five spades could not be bid, as this would endanger game and also is much too strong. A four-club bid demands some response from partner other than four spades if he holds any additional values, and if he bids four spades, you should pass.

The last case is not so common as the others, but it is still necessary to mention it.

Spades	A J 9 5 4
Hearts	A Q 8 6
Diamonds	Q 5
Clubs	J 3

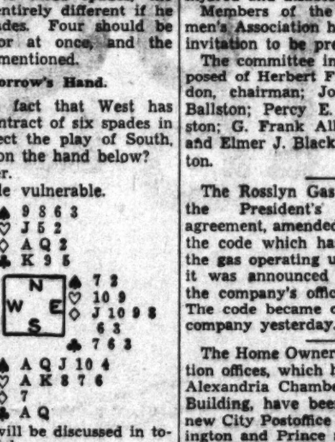
Here a spade is bid and partner raises to two spades. A game in a suit does not look very probable and yet a three-notrump contract might easily be made. If three hearts is bid, partner may bid three notrump and the game may be found at this declaration.

With the exception of the first, all the examples above refer to major suits. I am not including those cases where a four-card major must be shown after the bidding has been opened with a five-card minor, as these cases are too obvious to mention. I am merely trying to outline a subject which is puzzling even to experts. In example 3, where a bid of four clubs was recommended over partner's Raise to three spades, the situation is entirely different if he bids two spades. Four should be contracted for at once, and the clubs never mentioned.

Tomorrow's Hand.

Would the fact that West has doubled a contract of six spades in any way affect the play of South, as Declarer, on the hand below?

East, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Mecham Fights Party Line-up For Arlington

Election of Democratic Chairman Protested to State Committee.

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Declaring the election of the chairman of the county Democratic committee at the meeting at the courthouse Monday night in violation of the Virginia Constitution, Thomas R. Mechem, member of the committee from Lyon Park Precinct, filed his protest with State Democratic Chairman J. Murray Hooker, of Richmond, yesterday.

Mechem quoted the law, which reads:

"All elections by any representative body shall be viva voce and the vote recorded in the journal thereof."

The vote at the meeting was by secret ballot, he pointed out.

Another point claimed by Mechem, which he says he raised at the meeting but was overrulled by another secret ballot, was that the vacancies on the committee from Ballston, Cherrydale and Carne precincts should have been filled prior to the election.

In addition to filing his protest with Chairman Hooker, Mechem stated that he has also notified Delegate Hugh Reid, now in Richmond attending the special session of the General Assembly.

County Manager Roy S. Braden, in company with Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas and County Engineer C. L. Kinnier, will go to Richmond today to confer with Col. James A. Anderson, newly elected engineer for the advisory board, on the county's loan of $2,250,000 for installation of sewerage system under the industrial recovery act.

The second annual picnic given by the Kiwanis Club for children of the St. John's Orphanage, on Columbia Pike, was held last night. Earle W. English, chairman of the committee, arranged a supper which was prepared by Mrs. English and the wives of the club members and was followed by presentation of toys to the youngsters.

The Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association completed its plans at a meeting last night for the annual field day August 26 at Pershing drive and Glebe road.

The program will start at 1:30 p. m. Features will be a first-aid contest under the Red Cross rules, pumper contest for the Gloth Trophy, standing pumping contest, ladder climbing, hose laying and the tug-of-war.

The day will be designated as a tag day to raise funds for relief of injured and disabled firemen.

Members of the National Firemen's Association have accepted an invitation to be present.

The committee in charge is composed of Herbert F. Smith, Clarendon, chairman; John R. Malloch, Ballston; Percy E. Finisecy, Ballston; G. Frank Allwine, Jefferson, and Elmer J. Blackmer, jr., Arlington.

The Rosslyn Gas Co. has signed the President's reemployment agreement, amended to comply with the code which has been filed for the gas operating utilities industry, it was announced yesterday from the company's office at Clarendon. The code became operative by the company yesterday.

The Home Owners Loan Corporation offices, which have been in the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce Building, have been moved to the new City Postoffice Building, Washington and Prince streets. The office is on the third floor. Hours are 9 a. m. to 2 p. m.

Final Rites Today For Mrs. Spencer

Rockville Woman, 87, Was Active In Presbyterian Church Affairs.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary A. Spencer, widow of Frank A. Spencer, will be held at 11 a. m. today at her home, in Rockville, Md. The Rev. Henry K. Pasma, pastor of the Rockville Presbyterian Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mrs. Spencer died Tuesday at the age of 87. She was a daughter of the late Samuel G. Arnold, former editor of the Brooklyn (N.Y.) Eagle. Native of Brooklyn, Mrs. Spencer lived in Washington about 30 years, and in Rockville the past 35 years.

Her husband practiced law in Washington, specializing in patent law, until his death 20 years ago. Mrs. Spencer formally was president of the Rockville Woman's Club and was active in the affairs of the Rockville Presbyterian Church.

C. R. Eichberg Funeral Held in Alexandria

Funeral services for Charles Rudolph Eichberg, former resident of Alexandria, who died Monday night in Washington, were conducted yesterday at the Wheatley Funeral Home, Alexandria, by Rabbi Volkman, of Washington. Interment was in the Home of Peace Cemetery.

Pallbearers were C. S. Taylor Burke, Edgar Warfield, jr., R. M. Green, Leroy Bendheim, of Alexandria, and Messrs. Solomon and Vex, of Washington.

High Gasoline Price In Laurel Protested

Wholesale and retail gasoline and oil dealers have been invited to meet with the mayor and city council of Laurel Monday night at the City Hall, to discuss alleged excess prices in that community.

It is charged that dealers are being discriminated against as to prices, with resultant loss of business to dealers and merchants of the town.

Road Closing To Aid Airport Safety Sought

Mitchell Intends to Carry Fight to President if Other Means Fail.

Washington may have an Alexander cut its Washington-Hoover airport Gordian knot in the person of Ewing Y. Mitchell, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, in charge of aeronautics.

"We intend to close Military road and make our airport safe for daily use, even if we have to carry the fight to the President," Mr. Mitchell said yesterday, before a meeting of airline officials gathered to discuss means of Government economy in the operation of the Nation's airways.

Disturbed by criticisms of the airport that have poured into official Washington for years, Mr. Mitchell said he had started correspondence with Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the Air Corps, with a view to having the airport road temporarily closed by the Government.

He was reminded that legal difficulties have prevented this before. He explained that the Department of Commerce solicitor, South Trimble, jr., was looking into that situation.

"However, there must be some way of doing this without all the delay of congressional action, legal bickering and conferring," he said. "If the airport is unsafe for operation of airliners, Washington should not countenance its use. We have the word of experts galore that the field is a disgrace to the city, and something must be done."

Amy Mollison yesterday added her condemnation of the airport as she took off to return to New York. She thinks it a disgrace to the Capital of the United States, she said.

He Has 'Fine Trip' And U. S. Pays Bill

Indian Deported by U. S. Refused Admittance In Other Nations.

Los Angeles, Aug. 16 (AP).—Nomo Yakson, 45, returned today from a three weeks' vacation in Mexico and Central American countries, all expenses paid by the Federal Government.

Nomo says he is an Osage Indian, born in Oklahoma. Federal authorities arrested him in Cheyenne, Wyo., and took him to Denver, where the immigration officials decided he was a Mexican. They sent him to San Francisco and the immigration office there refused to listen to his claim regarding his nationality. They told Nomo he was to be deported.

July 27 Nomo sailed for Mexico aboard a fine liner, but when the ship docked at Manzanillo the authorities there refused to accept him, saying he was an Indian. Even that didn't convince Nomo's handlers, so he sailed away for Central America.

Guatemala wouldn't have him. Neither would San Salvadore. The boat turned around at Nicaragua, where it became quite evident that Nomo must be an Indian, and he started back for the United States.

"Well, I have fine trip, anyway," he said here today. "I got no work, but I like to travel."

Two Women Figure In Slaying Mystery

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 16. (AP).—Two women were brought into the investigation today of the mystery slaying of Dr. James I. Gaines, wealthy sportsman and drugless practitioner.

One, a pretty young brunette who is separated from her husband, was taken into custody as a material witness, Detective Arthur Aikman said, after her admission that she was with Gaines all but about ten minutes of the last two hours of his life.

The doctor visited her at her apartment Monday night after returning from a boating trip in Idaho, the detective said she told him.

The other woman, the detective said, accompanied Gaines on the boating trip. Her identity was known to police. She will be questioned, Aikman said.

Dr. Gaines was shot three times as he stepped from his automobile at his home early Tuesday morning.

Dairymen Will Demand Relief Program Speed

Chicago, Aug. 16 (AP).—Thirty representatives of American dairymen left for Washington today to ask that the Government speed up its relief program for milk producers.

They will ask a shake-up in the Relief Administration personnel, "less red tape" and immediate action in bringing about milk marketing codes for the various markets.

Air Mail Cost Will Be Pared HereNextWeek

Contractors Asked to Aid In Cuts Without Impairing Service.

Air mail contractors will meet in Washington August 24 to discuss with the Postoffice Department means of cutting 25 per cent from air mail expenses without impairing services.

Letters will be mailed today to contractors by W. W. Howes, Second Assistant Postmaster General in Charge of Air Mail, outlining an agenda for the general discussion.

"We arbitrarily reduced payment to contractors by 19.4 per cent for the last month of the last fiscal year," Mr. Howes said. The result was we had $5,000 left in our fund at the end of the year. Then we were faced with a decreased appropriation from Congress of about 25 per cent, leaving us $15,000,000 to spend and contract obligations totaling $20,000,000.

"We will present seven separate means by which the economy can be effected."

Possibility of decreasing air mail postage charges as a means of increasing volume and income has been suggested to Howes by several contractors. The President is authorized by Congress to make such an increase when it appears justified.

Prospective legislation providing for a lettergram and a postcard for air mail use, to be carried for less postage, also will be placed before the meeting.

Court Fines Slapper Of Wife and His Baby

Denver, Aug. 16 (AP).—Testimony that he "beat his wife and child because the doctor told him to" was a novel alibi, Judge A. H. Pickens conceded today, but Glovis Sanchez, 24, got a $10 fine anyway.

The judge learned by questioning Sanchez that a physician had told him a slap sometimes helped a baby's breathing. Sanchez admitted he struck his wife when she protested the slaps he gave the baby were too vigorous.

Ban on Irish Parade Called Terror Attempt

Dublin, Irish Free State, Aug. 16 (AP).—Senator Michael Staines tonight referred to the government ban on a parade scheduled for last Sunday by the Blue Shirt National Guard of Gen. Owen O'Duffy as an attempt to terrorize law-abiding citizens.

He made the statement during debate on a government economy bill. The measure, which was designed to cut the salaries of all public servants, including the civil guard, was amended by the Senate to exempt police officers.

Airways Heads Get Ultimatum On Economies

Must Find Plan to Decrease Government Services to Save $700,000.

Determined to effect economies suggested by Rex Martin, in charge of the division of airways, Ewing Y. Mitchell, Assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of aeronautics, yesterday sent airline officials home to seek and find acceptable decreases in Government services to their lines.

Two days of discussion, which settled principally on the danger of turning out airway beacons, brought the conference to no conclusion. The department is determined, according to Mr. Mitchell, to lop $700,000 off its annual expenditures to come within the budget. Airline officials argued strongly for another assault upon the director of the budget, maintaining that human lives are at stake and Government parsimony should not endanger them.

Getting money from the Government in 1933 is a vastly different thing than the same procedure in 1929, Eugene Vidal, air regulations chief, advised the operators. The conference closed with the operators promising detailed scrutiny of their several lines to find ways to curtail Government services.

Bobby Godwin Will Fight to Aid Firemen

Bout With Joe Knight Will Take Place Tuesday at Twin City.

Volunteer firemen throughout Maryland and Virginia hailed the announcement yesterday that one of their own, Bobby Godwin, aspirant to the light-heavyweight boxing championship of the world, will fight next Tuesday night for the National Firemen's Labor Day parade.

Godwin, who has held the title at one time and who is now regarded as one of Maxie Rosenbloom's most dangerous rivals for the ring crown, is a member of the Herald Harbor Volunteer Fire Department. He has signed papers to meet Joe-Knight, equally as well rated as a battler.

The two meet at Twin City Arena, Laurel, Md., next Tuesday night for the light-heavyweght championship of the South, as Promoter Fats Cornell has billed the match.

Several volunteer companies in Maryland and Virginia have already notified the parade committee that they would be present at the fight. One of the largest turnouts of the year is expected.

Many firemen from the District department are also preparing to be at Twin City Tuesday night. Sale of seats will be announced within the next few days by the officials.

The bout was arranged for the benefit of the National Firemen's Labor Day parade and will help it greatly, the committee believes.

Airway Radio Apparatus Has New Feature

Voice Communications and Range Signals on Same Transmitter.

Developments in airway radio apparatus make it possible to broadcast radio range signals and voice communications by the same transmitter and be received on one set in the plane.

Five stations of the Aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce are to be modernized through money from the public works fund. The communication transmitter, by which a pilot receives weather information in flight and the radio range beacon were originally placed on different plots of ground near the airports, but sometimes several miles apart. The new combined transmitter will use a single T-L antenna system, an improved type which consists of four steel towers used as vertical radiators. It is the most effective yet devised for the purpose.

The change is to be made eventually in 57 places. The new antenna system is in operation only at Bellefonte, Pa., Minneapolis, Minn., Fargo, N. D., Tulsa, Okla., and Rock Springs, Wyo., and these stations will be modernized first. While this represents a scientific advance, it is an economy which will aid the department in meeting its reduced budget.

A directive marker beacon has been installed at Camden Airport with a 50-mile range in four directions from the airport. This marker bridges the remaining gap on the New York-Atlantic route left by the ranges at Washington and at Elizabeth, N. J. The new station is in continuous operation, for test purposes now, but will be available later only on call by aircraft flying the route.

Greeks Ask Insull To Aid in U.S. Fair

Chicago, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Greeks are making preparations for a gala day at the Century of Progress Exposition August 27, and they would like to have present that prominent Athenian, Samuel Insull.

Marion Schroeder Booras, secretary of the United Greek Art Societies, one of the groups sponsoring the celebration, today sent a cablegram inviting the former Chicago utilities magnate to help make the occasion a success.

County officials have unsuccessfully sought to return Insull from Athens to face charges of embezzlement and grand larceny in connection with the crash of his utility enterprises.

Youth Has Wings

THE NEW DIGEST SEES A MORE ALERT WORLD TODAY

THOSE who saw its first beginnings are still tongue-tied by the reality of flight. The rest of us accept it with some degree of awe. But it is hard for any one to realize fully its true significance. For within our generation a new race has been born—a race of men with wings!

From the days of Chanute and Lilienthal The Literary Digest has watched and recorded the awkward flutterings of the pioneers—the first skimming flights—the swift universal spreading of wings zooming into the sky.

Youth has other wings than those of fabric and metal. The vistas of the intellect, the fields of new opportunities, are widening incalculably.

The Literary Digest of today is edited to the requirements of this swifter, upward looking world. It is no longer satisfied with a complete record of events. New ideas, new sources of information, a wide variety of original matter contributed by skilled observers and men of affairs—these added things make the new Literary Digest an alert and original interpreter of the world as it is today!

The Employment Service.

The Federal Advisory Council of the United States Employment Service has been organized with Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, youthful president of the University of Chicago, as chairman. This council is provided for in the Wagner-Peyser act under which the employment service is established. Its purpose is to help jobless men find work and to keep politics out of the Federal employment agencies.

These employment agencies have an important function to perform in the next few months. It is anticipated that many of the jobs arising under the public works program will be distributed under their auspices. Some officials seem to fear that political pressure will be brought to bear upon the agencies to favor job seekers who are active members of the dominant party. The ways of politics are devious. It is well to take every precaution against the intrusion of partisanship into the Federal employment service.

Secretary Perkins and Dr. Hutchins both referred to the function of the council to keep the employment agencies out of politics. Appointment of the advisory council of 50 members and the character of its personnel, Miss Perkins said, "is a definite indication that the service will be developed in the interests of all the people, and there will be no attempt to use it for political purposes." Dr. Hutchins made the following comment:

> I wish to direct your attention particularly to the clause (of the Wagner-Peyser act) "Freedom from political influence in the solution of such (unemployment) problems." It probably is unnecessary for me to inform you that that clause, under present circumstances, presents a distinct challenge to this group (the membership of the council).

Obviously, unemployment agencies maintained by the Government must offer their services to the public on an impartial basis. Any other course would soon impair their usefulness. By keeping the policy of these agencies on a high plane of non-political service the new advisory council can perform an important public duty.

Southern Markets.

American exporters to Latin-American countries look forward with much interest to the development of administration plans for furthering commercial relations with these neighboring nations. United States trade with Spanish America received its greatest stimulus during the war, when European nations offered little competition. American exports were again greatly stimulated during the subsequent period when American loans and investments poured hundreds of millions into the southern republics.

Today the situation has distinctly changed. The keenest competition is met, not only from the old European competitors, but from Japan and other smaller nations which have undergone intensive industrialization since the war and are eagerly seeking outlet for surplus production. Most of the nations which secured American loans a few years ago are now in default. Some of them are finding it easier to open new accounts that have no embarrassing reminders. They complain of the manner in which loans were "forced" upon them by high-pressure salesmen from New York, and now they are also suggesting that they find the pound sterling a more stable unit to tie to than the fluctuating dollar.

American exporters have been considerably handicapped, in common with all others, during recent years, by the severe exchange restrictions. While these rules are being modified in several countries, present conversion rates are not so favorable for those who do business in dollar capital. So it is clear that any reciprocal adjustments that Government negotiators can effect to facilitate the expansion of commodity entry from Latin-America to the United States will be welcomed by American exporters of machinery and manufactured goods generally. But tropical products are admitted to this country free of duty, and the United States is already the world's largest purchaser of them. Any relaxation of restrictions upon competitive agricultural products meets with prompt and energetic protest from American farm interests.

It is evident that Government officials are giving the question of enlarged business relations with Latin-America intensive study. Following the failure of the London conference to result in economic agreements various announcements have appeared making it clear that special efforts would be directed to furthering the expansion of reciprocal trade relations with the southern republics. The natural improvement of business in most parts of the world is already shown in moderate trade increases with South America. The Pan-American conference which is to meet in Montevideo in December will offer opportunity for a general exchange of views covering the entire field of inter-American relations.

Tax Collectors.

A few months ago President Roosevelt announced his intention of putting all postmasters under civil service regulations. His plan was widely commended. The Post Office Department is essentially a business organization. Its work can best be carried on by business men chosen for their ability. When the need for business training in positions of this kind is considered it seems strange that postmasters have not been brought completely under the merit system.

Most of the arguments in favor of bringing postmasters under the civil service also apply to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. This bureau has the responsibility of assessing and collecting internal taxes and of enforcing internal revenue laws. Its function should be far removed from politics. Its work should go on in virtually the same way regardless of what party is in power. There seems to be no excuse for using positions in this bureau as rewards for political services.

Collection of taxes is a rather technical job if it is done efficiently. A highly trained staff of assessors and collectors is necessary. In this work, as in most other lines of endeavor, experience is a valuable asset. A collector with experience, training and capacity is undoubtedly a greater asset to the Government than a collector who obtains his job as a political favor.

Application of the merit system would be especially appropriate at the present time, because the bureau is undergoing partial reorganization and changes are being made in the field personnel.

District Highway Work.

One hundred and ten employees of the highway department of the District of Columbia were placed on payless furloughs yesterday because of lack of funds. The District of Columbia has a surplus of $1,500,000 derived from the gasoline tax, which under the law must be devoted exclusively to highway work. Congress contemplated that this surplus should be expended for relief of unemployment, but it provided that the approval of the Director of the Budget should first be obtained by the Commissioners.

Director Douglas has been exceedingly busy on Federal budgetary affairs and apparently has not had time to consider the release of the gasoline fund for local highway work. Inasmuch as specific authority is given by Congress for the expenditure of this surplus to relieve unemployment, it is now urgently necessary that the funds be released. The employees placed on furlough will soon be in acute distress. They are experienced men whose services will be exceptionally valuable if additional highway improvement is to be made in accordance with the authorization of Congress.

The French Lottery.

Reduced national income has induced the French government to resort to a billion franc lottery to raise revenue. Funds thus secured will not be used for general budget purposes, but will be utilized to continue the present rate of payments to French veterans, pensions that otherwise would have suffered considerable curtailment. The project is called a "lottery loan," though apparently no provision is made for refunds to purchasers of tickets which do not draw prizes. The government is tempting the cupidity of those who would take a flier in this class of speculation by announcing that 60 per cent of the amount received for tickets will be distributed as prizes.

France has had lotteries before, but there are new features in the present venture which attract small capitalists with the get-rich-quick complex. Tickets to the extent of 1,000,000,000 francs will be issued in several installments, but each section will carry a capital prize of 5,000,000 francs. The first sale will consist of 2,000,000 tickets of 100 francs each with prizes totaling 150,000,000 francs. Prizes will be graduated from the numerous consolation premiums of 200 francs up to the equivalent of about $250,000 in American money.

The first distribution of tickets is to take place within a month and popular interest in the event is said to insure an "oversubscription." Purchasers will not be limited to the boulevards of Paris and small towns of France if the tickets can be smuggled into lands where such things are barred. The subsequent drawings are to follow the first in quick succession until the entire 1,000,000,000 francs in tickets has been sold. Of this amount 600,000,000 francs will be returned in prizes, the government retaining 400,000,000 francs to assist in veteran payments. This modest return from the lottery, officials are pointing out, will be used for no other purpose, and they warn taxpayers against getting any exaggerated idea that this new source of income will balance the budget.

China's Flood Perils.

The annual recurrence of great loss of life and property destruction by river floods in China takes on added menace this year. It is feared that the great Yellow River may change its course in its last 300 miles to resume the old bed, abandoned more than 80 years ago, to empty once more into the Yellow Sea. This river, one of the longest in the world, rises in Tibet, flows through Mongolia and northern China, and turns eastward to Lanfeng in Honan Province. From this point it bends sharply to the northeast and empties into Po Gulf, 300 miles distant, but previous to 1852 the river flowed southeast from Lanfeng, when its mouth was 300 miles further south.

Throughout much of its course in northern China the Yellow River is lined with dikes to protect the low-lying country and cities from its flood tides. Continued heavy rains have swollen the stream to unusual proportions, with the result that the protecting dikes have broken in many places, inundating vast areas and hundreds of villages. While latest reports indicate that the danger that the river will once more resume its old course has somewhat lessened, that catastrophe is still dreaded.

The change would be a disaster of great magnitude. Not only would it leave the region along the northern route of the river without the water and transportation facilities upon which it has come to depend, but along the old southerly course cities and villages have grown up that are not protected, and which would be flooded by a sudden return of the Yellow River. The city of Suchow, directly in the path of the river if it should again seek its outlet through Kiangsu Province to the Yellow Sea, is reported to be feverishly erecting emergency dikes in view of such a contingency, but it is evident that the long stretch of the old bed could not be adequately protected in a brief time even if funds were available for the work.

The most serious loss of life and property so far is in the flooded districts surrounding Chengchow and Kaifeng, where the river level is more than 25 feet above the cities, but great damage is also reported along the lower reaches of the river, flooded areas and villages extending to the rich Tientsin district. Long delayed plans for control of China's river floods were begun this year, but the work has not progressed sufficiently to be of service in the present emergency.

Italian Liner's Speed Record.

Italy and Germany are engaged in an interesting contest for transatlantic steamship speed honors. Until yesterday the North German Lloyd steamship Europa was mistress of the sea, having crossed from Cherbourg to New York in 4 days 16 hours and 48 minutes, covering 3,149 miles at an average speed of 27.92 knots. That record has now been eclipsed by the Italian liner Rex, which made the run from Gibraltar to New York in 4 days 13 hours and 58 minutes, covering the 3,181 miles at an average speed of 28.92 knots. The Rex also broke the record for a single day's run, having made 736 miles on Tuesday at a speed of 29.61 knots. The best previous run for a day was made by the Europa on her maiden voyage in 1930, when she steamed 731 miles.

The best time across the Atlantic, prior to yesterday, was made by the German liner Bremen, but as her course was considerably shorter than that taken by the Europa on July 3, her average speed was less. The Bremen also made the highest speed record going eastward, in June, when she averaged 28.51 knots. But even this is exceeded by the achievement of the Rex, which now holds the record for the speediest day's run, the speediest crossing, and the highest average speed, the latter being exactly one knot faster than the Europa.

So attractive is speed to luxurious Atlantic passengers that a spirited competition between the German and Italian liners is now looked for. In their trial runs both the Bremen and Europa developed higher speeds than they have made in crossing the Atlantic, and therefore it is possible that they may be forced up to beat the record established by the Rex.

With Vice President Garner pleading for repeal, the eighteenth amendment has about as much chance in Texas as a vulture in the sanctorum of the NRA.

The Comptroller of the Currency hints that hot air will not thaw out frozen assets.

The hoboes' code seems to be designed to reduce the surplus food supply.

Now it's up to the Joneses to keep up with the eagle.

Intimate Oratory.

From the New York Sun.

Somebody has published a new pamphlet on the art of public speaking. Somebody is always publishing new pamphlets on the art of public speaking. Apparently it never occurs to anybody, except bored auditors, that it might be a good thing to declare a moratorium on public speaking. There is too much of it; too many persons who are excellent bankers and business men and authors and editors and cab drivers and bricklayers give way to an irresistible impulse to get up in public to talk. Perhaps that is why little pamphlets telling in a few words how to become master of the art meet ready sale.

This new one finds various oratorical styles good, but plumps vigorously for the conversational ones. An intimate, heart-to-heart manner, it says, carries with it an air of sincerity and tends to be persuasive and convincing. Charles Dickens found that out long ago. Never can the trick of being intimate and talking to the heart of the hearer be more effectively worked than it was by the immortal Chadband:

"We have here among us, my friends, a Gentile and a heathen, a dweller in the tents of Tom-all-Alone's and a mover-on upon the surface of the earth. We have here among us, my friends, a brother and a boy. Devoid of parents, devoid of relations, devoid of flocks and herds, devoid of gold and silver, and of precious stones. Now, my friends, why do I say he is devoid of these possessions? Why? Why is he? I hear a voice. Is it a still, small voice, my friends? I fear not, though I fain would hope so—which says, I don't know.

"Then I will tell you why. I say this brother, present here among us, is devoid of parents, devoid of relations, devoid of flocks and herds, devoid of gold and silver, and of precious stones, because he is devoid of the light that shines in upon some of us. What is that light? What is it? I ask you what is that light? It is the ray of rays, the sun of suns, the moon of moons, the star of stars. It is the light of Terewth."

It is related that Mr. Chadband's audience—with one exception—was highly edified. Mrs. Chadband was moved. Mrs. Snagsby became hysterical. The apprentices and Guster acknowledged a spell. Even Mr. Snagsby was uplifted. Unfortunately the person at whom the harangue was directed fell asleep. Poor Jo! He was like many others who are neither partisans nor opponents of the orator, but at whom intimate oratory is so often aimed. They also fall into profound sleep.

NRA Invades the Home.

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

THE BLUE EAGLE PLEDGE.
NO. 2.

I pledge myself:

1—To interpret sacrifice as something more than a word in nine letters meaning to give up caviar and silk socks.

2—To realize that the worst time for an argument is when anywhere near the brink of Niagara Falls in a barrel.

3—To remember that there is nothing so senseless as trying to fool the firemen who are trying to put the net where I won't get hurt if I fall.

* * * *

4—To meditate on the old warning that if we do not hang together we may all hang separately.

5—To remember that there is only one person more contemptible than the fellow who knocks women down in the rush for the lifeboat—the merchant who makes faces at Government agents throwing him a life line.

6—To get it fixed in my mind that the NRA is not a new summer game, a new system of setting-up exercises or a substitute for jig-saw puzzles, but a brave attempt to help everybody save the biscuits in a prairie fire.

7—To regard the Blue Eagle as reverently and as faithfully as I do the American flag.

8—Not to betray it, hide behind it, use it as a "blind" for dishonest acts, chisel beneath its wings or use it for profiteering any more than I would be guilty of such conduct under the folds of Old Glory.

9—To bear in mind that the Eagle is the American national bird, and at no time to be confused with a mudhen, a blackbird, a buzzard, or an oversized cootie.

* * * *

10—To remember at all times and in all crises that it has since the days of the Pilgrim Fathers been regarded as a symbol of American courage, American standards and American spirit; and that nothing but trouble can come from attempts to make it feel at home in dark alleys and underground passages.

11—To realize that the old bird is suffering a considerable comedown in allowing itself to be used as a radiator ornament and a window paster, and that it is apt to get out of patience any minute.

* * * *

12—To appreciate the fact that there is no percentage in criticizing a life preserver thrown to me during a tidal wave.

13—To snap into the idea that the chiseler, the two-timer, the sharp tactics boy, the cutthroat competitor and the Smart Alec are for the time being out of fashion.

14—To realize that the fellow who still thinks he can outsmart a national movement is in the same position as a mechanical rabbit stopping to look for cabbage leaves on a dog track.

15—To bear in mind that while you can fool some people all the time and all the people some of the time, all the chiselers in the country can't fool Uncle Sam more than two or three more months.

LURES.

There's a lure in the dark,
With one lone spark
In a grate alight,
And the whimpering whine
Of the wind in a pine
On an autumn night.

There's a lilt in the rain
On a murky pane,
Where the "L" goes by;
But, oh, for the scent
Of chow from a tent
'Neath a summer sky.

Self-Government Is for Those Who Are Strong Enough to Govern Self

By Robert Quillen.

BILL was a smart boy. All of his relatives agreed on that point. And he possessed a stubborn and independent spirit.

On his third birthday his father bought him a pair of red shoes. They were too small, and hurt his feet, but his protests were unconvincing.

"They're all right," said the father, "and you've got to wear them."

Bill knew better. He sat down suddenly, glowered at the offending shoes, and said with grim finality: "I tant an' I don't haf to."

His parents laughed. It was a great joke. The little rascal had spirit.

At the age of 16, Bill ran away from home. He was a smart boy, with feelings easily hurt, and needed careful handling. To remain at home meant conflict or meek submission to his father's will, and Bill elected to leave. It seemed the easiest way out of a difficult situation.

A few months later, Bill met a recruiting officer who wasn't too inquisitive and enlisted in the Army.

The first business of the Army, in those days, was to tame smart boys. Bill got his first experience of discipline. But he still nursed the conviction that he didn't have to do anything he didn't wish to do, and his submission to force was merely physical. His spirit was untamed and his heart was filled with sullen rebellion. At the first opportunity he deserted.

For a number of years thereafter he drifted from job to job, quitting each in turn because his feelings were hurt. At work or in his hours of leisure he did precisely as he pleased, and when any situation displeased him he solved the problem by leaving it.

At the age of 25 he fell in love with a high-spirited girl and married her. And there wasn't room in one small house for two such spirits.

This time Bill found escape in alcohol. He solved his problem by staying drunk enough to forget it.

Three years of steady drinking left him a physical wreck. The doctor gave him his choice between alcohol and life.

Bill had learned his lesson. He resolved to quit drinking and live humbly before his God. But he had at last found a problem he couldn't run away from, and he had waited too long to learn self-discipline. There was only one way out and he took it.

The neighbors said liquor killed him, but they didn't know about the running away.

Comment of the Press

Repeal Vote Analyzed.

Minneapolis Journal.

If results so far mean what they say and nothing more, the country drips with yearning for the legalized return of alcoholic stimulants. With Arizona now in line, 21 of the necessary 36 States have voted repeal. More than 15 will act before the year closes, and it looks like the first legally wet Christmas since prohibition became the law.

Some voting figures are decimally definite, but only approximates are yet available for the group New York, Connecticut and New Jersey recorded 89, 87 and 86 per cent favoring repeal. But Tennessee went over by less than 52 per cent. Of the first 20 States to vote, 19 show an average repeal ballot of 73 per cent. Anyone may guess what the remaining States will do, but expectation of repeal this year by approximate vote of 70 to 30 is warranted.

The Nira Dance.

Kansas City Times.

Just why the dancing masters in conclave assembled found it necessary to compose a new dance and call it "Nira" is not clear. The official dance of this name was composed by the Roosevelt administration, indorsed by Congress and, under the instruction of Gen. Johnson and his assistants, everybody is either doing it or learning it. To be sure there is nothing rhythmical about the dance as Gen. Johnson teaches it; the steps are mechanical rather than graceful; but everybody can learn them. If the dancing masters could give the dance the lilt of the two-step, the swing of the waltz or the sprightliness of the fox trot, there would be a lot more fun in doing it and more dancers would like it.

Beer Revenue.

Topeka Capital.

"Kansas is losing $5,000,000 a year in taxes on beer," declare the wets. If estimates are correct, that of the dollars spent for beer 5 per cent go into tax revenues, then to get the 5 millions the wets claim Kansas is losing, the people of this State would have to spend $100,000,000 for beer. Not a very profitable way to get $5,000,000 for taxes.

Why the Eagle Screams.

"We do our part," sang the somewhat bald gent as he combed his hair with a towel.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

Boyhood Memory.

It used to be fun in the good old days to rise at the dawn of day
And dig for worms for a fishing trip. It used to be fun, I say,
For I'll swear that a robin who hovered near knew just what we were about,
Since he flew to the ground when the earth was turned and begged us to toss one out.
Yes, it used to be fun to go fishing then, but Time has rewritten my terms
Of what pleasure is, and I never get up to dig for a can of worms.
We'd sit on a dock and we'd swing our legs all day in the blazing sun,
And a few small fish on a piece of string was our ultimate dream of fun.
Then digging for worms was an easy task, but I tried it a year ago
And the earth seemed hard as a city street where the streams of traffic flow.
And I'd lost the knack of clutching a thing that wriggles and twists and squirms,
So I said to myself: "You will never again go digging at dawn for worms."
I stuck to the task till my hands grew sore, I labored and toiled and wrought,
But the worms were scarce and no robins came, and it wasn't the fun I thought.
But a small boy said as we walked away: "I'm wondering, Uncle Ed,
When there's so much pleasure in getting up, how can old folks stay in bed?"
I could only answer him this: "My lad, all experience confirms
The dreadful fact that there comes a time when it's labor to dig for worms."

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

MR. CHARLIE SCHWAB and Mr. Myron Taylor were callers on Mr. Roosevelt yesterday and after about one hour of calling they emerged to greet newspapermen more suavely than I have ever seen them before, which of Mr. Schwab is to say that he was very suave, indeed.

Bargeron.

They insisted they had only called to pay their respects, whereupon one newspaperman suggested that inasmuch as it had taken an hour it must have been that Mr. Roosevelt had paid his respects to them. And it is not unlikely that this is exactly what happened.

The steel industry might be said to be the key to the whole NRA scheme. On the outcome of the differences between it and the administration will, in my opinion, depend the success or failure of the entire plan.

* * * *

LET us see then just what the situation is. It is a dead cinch that the manner in which it has developed and is still developing will do nobody any good.

Now, the problem is not one of agreeing upon the number of hours and minimum wages in the industry. They are in dispute, but no informed person believes they are what has brought the two groups to daggers' points. The problem is organized labor's insistence upon unionizing the steel industry and the industry's determination that it shan't.

That that is the real point of bitterness is amply demonstrated by the refusal of the steel heads to sit with Bill Green, the American Federation of Labor head, in conference. It is on the settlement of this question that will determine, in my opinion, whether the steel industry will come in under a code or whether we are in for some bitter industrial strife.

* * * *

IT is not necessary here to discuss the merits of either organized labor's or the industry's attitude. It is a fact that the industry has spent millions of dollars keeping its plants from being unionized. It is a fact, too—certainly until very recent years—that the steel industry's labor policy was just about as high-handed as any we had in this country.

Organized labor sees an opportunity now to organize the trade in one swoop, with the aid of the Government to accomplish something it has never been able to do on its own. The administration professes not to be concerned in whether a plant is operated on a closed shop or a nonunion basis. At least, Commissar Johnson does.

* * * *

THERE is a provision in the recovery act, however, saying that no man shall be denied employment because he belongs to a labor union. This, in other words, is the law, regardless of what Commissar Johnson says or does. But in itself it does not mean a thing. It was stuck in in the hasty passage of the bill but that section of industry which is opposed to union labor is not worried about it.

No man will ever be discharged or denied employment "because he belongs to a labor union." Some entirely different reason will be given, but the effect will be the same. The workers know this and it is a safe bet that on the so-called safeguarding provision of the recovery act the union organizers will get nowhere in an industry so opposed to unionization as is the steel crowd.

The union leaders know this, and so they are insistent upon getting additional protection, additional assurance in the various codes, and particularly the steel code.

* * * *

THE bitterness has developed to the point of where around Commissar Johnson—not from him, himself—one hears threats that the Government is prepared to take over the steel industry and operate it, and from the steel crowd that it is prepared to shut down its plants before yielding and throw several hundred thousand men out of work.

This, my friends, is a very sad state for the recovery plan to be in. Both sides had better go back to the beginning and start over.

To talk about the Government taking over the industry is utterly ridiculous—if the purpose now is to get men back to work. If the purpose is to unionize industry, if that is something the Government has embarked upon, then the threats of taking over the industry might be in order. But if the purpose is simply to get men back to work, they most certainly are not.

Does any one suppose, for instance, that the steel industry would be alone in its challenge? Other big industries, feeling the same way toward organized labor and the code business as a whole, would very promptly fall in line. We would have, in short, a prolonged industrial war, not men returned to work.

* * *

THE question arises as to just what Mr. Green's duty is in the premises. One can understand his ambition to unionize all industry. And no one can rightfully deny what organized labor has done for the workingman.

But what is important, it is not organized labor that is doing for him now. Organized labor has been virtually prostrate for three years. It is the Government that is doing what is being done for the workingman now.

Wouldn't it be better, in the real interest of the workingman, for Mr. Green to compromise on his unionization demands at this time and then carry on his fight later, or, for that matter, at any time on his own?

Mrs. Roosevelt at Hyde Park Sunday; Spanish Ambassador Host

Envoy De Cardenas Host to Dr. Vinas, Spanish Historian.

MRS. ROOSEVELT WILL leave the Capital within the next few days for New York by motor, stopping en route to visit friends and arriving at the Hyde Park home Sunday. She will return to Washington the day after Labor Day.

The Ambassador of Spain, Senor Juan Francisco de Cardenas, will have as his guests tomorrow Dr. Aurelio Vinas, distinguished Spanish historian, who will give an illustrated lecture on the founding of the capital of Spain before newly organized Instituto de las Espanas tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the rose garden of the historic Alva Belmont House, 144 B street northeast, which will be loaned for the occasion by Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, national chairman of the National Woman's Party.

Dr. Vinas will be accompanied by Senor Jose Camprubi, publisher of La Prensa of New York, one of the largest and most influential Spanish papers in the United States.

Dr. Vinas will be introduced by the Charge d'Affaires of Chile, Senor Benjamin Cohen, who is vice president of the Council of the Instituto. In the absence of the director of the institute, the Minister of Ecuador, Senor Gonzalo Zaldumbide, the meeting will have as chairman the assistant director, Senora Concha Romero James, assistant chief of the division of the intellectual cooperation of the Pan American Union.

Ambassador Rosso Guest At Tea Dance on Ship.

The Italian Ambassador, Signor Augusto Rosso, was the guest of honor yesterday at a tea dance given by Admiral Romeo Bernotti aboard the Italian training ship Amerigo Vespucci, which with its sister ship the Cristoforo Colombo has been anchored in Baltimore since a week ago last Tuesday. The two ships leave for New York today.

The Minister of China, Mr. Sao-Ke Alfred Sze, will sail today from New York City for England, where he will visit his family.

Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, will be the guest of honor at a luncheon tomorrow by Mrs. William Fitch Kelley at the Chevy Chase Club.

Mrs. Kelley has as her guest at the Knole, her estate on the Rockville pike, her sister, Miss Martha McClure, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa, who also will attend the luncheon.

Senator Daniel O. Hastings, of Delaware, is at the Shoreham.

Senator and Mrs. Albert W. Barkley returned Monday from Atlantic City. Their daughter, Miss Laura Barkley, expects to visit her sister, Mrs. Max Truitt, in St. Louis, leaving at the end of the month.

Gen. William E. Horton will leave tomorrow by motor for a trip through New England. He will return to Washington in about a month.

Rear Admiral Luke McNamee, president of the Naval War College, and Mrs. McNamee gave a dinner last evening in their Newport home in honor of Capt. Wilson Brown, who on September 5 will become chief of staff of the college.

Farewell Luncheon Given For Mrs. Stephen O. Fuqua.

Mrs. Stephen O. Fuqua, wife of the newly apointed Military Attache of the United States Embassy in Madrid, was the guest in whose honor Mrs. Jesse W. Gay Figures on Miniature Bar Are Attractive

"Chubby but Chic" Catered to by Makers of Foundation Garment.

By Ruth Ann Davis.

A young man stood in the candy shop disconsolately surveying the variety of boxes. There were all shapes, all sizes, but not one of them seemed to be just what he wanted. This was the first date. After meeting her the other evening he had been able to think of nothing else. Now he was going to call on her and he must have something appropriate. The dawn of an idea! He carefully explained to the salesgirl what he wanted. She eyed him a bit curiously as she filled his order. He left the shop proudly bearing under his arm a box of kisses arranged in a circular pattern with a date in the center.

Have you a little bar in your home? If not, why not, and if so you are sure to be interested in the new "toast" plates. Each one is a handy size with pictures depicting gay imbibers from many countries. There's the "a votre" of the Frenchman, the German "prosit," and the Scotch "here's tae ye," illustrated with appropriate figures.

Fall frocks are so richly endowed with mellow colors and so artfully draped around the neck that little is needed to add one iota to their glory. However, a brooch of the right cut, and the right design, could decidedly embellish the high collar, tie or scarf. A mosaic brooch, for instance. There are some on sale, reduced from $1 to 50 cents in a Fourteenth street gift shop, which are very likely to take your fancy. They are hand inlaid with the natural stones just as they are taken from the mines, and so assembled that you have an ensemble of all the stones you can think of, bound to go beautifully with any frock in your wardrobe.

Chubby But Chic.

The stylish stouts or those who prefer to be called chubby but chic, are being catered to again with a foundation garment especially designed for heavy figures. Besides the ordinary hooks down the side, it has adjustable laces in the front. They come in tea rose figured batiste, with swami top and adjustable straps. Price, $5.

With a midget radio you can have music or entertainment in any room in your house with only the trouble of carrying the little dear from room to room. Its conservative brown metal case gives it the added value of being appropriate in the bedroom, den, or what have you. For either A. C. or D. C. current. Reduced from $12.95 to $9.95.

Of all times to burn the cookies this was the worst! It was almost tea time, and company was coming. In a panic she reached for the eggs, butter and flour, mixed them together, and started her baking again. But what cookies! Her guests politely (much too politely) nibbled. She could see it was an effort.

A few days later she stopped by an F street refreshment shop. Behind the showcase window she noticed some delicious looking tea cakes. Some had jelly designs on top, others crystallized fruits, and still others nuts and raisins.

"How much?" she inquired.

"Twenty cents a dozen."

"Thank you," she answered, but she thought, "Oh, the time and the money I've wasted. Woe, woe!"

There are swans, swan songs, swan dances, and the shopper saw a swan vase in a bright burnt orange color. She thought how lovely it would be in a room with brown furnishings, or filled with blue flowers on a sun porch. It was gracefully designed, and very reasonably priced. To be found in a shop "just off Connecticut."

His birthday is next week and you want a nice, inexpensive little remembrance. Right? The ordeal of choosing gifts for men is responsible for many a pucker in milady's brow. And no wonder. He'd rather choose his own tie. No one can pick out his pipe. The only shirts and socks he really likes are the ones he buys himself. Don't you worry, though. The shopper saw an English plaited pigskin belt that's bound to please him. It's smart, and serviceable, and only $2.50.

We hear about the wonderful closing out bargains, but when we go to find them, we wonder where. White hats, for instance. The one we bought earlier in the summer is out of shape, and yellow with consistent cleaning.

We want a smart, inexpensive model that will tide us over the season. From shop to shop we go, trying on this one and that one, until we conclude that these hats or those, are worse than our old one. But wait! The shopper found a table full of prizes! Sailors, turbans, straws, silks, crepes, each one a dollar!

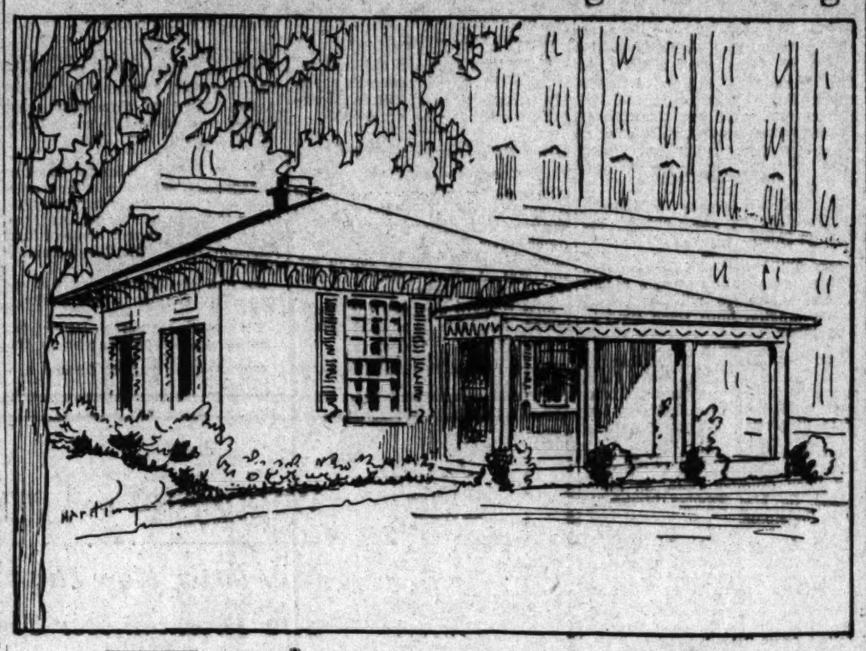
Renovizers Wave Wand Over Dilapidated Shack--Now Is Inviting Little Cottage



Pennsylvania Ave. Exhibit Shows How Old House May Be Improved.

Many Firms Contribute to Architect's Efforts; Part of Campaign.

A magic has been worked.

Visit the once apparently totally dilapidated cottage at Pennsylvania avenue and Fourteenth street and see if you do not agree.

It has been completely renovated by devoted workers who have given services and materials. At the end of the exhibit the building will be auctioned off. It has been so constructed that it may be moved in three parts. An estimate has been given of $300 for the moving.

Louis Justement designed the plans for the remodeling and Arthur B. Heaton is chairman of the renovizing campaign.

Attractive planting softens architectural angles and brings out the spic and span effect of the freshly painted exterior of this little Cinderella of a house. Renovating ideas equally fresh and desirable pop up at every step, inside and out.

The contrast between old and new has been cleverly shown. A patch of an impossible old floor has been left to show that nothing is quite impossible after all. The old floor scraped and sanded with two coats of shellac and waxed shows brilliant results.

Panels cut through the wall show that mineral wool insulation has been filled in between the studs and ceiling joist. The walls were then finished in wire lath and plastered.

Many Firms Help.

Furniture and decorations have been borrowed from and donated by some 20 firms which have furnished wall paper, painted walls and scraped floors and supplied curtains, furniture and all decorative accessories.

Miss Genevieve Hendricks, of Hendricks, Inc., is chairman of the decorating committee, composed of Celeste Hodges, of Woodward & Lothrop; Mildred O'Neill, of Dulin & Martin; Fred E. Clark, of W. E. Clark & Co., and Mrs. Willard Hart and Mrs. Frank Dunmore.

Miss Hendricks, who has had full charge of the selection and carrying out of the color scheme and furnishings, pointed out that while all new furnishings could have been secured, it was thought best to blend the old and the new and keep to the renovating idea. Several old pieces of furniture have been refinished with one end left to show its battle-scarred original condition. Old upholstered chairs, still comfortable, but too worn and faded to be longer welcome in many living rooms, are covered with inexpensive slip covers, giving them a second youth in decidedly decorative manner.

A living room fireplace is flanked by the three chairs as in the immortal bear story. The architectural detail and the interior decorating are on simple lines, in keeping with the simplicity of the little house. The color scheme throughout is in shades of blue, green and soft terra cotta, with dark floors and light walls.

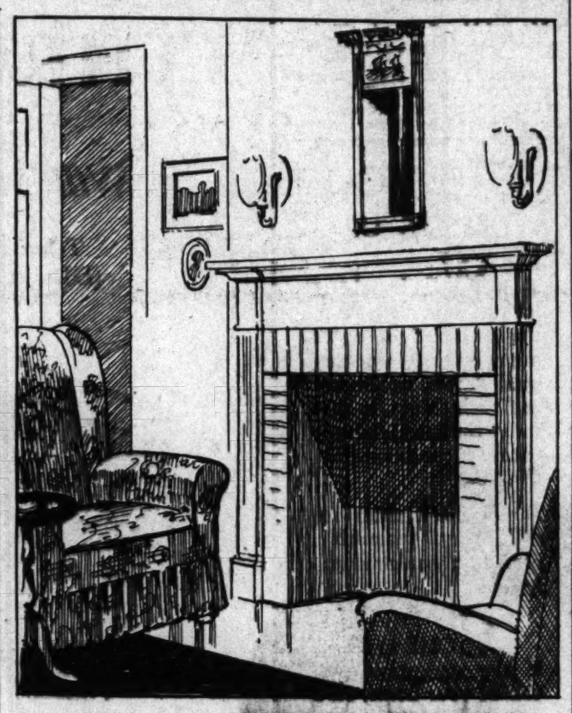
Furniture Comfortable.

In the living room a green slip, piped in yellow, covers an outmoded couch. The armchair has a gay dress of chintz patterned in robin's egg blue on a dull red background. The dining room has an interesting wall paper in an antique tile pattern. The draperies are in the warm terra cotta shade, contrasting nicely with the creamy tones of the paper.

The tiled bath is attractive with latest type fixtures. Its white walls have a line of black trim. The kitchen is a model of convenient arrangement with electric refrigerator, gas range and enameled sink. It has enough cupboards to satisfy almost anyone. Opening from it is the rear entry, large enough to hold double laundry trays and a hot water supply heater.

The overdrapes of the larger bedroom are large white flowers on a soft blue, with a piping of pleated white over dotted mull glass curtains. Two attractive old flower prints decorate the walls.

The child's room has a spool bed with a modern patch quilt in blues and accents of red. The wall paper is small red polka dots on a cream ground with a vermilion band at the ceiling line. Two prints with wide red mats show galloping gray horses that would delight the heart of any small boy, as would the red and blue soldier that stands guard at the bedside.



Upper view shows renovized house near the Commerce Building. When moved into the vacant space there, the house complied with all the abusive descriptive connotations associated with the word "shack." Lower view shows attractive fireplace.

Peaches on Sale Here From Winchester Orchards; Florida Oranges, Although Poorly Colored, Contain Very Sweet Juice.

By Hoyt Barnett.

Both Elberta and Halé peaches are coming into Washington from the Winchester district of Virginia.

These peaches lack the fine appearance that many desire. Reports from orchards state, however, that the quality is as good as it will be this season.

As a usual thing the sugar content of peaches increases as the season advances. Should this develop it will cost less to can peaches later in the year because it may not be necessary to add as much sugar to them as it is now.

These Winchester peaches are selling on the public market from $1.25 to $1.50 a bushel. Because of the unusual price movement in other food lines, it is possible that there will be no recession from this price as the season progresses.

The Winchester peach crop does not represent the last chance, by any means, to buy peaches for canning. Hales from Maryland and Pennsylvania will be available in large quantities shortly. Elbertas from the same regions are being sold now in limited quantities.

Florida Oranges Sweet.

Very sweet Florida oranges are selling at low prices. The appearance of this fruit is bad. But it is another example of beauty being only skin deep.

Inside the greenish, motley skin is a sweet, nectar-like juice.

These oranges are trucked for more than 900 miles. Still they sell at $1.50 a bushel on the public markets.

But don't expect to get that low price if you buy at the neighborhood grocery store. He has to make a living. You can buy the oranges as cheaply as he does if you are willing to spend the time and trouble necessary to make a trip to the primary markets where these oranges are sold off the truck.

Fine Quality Cantaloupes.

A never-ending stream of cantaloupes pours into the city. Trucks drain the surrounding countryside as tributary streams drain into a lake. These cantaloupes are of excellent quality and priced so that anyone may buy them without disrupting the food budget.

Corn and lima beans (succotash on the hoof) should be served frequenty now while they are inexpensive. These two vegetables are good sources of mineral salts and certain vitamins, particularly vitamin C.

While on the subject of vitamin content of vegetables, it is well to mention that limited deficiencies of vitamin A, which is known as the anti-infective vitamin, may be made up through serving such vegetables as carrots, lettuce, spinach, tomatoes and watercress.

Sources of Vitamin A.

Carrots are plentiful now. So are lettuce and tomatoes. Spinach is scarce, and broccoli, another source of vitamin A, will be more plentiful within a few weeks.

Other good sources of vitamin A are cabbage, celery, yellow corn, peppers, squash, sweet potatoes, string beans and kale. Generally speaking, any yellow pigment vegetable carries vitamin A.

In many instances it is possible to build up a resistance against diseases of the respiratory system by including vegetables in the diet which are good sources of vitamin A. Cod and halibut liver oils, however, probably are the best-known concentrated sources for this particular vitamin.

Retail Food Prices.

Eggs—Government inspected, 30 to 30 cents; extras, 25 to 27 cents; loose mediums, 23 cents.
Butter—Prints, 29 to 31 cents; tubs, 25 to 27 cents.
Poultry—Broilers, 25 to 30 cents; fryers, 25 to 30 cents per lb.; spring baking chickens, 24 to 33 cents per lb.; heavy hens, 23 to 25 cents per lb.; medium hens, 23 to 25 cents per lb.; light hens, 19 to 21 cents per lb.
Potatoes, 3½ to 4½ cents per lb.
Peaches, 15 cents per 2½-lb. basket.
Cantaloupes, 5 to 10 cents each.
Corn, 10 cents for three ears.
Peas (California), 6 to 9 cents lb.
Lima beans (shelled), 35 cents a quart.
Tomatoes, 5 cents lb.

Wrinkles Come When Dry Skin Is Neglected

Salt Water Bathing, Sun's Rays Throw Added Burden on Complexion.

By Elsie Pierce.

Summer, with its salt water bathing, summer sun and dry air is none too kind to the dry type of skin.

The elements exhaust what little natural oil remains in the skin. Diligent care, perseverance, regular treatment are necessary to counteract all this. For, neglect the dry skin and presto, wrinkles form fast and deep.

First, last and always, protect the skin when going outdoors. There are creams and oils and unguents galore for just this purpose.

The majority of skins today, statisticians in the beauty world tell us, are dry. No wonder, then, that the leading chemists and toilet goods manufacturers are catering to this type. They are constantly creating newer, more efficient preparations to protect the skin from drying further and to supply to some extent, artificially, the oils that the skin naturally lacks.

Use Oil Treatment.

If you can not afford a ready-made protective oil, coat the skin lightly with olive oil, or better yet with sweet almond oil.

This will not only protect the skin against the sun's burning and parching rays, but it will also lend very necessary lubrication, soften the pores, and keep the skin from taking on that weather-beaten, leathery, harsh, parchment-paper look.

Treat the skin to cream for cleansing. Do not use soap and water. If you feel you must have suds, save them for the bedtime treatment. Rinse thoroughly. That's important, as any soap left on the skin will only do more drying damage. Dhy with a soft towel.

Follow with the cleansing cream. Then pat with a very mild tonic. Next, a good nourishing skin food and leave the cream on as long as possible—overnight, if you conveniently can. Be particularly generous with the creaming around the eyes.

The next morning, cleansing with cleansing cream again, patting with tonic and before make-up a creamy finishing preparation smoothed well over the skin. Cream rouge and a light filmy powder.

Cream After Sunburn.

Should the skin be sunburned, use cream for cleansing and not soap and water. And use cleansing cream before and after a trip outdoors.

Wear large-brimmed hats, eyeshades on tennis court or golf links, use parasol on beach. Take every precaution against sunburn, as this is the worst enemy of the dry skin.

And if you are the nervous, underweight individual that is the usual, dry-skinned type, learn to relax and do take good, nourishing food, oils, butter, cream sauces, &c.

Elsie Pierce will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DAME RACHEL ELEANOR CROWDY, distinguished English social welfare worker, holds symposium with Mrs. Roosevelt and newspaperwomen at White House. She says improvement in general feeling evident since her last visit here.

Guiding Your Child

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

According to Mrs. Jones, her daughter Clara was an inveterate liar.

Why she should be was a mystery to all her friends and relations, for on both sides of the family was a background of honorable men and women.

For the most part Clara's stories were of extraordinary events in her own life—tales of mystery and romance without a shred of fact on which to rest.

Her parents tried punishment and ridicule in vain and finally accepted Clara's untruthfulness as a regrettable but irremediable misfortune, and stopped worrying about it.

Such cases are far more usual than one might think, and for the sake of the child's future happiness should be cured. The lying is not in itself a disease, but a symptom of some underlying psychological tangle in the child's mind.

For some reason, often hard to find, the child feels dissatisfied with her actual life or at a disadvantage with her environment. She builds up an imaginary world to which she can retire and which in time becomes so real to her that the line of demarcation between fact and fancy becomes blurred in her mind.

An analysis of her stories would probably reveal the source of the trouble and lay bare her secret desires. Whether these could be satisfied or not would depend upon circumstances.

That a child desires a thing does not necessarily make it right or expedient that he should have it. It might be possible, however, to contrive a compromise which would be satisfactory. In any event a frank discussion of the matter by parents and child would go a long way toward helping the child to adjust himself to reality.

Social Worker Sees Improved Feeling in U. S.

Mrs. Roosevelt Says NRA Accomplishments Are Still Intangible.

By Elisabeth E. Poe.

Dame Rachel Eleanor Crowdy, distinguished Englishwoman and guest of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at the White House, yesterday conducted a symposium with twenty newspaperwomen gathered there for a weekly conference with the First Lady of the Land, on the "High lights of the NRA."

In asking the newspaper women to give their personal impressions of the achievements of the NRA to date, Dame Rachel declared that she was greatly thrilled to see at first hand the experiment now going on. She felt, she said, that if it were successful it not only would pull the United States out of the depression "but the whole lot of us as well."

Discussing the changed spirit of the people since her last visit to the States, Dame Rachel said:

"I notice a most extraordinary change in confidence and cheerfulness in your people. In fact, I have never seen such an evolution in so short a period. I feel hopeful that the corner in the depression has been turned, in your country, at least."

Interviews News Women.

During the discussion with the newspaperwoman, Dame Rachel proved herself a skillful interviewer. Mrs. Roosevelt sat by, enjoying the sight of her newspaper friends, usually so expert in questioning her, having the tables turned on them.

Among the points brought out by the newspaperwomen were that the people now feel that the Government really cares what happens to them, that child labor is now wiped out, that there has been a social gain in the prospective abolition of sweat shop conditions by the NRA codes, and, that due to the NRA and similar efforts, there has been a remarkable increase in membership in labor organizations.

Here Dame Rachel put in a word of caution in advising that unions must not be permitted to become too masterful.

This led to spirited discussion, and it was brought out that in some places in this country garment makers still are earning only 40 cents for a day of 14 hours.

May Control Prices.

Another newspaper woman expressed the belief that the codes would lead to fair trade practices, better cooperation between the various members of any given industry, and that all this would combine to assist in providing for a proper control of the jobber and prevent prices from sky rocketing.

After the newspaper women had completed their testimony, so to speak, Mrs. Roosevelt said that she felt it was hard to determine the concrete benefits of the NRA so soon. What has been accomplished, beyond doubt, is an intangible change in values and the purpose for which one lives, she held. Out of it all is being wrought a new philisophy of living, and besides a new feeling of hopefulness, we are developing a growing feeling of brotherhood among people in all sections of the country.

What's in Fashion?

College Girl Adds 2 and 2 And Gets 5 Smart Costumes

Directed by Amos Parrish.

You have to hand it to the college girl. She knows how to put two and two together and get the right answer every time. Only in this case, since we're talking fall clothes, the right answer is at least five.

One of the best things she can buy—for practicability, usefulness and right fashion—is the three-piece swagger suit . . , a topcoat over a tailored jacket suit.

Choose it in Harris tweed, hairy surface wools or diagonal wools, and out of it you can get a minimum of five good-looking outfits.

Ways of Wearing.

Wear the three pieces all together—with sweater or blouse. Or wear just the jacket suit. Or the topcoat with skirt and blouse.

Then the short jacket can be used with another skirt—a plaid or check. And the topcoat can be worn over any dress.

That makes the five without even mention of wearing the skirt and twin sweater sets.

Less Mannish.

This fall's swagger suits aren't quite so mannish and swagger as they were. Backs are straighter and more boxey. Many of the topcoats have the new shoulder details, such as the one sketched.

That topcoat would look fine over the wool shirtwaist dress, also sketched, which is another useful smart costume for the campus.

Shirtwaist dresses, too, are less severe. Softened and eased up. And they're a slick dress not only for the classroom but for going to the games and just general running about, as they are gay and sporty in plaids or checks.

Budgeted Wardrobes.

Both these fashions are practical ones if you're budgeting your wardrobe.

But they won't be all you'll need. And to help you plan economically and fashionably, we've outlined some really helpful budget wardrobes for college girls. (Good for young business girls, too.)

If you'd like to check through these before you shop, just send us the filled-in coupon with inclosures and we'll mail you the wardrobe leaflet.

Nominations will be open through Sunday. A nomination coupon is printed below and is worth 50 votes. Clip it, and with a little work among friends in your department or any other Government unit your fellow U. S. employe is off to a good start.

* * * *

CALL in person or write to the Federal Diary Contest Editor at The Post if there is some part of the rules or procedure that is not entirely clear. Several have asked if a chief clerk must sign the ballot or nominating coupon. No. We merely want his name to assure accuracy and keep as reference.

The business manager tells us of many wonderful details he is arranging for the winners. Entertainment will be provided the most popular Federal employes from the time they are notified of their selection, during their trip to Chicago and Virginia Beach until they arrive back in Washington.

The Post believes it has chosen the best season of the year to offer the above prizes. When the contest closes Sunday midnight, September 3, and the winners are on their way about a week later, the weather is expected to be ideal. Then, the first crispness of autumn is noticed.

Read the rules carefully. They follow below:

Contest Rules.

THE contest began August 13 and officially will end Sunday midnight, September 3. Winners will be announced on or before September 6.

2. Government employes, excepting chief clerks and superiors, are eligible in the contest.

3. The contest is divided into two divisions. One selecting the most popular woman and one the most popular man.

4. The person receiving the highest total votes in each division will be awarded first prize. The next highest total votes in each division will be awarded second prize and the third highest total in each division will receive third prize.

5. In the event of ineligibility of any division winner, the contestant with the next highest total votes will automatically be adjudged the winner. Should any of the winning contestants be unable to accept the prize, the contestant with the next highest total votes will be eligible.

Must Be Federal Employe.

6. Votes are not transferable.

7. No information will be given to contestants as to their own or other contestants' standing, except through the Federal Diary columns.

8. The Nomination Ballot will give each contestant 50 starting votes. It is necessary for each contestant to be nominated before votes officially will be accepted. Only one Nomination Ballot will be accepted for each contestant.

9. The contest judges reserve the right to deduct votes from the standings that have not been submitted according to the rules.

10. Persons voting must be employes of the Government. Each voter is allowed to vote for only one woman and one man.

11. Ballots MUST be submitted in packages of 25.

Method of Procedure.

Clip Nominating Ballot from the Federal Diary columns of The Washington Post. Fill in and mail or bring ballots to The Federal Diary Contest Editor.

Two hundred and fifty ballots will be either mailed or given to the nominator. Additional blank ballots may be obtained from the Contest Editor in exchange for an equal number of signed ballots.

Dr. Farrington's Body Is Recovered

Two Planes and 25 Boats Searched all Day for Maryland Man.

Leonardtown, Md., Aug. 16 (Spl.). After two airplanes and 25 boats had searched all day for the body of Dr. John M. Farrington, of Mechanicsville, the mystery of his death was at least partly cleared late today by the finding of his body at Paw Paw Hollow, floating in the water near where he was last seen.

The physician disappeared 48 hours earlier while on a night swim with friends. Although it was considered almost sure he had drowned, nearby woods were searched lest he should have wandered away from the shore while dazed.

The body was found by Abel Owen, and towed to the wharf. The sheriff and coroner were notified, and an inquest was ordered held.

D. C. Man Arrested On Girl's Charge

Camp Ritchie, Cascade, Md., Aug. 16 (Spl.).—Arrested today and charged with attempting to attack an 11-year-old girl of Highfield, Md., yesterday in the woods adjacent to this camp, Stonewall Jackson Yeatman, 40, of 1830 Columbia road northwest, Washington, was held tonight in the Hagerstown Jail pending a hearing.

Meeting the child on the reservation, Yeatman, it is charged, forced her to enter his automobile and drove to a secluded spot. Freeing herself, the girl ran back to the camp and told her brother of her experience. The girl was not harmed, it was said.

The Twenty-ninth Military Police of Washington was notified and a lookout broadcast for Yeatman's car. Justice of the Peace Lewis Hirshberger, of Smithburg, will conduct the hearing with Martin L. Ingram, of Hagerstown, as prosecuting attorney and Richard H. Sweeney, of Hagerstown, counsel for the defense.

GUNTHER'S
BEER
That's why I've settled down to GUNTHER'S"
"YOU know, sometimes, I change my mind about a lot of things . . . but, say . . . when it comes to beer, my own taste is the "boss". I'm serious about my beer-drinking . . . because I enjoy it so much. I've been around and like most people I've tasted all the good beers on the market. And the one that "clicked" quicker and more often with me was GUNTHER'S. That's why I've settled down to the one beer that gives me more pleasure and more satisfaction than any of them." ★ "Stop listening to all those beer sales talks, just long enough to let your taste decide which beer is the best beer, and you'll settle down to GUNTHER'S, too!"

Pennsylvanian Wins Jousting Tourney Prize

Cletus Heaps Victorious As Center Market, Gonzaga Knights Trail.

Cletus Heaps of Pykesville, Pa., yesterday went to Marshall Hall and bought a horse.

Now, yesterday, the knights of Maryland, Virginia and District of Columbia were holding their forty-ninth riding tournament at Marshall Hall. The finest jousters of the country were there.

Fortified with his new horse, Heaps borrowed a lance from a friend, entered the professional riders' contest—and won. He climaxed the performance when his horse, frightened at a handful of newspapers, threw him flat on his back.

Instead of spearing each other the knights spear little rings hanging from poles at the height of a rider's head, you know. The rings are about the size of those found at the end of a curtain cord. The lance is about 10 feet long with a needle point of steel and is carefully balanced. The rings, three in number, are hung 30 yards apart.

How It's Done.

Jousting consists of riding a horse at a dead run down the line of rings and spearing each of them in turn. If there is a tie for first place in a tournament, in the run-off judges substitute small rings with the hole but ¼-inch in diameter.

Now, all good knights must ride under a good name. Heaps decided to call himself the Knight of St. Marys. The Knight of Center Market—Herb McConkey in civilian life—had just completed his ride. He had speared his full quota of rings for what looked like the title of the tournament when Frank Barnes, of La Plata, grand marshal, called forth the Knight of St. Marys. The small rings had been placed to settle the tie in which McConkey and Heaps found themselves at the end of the first round.

The Knight of St. Marys sort of pushed his horse into starting position facing away from the rings. He whirled the horse about and started down the lane. One, two and then three of the minute rings impaled on his lance. Then he whooped like a cowpuncher and brought his steed about.

Heaps Badly Hurt.

About that time some friend of his, through admiration acquired for his skillful riding, tossed a handful of papers into the air. The knight's horse left for places where there were fewer newspapers and no knights at all—and that suddenly. Heaps picked himself up off the turf rubbing a back that was paining him so badly that he could scarcely walk.

Asked if he had ridden in tournaments before, Heaps said he had.

"I speared 30 of those small ones in a row once," he confided and then disappeared toward the judges' stand to collect his $35 first-prize money.

"Not So Bad."

"That's not so bad for an afternoon," he said later. "Got a hoss and $35 and darn near broke my back. Guess I'd better go back to Pennsylvania. It's easier up there."

About 1,000 persons witnessed the tournament. Twenty-five riders were present.

Winners of the amateur events were the Knight of Livingston Road, first; the Knight of Willow Glen, second, and the Knight of Clairmont, third.

In the professional class, Heaps as the Knight of St. Marys, was first; McConkey, as the Knight of Center Market, second, and the Knight of Gonzaga, Warren McConkey, third.

Cotton Must Be Plowed By Aug. 23 to Get Check

(United Press.)

Cotton planters scheduled to get about $110,000,000 for acreage reduction under President Roosevelt's agricultural recovery program, will get no checks unless they have plowed under their cotton by next Wednesday, August 23, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced yesterday.

As soon as they send certificates of performance proving that they have plowed under from 25 to 50 per cent of their crops, the checks will be mailed to them, said C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production section.

Soldier Killed, Injured Slayer Expected to Die

"Back Talk" of Private Blamed in Shooting by Corporal.

New Rochelle, N. Y., Aug. 16 (AP). Army officials announced today that Private Donald J. Zinn, of York, Pa., was shot and killed at Fort Slocum this morning by a corporal who resented "back talk." The corporal, Truman E. Smith, of Lima, Ohio, also shot himself and physicians said he could not live.

Col. Frederick Griffiths, commanding officer of Fort Slocum, pronounced the case murder and attempted suicide.

Officers quoted Smith as saying, while he lay on an operating table: "I hope Zinn died. He called me an unspeakable name."

Both men were found in the basement of their barracks, Zinn dead, Smith wounded twice in the left breast.

Physicians announced Smith had no chance to live.

Chinese Found Dead Bearing Head Wounds

Reno, Nev., Aug. 16 (AP).—The body of a Chinese, bound with wire and bearing head wounds, was found in the rumble seat of an automobile near the race track here today.

The body was tentatively identified as that of Don Loy, also known ats Franke Yip, a Chinese who came here about two months ago from Stockton, Calif. Police advanced a quarrel over gambling as a possible cause for the killing, pointing out local Chinese had divided into two factions since a recent row over a gaming permit.

Girl, 17, Battles Big Octopus As Father Grinds Camera

Menlo Park, Calif., Aug. 16 (AP). A girl has to have the proper scientific spirit—or maybe just plain spunk—to dive into a tank with an octopus and stage a wrestling match for a periscope underwater movie camera.

But Florence Douglass, 17, did just that for her father, Leon Douglass, inventor of a periscope camera and enthusiast about deep-sea science.

Douglass decided a spectacular reel would be one of a "death" struggle with an octopus. He got the octopus—a vicious specimen of the loathsome breed stretching 12 feet from arm to arm—from some Italian fishermen near Monterey.

It took four men to get the devilfish into a huge hogshead of salt water for shipment to the Douglass swimming pool here.

But who would do the wrestling act?

"I'll take him on," Florence volunteered. "Who's afraid of an old octopus?"

Mrs. Douglass gasped. Douglass demurred, but Florence won. It was an anxious moment when the slim girl dived into the tank and the slimy tentacles of the ocean monster wrapped around her, fastening their suction cups wherever they touched her flesh. Mrs. Douglass didn't watch; she went for a walk in the garden.

Douglass ground his camera as long as he dared, then signaled the "actors" it was time to stop. But the devilfish was unused to stage directions, and kept right on sucking. Men stationed about the edge of the pool dived in, and it took the combined strength of several to extricate Florence.

For several days she bore the red marks of the tentacle suckers on her arms and legs, but the picture came out beautifully. Her father presented her with a diamond bracelet to make up for the marks.

"I wasn't afraid of the octopus, but it was kind of slimy," Miss Douglass said with a grimace.

Roumanian Munitions Firm's Aid Sentenced

Bucharest, Roumania, Aug. 16 (AP). Bruno Seletzky, agent for the Skoda Munitions Works, today was sentenced to five years' imprisonment for possessing military documents and breaking official seals which police affixed to his safe after his house had been searched.

Seletzky was arrested last March after opposition leaders in the chamber alleged he had bribed officers in the ministry of war and politicians to get munitions orders for his firm. Charges of espionage and bribery, on which the arrest was made, were dropped by the military court.

Doctor's Body Yields Poison; Another Held

Pretty Brunette Physician Rests Head on Pillow as Freedom Is Denied.

Cleveland, Miss., Aug. 16 (AP). Shortly after chancery court refused a petition for bail for Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean here today, it was learned an autopsy performed by W. F. Hand, State chemist, had revealed mercurial poison in the viscera of Dr. John Preston Kennedy, Greenwood surgeon, whose body was secretly disinterred last week.

Dr. Dean has been charged with poisoning Dr. Kennedy with a whisky highball which he said in a death bed statement he drank while with her in Greenwood. The surgeon had planned to rewed his divorced wife.

Resting her pretty brunette head against a large white pillow, Dr. Dean sat in court here today and heard Chancellor R. E. Jackson deny her petition for release under bail pending a preliminary hearing.

Varela Funeral Will Be Held at Christ Church

Nephew of Sousa, Former Bank Official, Was Prominent Mason.

Funeral services for Alexander Robert Varela, nephew of the late John Philip Sousa, will be held at Christ Church, Sixth and G streets southeast, at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Interment will be in Congressional Cemetery. Mr. Varela died Tuesday at his residence, 5519 Connecticut avenue northwest. He was 52 years old.

Mr. Varela retired from the banking business a few years ago, resigning as assistant cashier of the Commercial National Bank after more than 25 years' service. Since then he has been a representative in Washington of the Travelers Insurance Co.

Born in San Jose, Calif., he lived nearly all his life in Washington, being first employed in the old Traders National Bank. He was a member of the Board of Trade, the Chevy Chase Citizens Association and a charter member of the American Institute of Banking. He attended Christ Church. He belonged to the Washington Centennial Lodge, No. 14, Lafayette Chapter, R. A. M.; Albert Pike Consistory, M. R. S., No. 1, and Almas Temple of the Shrine.

Surviving are his widow, Mary Reh Varela; his mother, Mrs. Catherine M. Varela; three children, Mrs. James H. Pugh, Mrs. Vida Varela Dent, and Robert Varela, and two brothers, Edmund A. and Osmund L. Varela, all of this city.

Brother Escorting Lieut. Hill's Body

Funeral of Hawaiian Air Crash Victim Will Be Held Here.

The body of Lieut. C. Phillips Hill, jr., U. S. N., who was killed in an airplane accident, at Pearl Harbor, T. H., will arrive at Los Angeles August 24 on its way here for burial.

By order of the Navy Department, Lieut. Arthur Sinclair Hill, brother of the crash victim and also a Navy flier, is acting as honor escort. Lieut. Hill's widow, who is the daughter of Commander and Mrs. Walter B. Decker, U. S. N., also is accompanying the body.

Funeral services will be held at the home of the lieutenant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Phillips Hill, sr., 1828 Wyoming avenue northwest, and at St. John's Episcopal Church, Lafayette Square, which young Hill attended during his boyhood. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Schenectady Rejects Bid of Non-NRA Firm

Schenectady, N. Y., Aug. 16 (AP). The city board of contract today rejected a low bid for painting the high school auditorium because the bidding concern was not a member of the NRA. The action was taken in spite of the fact that the low bid was $200 less than the next bid.

All bids were then thrown out and new bidding ordered.

Her Hoodoo Days Cited for Divorce

Chicago, Aug. 16 (AP).—On the 16th of the month most anything can happen to Miss Anita Burlison—and she says it usually has.

In a divorce bill filed in her behalf today—the 16th—she declared.

That on September 16, 1929, she married John Burlison, now of Los Angeles.

December 16, 1930, he blacked her eyes.

January 16, 1933, he struck her, impairing her hearing.

February 16, he reblacked her eyes, and they separated.

Norman Decker, Mrs. Burlison's attorney, requested the hearing for the case should not be set for the 16th of any month.

Devil's Island Prison Escapes Alarm France

Secret Syndicate Believed Aiding Flights; Many Die in Jungles.

La Rochelle, France, Aug. 16 (AP). Wholesale escapes of desperate convicts from the dreaded Devil's Island and other prison camps in French Guinea were reported today by French authorities.

Eighteen men recently escaped, officials said, bringing to more than 100 the total of prisoners who have fled the convict colonies within a year.

It is supposed the escapes have been made through the connivance of a secret syndicate which has aided criminals to flee through jungles or across the Caribbean.

In the last three months of 1932, 44 took to flight. The total for last year was 79, with the high mark, 266, set in 1923.

French residents at Garupano, a Venezuelan port, where many of the fugitives are rounded up before being returned to French authorities, declared the Venezuelan government was forced to capture the outlaws as a measure of self-protection.

According to figures available in May, 3,867 convicts were in penal institutions in Guinea, with 1,905 more exiled to Guinea, but not actually held in prisons.

It is known that a number of escaped men have died in the dangerous jungles.

British Probing Death Of Girl by Plane Gun

London, Aug. 16 (AP).—A Royal Air Force inquiry was held this afternoon into the death of Jean Chesterton, 17-year-old London girl, who was shot dead yesterday by an air force machine-gunner who mistook the rowboat she was in for a target.

The victim's sister, Joan Chesterton, and her father attended the proceedings, which were secret and were held at the Eastchurch Airdome. The findings were not made public.

Virginia Legislator Sees Beer Next Week

Danville, Va., Aug. 16 (Spl.).—Beer will be legal in Virginia beginning next week, according to State Delegate Maitland H. Bustard, who left last night to attend the special legislative session.

He said the steering committee hoped to have the beer bill passed by Friday along with a control measure.

Distributing agents of the larger breweries are prepared, it is reported, to supply the Virginia demand as soon as the bill passes.

Two Insurance Firms Ordered Liquidated

New York, Aug. 16 (AP).—Liquidation of the Lloyds Insurance Co., of America and the General Indemnity Insurance Co. of America was ordered today by Supreme Court Justice Aron Stuer, who held that further efforts to rehabilitate the companies would be futile.

George S. Van Schaick, State superintendent of insurance, who will direct the liquidation, took the companies over for rehabilitation on August 4. Four days later the superintendent was ordered to cancel the policy obligations of the companies.

Banker Blames 'New Deal' for Many Closings

Testifies in Detroit Quiz That Treasury Was Tightened Up.

Detroit, Aug. 16 (AP).—Sharply contrasting policies of the Federal Treasury Department under the Hoover and Roosevelt administrations and their effect on the general situation were related today by Wilson W. Mills, former chairman of the country's largest closed bank, testifying before the Detroit bank investigating grand jury. Mills also told of the refusal of Henry Ford to offer financial aid in the banking crisis unless he could have complete control.

Mr. Hoover, said Mills, showed every desire to be "extremely helpful," and added that the Treasury Department policy under Hoover was a "lenient one consistent with the fact that securities had shrunk to a small fraction of their real value." When the Roosevelt administration came in, he said, "apparently the policy was to take present values, right or wrong."

Closed Banks, He Says.

This, he declared, resulted in deflation and forced the closing of many banks.

Mr. Hoover, Mills testified, was "desirous of helping in all ways" during the sudden crisis in Michigan which led to the closing of the banks of the State February 14, despite opposition by Senator James Couzens (Republican), Michigan, who, Mills declared, blocked a Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan which he said he believed would have prevented the holiday.

Ford, the witness said, refused to take any part in the reorganization of the First National Bank, Detroit, of which Mills formerly was chairman, after the bank had closed, unless he and his son, Edsel, could underwrite all the stock.

Wanted All or None.

"The Fords said they would underwrite either all or none of it," Mills said, relating that Henry Ford told him a pending $100,000,000 loan to the bank could be obtained after the transaction and all depositors paid 50 per cent at once. The plan fell through, however, when the negotiators were unable to obtain a $20,000,000 loan upon which the transaction hinged.

Testifying that he conferred by telephone several times with Hoover, then President, on the approaching crisis, Mills said the President "said his task was much harder because of the opposition that had developed from Senator Couzens."

Jury officials said they expected Senator Couzens, who is awaiting a chance to answer statements concerning him, will take the stand tomorrow.

Nude Dancer Is Winner In Suit for Her Fan

Chicago, Aug. 16 (AP).—"You are an optimist," Judge Francis Borrelli today told counsel for a Los Angeles hair goods company.

The attorney sought to attach costumes of Sally Rand, fan dancer at the Century of Progress Exposition, for an alleged unpaid billl.

Sally's costume, for the most part, consists of her birthday suit. The motion for attachment was quashed.

D. C. Idle Help For June Tops April by Third

Relief Payments for All of Nation Decrease, Reports Show.

Unemployment relief in Washington was almost one-third higher in June than it was in April, although relief payments for the whole country showed a decrease in this period, it was reported yesterday by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

Washington's unemployment aid in April cost $133,788, while in June it amounted to $204,069. Meanwhile the total relief cost for the nation had dropped from $72,651,929 in April to $66,191,520 in June. These June figures are the latest tabulated by the Relief Administration.

More Families Aided.

At the same time, the number of Washington families receiving relief increased from 7,001 in April to 8,933 in June. This trend also was contrary to the country-wide tendency. Throughout the country, 4,445,338 families received aid in April, while by June the number had decreased to 3,745,367.

Over the three-month period, Maryland also paid more for unemployment relief, although Virginia reflected the nationwide drop in these payments.

In April Maryland paid $627,683 to 27,779 families. In June she paid $802,694 to 30,621 families.

Peak May Have Passed.

The June figures for Maryland do show that fewer families were aided that month than were aided in May, indicating that the peak of the relief load may have been passed.

Virginia's April payments were $326,727 to 47,309 families. By June the relief bill had dropped to $241,921 to 31,176 families. The variance between relief demands in the two States may be due to their different industrial status. Virginia, with a greater industrial population, would feel any business improvement more quickly than either Maryland or the District, which have relatively few factories.

Beer Licenses In 3 Months Net U. S. 6 Millions

277,105 Pay to Make or Sell It; District Has 1909 Dealers.

(Associated Press.)

Just short of 280,000 persons paid the Federal Government $6,290,530 during the waning months of the last fiscal year for the privilege of making or selling beer.

The Internal Revenue Bureau yesterday made public statistics showing that from April 7, through May and up to last June 30, a total of 277,105 persons had paid license taxes to the Government, entirely aside from the levies upon the beer itself.

A total of 331 brewers paid $1,000 each, 14,135 wholesale dealers $50, and 262,639 retail dealers $20 each.

Two D. C. Breweries Taxed.

In the District of Columbia two breweries pay a tax of $1,000 each, 93 wholesale dealers pay $50, and 1,816 retail dealers pay $20.

Maryland has five breweries paying $1,000 each, 221 wholesale dealers paying $50, and 4,723 retail dealers paying $20.

Virginia has no breweries paying taxes, but there are 35 wholesale and 24 retail dealers taxed.

714 Pay Liquor Tax.

Other figures covering the entire 1933 fiscal year showed 714 liquor dealers paid $100 each and 35,233 persons $25 each for the privilege of selling distilled spirits at retail. This included mostly druggists.

The "special tax" figures showed also that 14,335 persons paid taxes on yachts of from $10 to $40, that 150,188 physicians advanced $1 each for the privilege of prescribing narcotics, 55,855 retail narcotic dealers paid $3 each and 2,639 wholesale dealers $12 each.

Uncolored oleomargarine was sold by 103,501 retailers at a cost of $6 each; 965 wholesale dealers, who paid $200 each; while 102 dealers in the colored product paid $48, and 4 wholesale dealers, $480.

Tokyo Diplomat Dies, Embracing Catholicism

Warsaw, Poland, Aug. 16 (AP).—Hiruoki Kawai, the Japanese minister to Poland, died today shortly after having embraced the Catholic faith. He was baptized by the Papal Nuncio.

The minister succumbed from tuberculosis at nearby Otwock.

Toledo, Spain, to Aid Toledo, Ohio.

Madrid, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Mayor of Spain's Toledo visited Foreign Minister Fernando de los Rios today, asking that facilities be provided for a proposed exchange of cultural relations with Toledo, Ohio. The minister promised complete assistance.

"Doc" May Expose Tammany If He Isn't Careful, Pegler Says

Reporter Finds Copeland's Racket Probe Very Tame, Indeed.

By Westbrook Pegler.

New York, Aug. 16 (Spl.).—Unless great care is exercised Senator Royal S. Copeland is likely to find out something about a connection between rackets and Tammany politics in New York City, and that, I imagine, would be a great disillusionment to the Senator.

The senator, or doc, as we used to call him when he was the health commissioner of New York City under Mayor Hylan, is a Tammany politician himself. But he is one of the elective politicians, like Mayor O'Brien, as distinguished from the kind of politicians who elect their kind.

His kind merely make the speeches about the sacred heritage and the inspiring sacrifice of Valley Forge on the Fourth of July and attend to the baby-kissing.

He's Not So Dumb.

There has been a disposition among the citizens to suspect that when Tammany sends a man to either house of Congress, Tammany thereafter tells that one what to do on all matters which come up in Washington. But that would be an injustice to both Senator Copeland and Leader Johnny Curry.

The senator is not so dumb that he would have to ask what he was supposed to do about a given proposition and Mr. Curry is not so dumb as to send such a dumb senator to Washington. It is a pleasure to point out that Senator Copeland has given Tammany general satisfaction in his work for a long time.

I thought the senator kicked over the traces when he brought on this senatorial investigation of the rackets and their connection with politics, but perhaps that was not as dumb as it looked.

Perhaps he figured if he didn't do this some one with a reputation for suspicion would conduct the investigation and go around uttering a lot of sinister inuendos about a relationship between the hoodlums who throw acid on the citizens' clothes in the dry-cleaning plants and the Tammany leader in his clubhouse around the corner.

Good Copy in the Old Days.

I remember the senator from his "doc" days. His office was a regular call on the beat then, and I will say that no other health commissioner since his time has scored as often or as heavily in the papers as he did when he was endearing himself to the voters and developing the qualities of statesmanship which presently singled him out for membership in the Senate.

I think it must have been the "doc" whose example pointed out to the Antisaloon League that the best time to release a story was on Sunday afternoon when the city desks were blowing up cheap murders into society mysteries.

What alarms me on the senator's account at present is the utterly destructive partisan attitude of some of the witnesses who were called before his racket investigation to offer helpful suggestions and who abused the courtesy and the opportunity to let fly sinister inuendos of a kind which must have occasioned sharp distress to the doc. He never was one to stir up suspicion and trouble among men or to deal in unkind personalities in a campaign. He is a right-living, usual, ordinary citizen, educated for medicine, who chucked his profession to accept a $10,000 job from Tammany Hall.

Medalie Fires Charges.

I didn't see him wince, but I am sure his idealistic soul puckered a bit at the words of George Medalie, pronounced Medal-yah, the Republican U. S. prosecutor and anti-Tammany fusionist, who remarked before Senator Copeland's committee that he could name four politicians, "who stand right out in front of our faces" who were patrons of racketeers in New York.

Old Senator Walsh, who died last winter, was one of the destructive-critic type. He would have hopped up from his chair to demand in that resined voice of his just who these four were. He would have demanded also the names of the others and he would have sent the army out, if necessary, to bring them in.

But Senator Copeland did not press Mr. Medalie for any names and he is, for the time being at least, spared the disillusionment which would make him so unhappy were he shown that all that Mr. Medalie said is so.

Beauty Parlor Girl Slain, Jury Finds

Los Angeles, Aug. 16 (AP).—Helen Bendowski, 30, attractive beauty operator, found mysteriously slain last Sunday on the roof of a Pasadena florist shop adjoining a penthouse, was held by a coroner's jury today to have been killed "by a person unknown, with homicidal intent."

The jury deliberated 20 minutes.

Mrs. Zelda Smith, cafe owner, testified that Harold Wolcott, 33, held on suspicion of murder in the case, pleaded with a patrolman friend to stand by him after Miss Bendowski was killed.

Slum Clearance Work Approval Due Today

(Associated Press.)

Public works administration officials said last night they expected the Cabinet board in charge of the job-giving program at its meeting today to approve the first batch of housing projects for slum clearance.

These projects, for which the public works administration may allot as much as $100,000,000 from its $3,300,000,000 fund, have been delayed pending reports by engineers on their economic feasibility.

. . he hides behind the "cheap road" budget

"Hi" Driving Cost gets the last laugh when cheap roads are laid. For it's High Driving Cost—the excess cost of use—that makes taxpayers pay plenty for "bargain" roads.

Every type of road has its dollars-and-cents cost of use. These costs have been obtained by impartial road tests carried on by government and state engineers since 1917. They show why the "cheap" roads cost more than the high-type roads, even when traffic volumes are moderate. And they prove, as you probably thought, that a CONCRETE ROAD costs LESS TO USE than any other kind.

U. S. Banking Is Now on Feet, Officials Say

13,951 Licensed Financial Houses Operate Without Restrictions.

By Chas. P. Shaeffer.
(Copyright, 1933, by The Associated Press.)

The American banking structure is virtually back on its feet.

The records of Walter J. Cummings, executive assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury, yesterday showed 13,951 licensed banks operating without restrictions and only 2,870 closed or operating on a restricted basis. These figures include National banks and State members and nonmembers of the Federal Reserve system, but exclude mutual savings institutions.

The record is as of the close of business August 12 for member institutions and as of July 26 for nonmembers.

Banks in Full Operation.

Mr. Cummings, brought to Washington by Secretary Woodin and regaled with the unofficial title of "bank opener," said that on August 12 there were 4,961 National banks doing an unrestricted banking business, with deposits of $16,938,145,000; that 740 State member banks with deposits of $9,741,987,000, and 8,250 nonmembers having deposits of $5,057,596,000 were operating on a full-time basis on July 26.

The deposits are as of December 31, 1932, as there has been no assembled condition report of banks since that time.

The next such condition report, based on the national bank call by the comptroller as of June 30, will be made in about two weeks.

The figures in Cummings' report were taken from official records of the Comptroller of the Currency for National and State member banks, and from Federal Reserve Board records for nonmembers.

Inactive Banks' Status.

On the inactive side, it was found that on August 12 there were yet closed or operating on a restricted basis 909 national banks having deposits of $954,304,000; 95 State member institutions with deposits of $204,134,000, and 1,866 nonmember institutions, exclusive of mutual savings banks, with deposits of $1,005,365,000.

The composite picture shows deposits in open banks of $31,737,728,000, while a total of $2,163,803,000 was tied up in closed or restricted banks.

The picture is even brighter, Mr. Cummings said, when cognizance is taken of the many details entering into the task of reopening an institution. In this connection, he pointed out that of the 909 national banks still closed or unlicensed, 317 have received the official "o.k." of the Treasury and are raising money provided in approved reorganization plans. This will involve the release of $400,000,000 more in deposits, he said.

All Closed Banks Examined.

Mr. Cummings said that every closed banking institution in the United States had been examined by the Treasury since the banking holiday in March.

In this table, prepared by Cummings, is the composite statement of the banking structure in the United States at the close of business August 12:

Licensed banks (unrestricted)—	Number.	*Deposits.
National banks	4,961	$16,938,145,000

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Steel Scrap—The decline in steel operations and uncertain outlook for holders of heavy tonnages of scrap is reflected in an easier tone of the scrap market in the Chicago area. Nominal quotations were $10⁰ to $10.50 against $10.25 and $10.75 recently.

Flour—The flour market continues stagnant due to the situation in the grain markets. Quotations have been nominal. Consumers bids are said to be generally unacceptable to millers.

Lead—Activity in the market quickened this week with consumers showing more interest in September and October requirements. Prices are firm at 4.50 cents a pound, New York, and 4.35 cents, St. Louis.

Corn—Refining—The July grind of eleven refiners, as reported to the Corn Industry Research Foundation, totaled 6,500,000 bushels, a 50 per cent increase over the same month last year.

Chemicals—The heavy chemical market is feeling the effects of the normal midsummer recession. Preparation of NRA codes is another factor in scaling down demand for many basic items.

Cotton Cloths—In an effort to stabilize the coarse yarn cloth market a number of large houses have withdrawn quotations on all print cloth constructions for 10 days or more and smaller mills are expected to follow their lead.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, Aug. 16 (A.P.).—Carloading reports of Southwestern carriers for the week ended August 2 showed some slackening in business compared with the first week in August. Missouri Pacific loadings totaled 19,933 cars against 20,188 in the previous week and 18,115 a year ago. Missouri-Kansas-Texas moved 6,335 cars, 12 less than the previous week. A year ago loadings were 6,476.

Wall street rumors to the effect that Chesapeake & Ohio Railway directors may either increase the dividend rate or declare an extra payment gained fresh currency today on the favorable showing of the road's operations in July. The present dividend rate is $2.50 annually, which has been in effect since the stock was split up in 1930. Directors were scheduled to consider dividend action yesterday, but the meeting was postponed.

The Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., weekly food index fell 4 cents during the past week, to $1.91. The index stood at $1.75 a year ago.

The Iron Age composite for scrap steel has receded from $12.25 to $12.08 a ton, the first decline since May, the review reported today. Coke prices lost some of their buoyancy after settlement of strike difficulties and the furnace grade declined 25 cents, to $2.50, and foundry from $3.50 to $2.76. Finished steel and pig iron composites remained unchanged.

July consumption of crude rubber by manufacturers in the United States amounted to 50,184 long tons against 29,976 tons in the like period of 1932, according to the Rubber Manufacturers Association. The July consumption, however, represented a decline from June, when it amounted to 51,326 tons.

Electric production of the American Water Works & Electric Co. rose 48 per cent in the week ended August 12, compared to the comparable period of 1932, the figures being 35,394,000 and 23,958,000 kilowatt hours.

Bond Activity Is Increased; Losses Small

Flurry in Secondary Liens Cuts Declines; Sales, $8,974,000.

New York, Aug. 16 (A.P.).—Activity in the bond market improved today as a heavy stock list led to another flurry in secondary and speculative liens, many of which yielded a point or two, but, in some instances, regained part of the lost ground before the close.

The general price level was shaded a little by the irregularly lower trend. Fluctuations in high-grade investment issues were unimportant for the most part and reflected the absence of interest on the buying side rather than any selling pressure.

Total transfers approximated $8,974,000 par value, and the averages of 60 domestic corporate bonds eased one-tenth of a point to 80.7.

Following the downward trend of stocks, selling was rather heavy in Chesapeake Corporation 5s, St. Paul adjustment 5s, and Denver & Rio Grande, Missouri Pacific, Western Pacific and Southern Railway issues. These reacted from fractions to more than 2 points. Some of the legal investment rails were fractionally lower, but the market here was rather thin.

Trading in utilities and industrials was in small volume, although distributed over a wide list. American Telephone issues were dull and steady. Some other high-grade electric company bonds yielded moderately. Warner Bros. 6s were offered in large volume and sold off 2 points.

United States Governments were firm in restricted trading. Strength of Argentine bonds was a feature of the foreign group. The largest turnover was in British 5½s, which sagged ¼ in line with the decline in sterling.

Stocks Plunge Lower In Irregular Trading

Late Support Enables Some Issues to Recover Part of Losses; Decline Averages 2.2 Points; Sales Increase to 1,803,260 Shares.

New York, Aug. 16 (A.P.).—Financial markets slipped and fell today but, with some late support, managed to get back on their feet and resume their limping jog along the pathway of uncertain prices.

While few bones were broken in the sprawl, many bruises were noticeable. By and large, stocks suffered losses of from 1 to 2 or more points at the close, although during the unexpected spill declines ran as high as 5 points.

The bulk of the transfers in the share market was sandwiched in the midday hour when selling was heaviest. Total volume amounted to 1,803,260 shares, or about double that of yesterday. The Associated Press-Standard Statistics average of 90 selected stocks declined 2.2 points.

The security markets were clearly perturbed by the tangled situation existing in the American and Canadian grain pits. Likewise, it cast a wary eye on the confusion surrounding some of the developments of the national recovery program which have retarded progress in the drafting of codes for a few of the basic industries.

Stocks were jogging at their easy but uneventful pace of the past several days when, just before noon, a flood of selling orders appeared on an extremely thin market. The selling was reported to have originated out of town and, while it lasted, was so fast that the ticker tape dropped a few minutes behind floor transactions. The wave subsided, however, in about an hour and there was a moderate rally which was followed by a resumption of the previous trading dullness.

Losses of 1 to 2 or more points were distributed throughout most stock groups without discrimination. Some of the more important issues which declined were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, American Telephone, American Tobacco "B," Westinghouse, DuPont, Chrysler, Auburn, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Chesapeake & Ohio, Consolidated Gas, Western Union, National Distillers, Commercial Solvents, Johns Manville and U. S. Industrial Alcohol.

U. S. Grain Export Gains 92,000 Units

(Associated Press.)

Grain exports last week from the United States totaled 277,000 bushels, against 185,000 bushels the previous week and 1,433,000 during the corresponding week of last year. Commerce Department figures yesterday gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those for the week before:

Wheat, 1,000 bushels against 5,000; barley, 137,000 against 143,000; corn, 113,000 against 24,000; oats, 26,000 against 13,000; no exports of rye were reported for either week.

Canadian grain exported last week from United States ports totaled 159,000 bushels, against 412,000 bushels the previous week, while exports of North American wheat flour were 45,000 barrels against 39,000 barrels.

Stocks.

Late support enabled stocks to recover part of losses. Declines at closing averaged 2.2 points. Sales volume increased to 1,803,260 shares.

Bonds.

Activity in bonds increased and a flurry in secondary liens reduced declines. Losses averaged one-tenth of a point. Sales increased to $8,974,000.

Curb.

Price slumps and recoveries of the big board were followed by the curb. Sales increased to 278,000 shares.

Wheat.

Prices sank to the maximum low levels and remained down. Broader buying failed to materialize. All grains were lower. September wheat sold at 87⅛; May at 94⅞.

Cotton.

An initial decline of $2 per bale was trimmed by rallies to losses of 12 to 21 points. December sold at 8.89; October, at 8.71. Liverpool reported prices 5 points lower.

Rubber.

Crude futures closed irregular. September sold at 6.75 to 6.85; December, at 7.37 to 7.40.

Sugar.

Raw sugar was quiet and unchanged at 3.45. Refined sold at 4.70.

Coffee.

Spot coffee was dull. Rio No. 7 sold at 7½; Santos, No. 4, at 8¾.

Silver.

Bar silver in New York was easy. It sold ⅜ lower, at 35 cents per ounce.

Gold.

Bar gold sold in the United States at $20.67 per ounce; in London, at 125 shillings and 3 pence.

Dollar.

The United States dollar rallied again on foreign exchanges. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $4.40 to the English pound; 5.23 cents to the French franc, and 31.85 cents to the German mark.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—Under the lead of international issues, notably molasses and distiller shares, industrials developed strength on the stock exchange today. However, all transatlantic issues drooped when the Wall Street market opened slightly lower. Gold mining shares and home rails were cheerful, while oil shares eased on selling from Paris. Chili-edged securities were dull. The market closed quiet.

Paris—Prices on the bourse fluctuated narrowly today. The tendency was lower owing to the heaviness of American commercial markets and the firmness of the dollar. The closing was irregular.

Berlin—The bourse reacted favorably to reports of decreasing unemployment in the steel and mining industries. A cheerful tendency was evident throughout the session, but business was very quiet with prices practically unchanged.

J. L. Sherwood Made Branch Bank Manager

Federal-American Officer Is Selected for Post In Hamilton National

By Thomas M. Cahill.

J. L. Sherwood, a vice president in charge of Brookland branch of Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., is the third branch manager named for the proposed Hamilton National Bank of Washington.

Brookland branch of Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., one of eight restricted banks to form the Hamilton institution, will be retained as one of eight branches of the Hamilton bank. Mr. Sherwood will be the manager of this branch, located at Twelfth and Newton streets northeast.

Mr. Sherwood's appointment was announced yesterday by Edwin C. Graham, president of the prospective bank. Mr. Sherwood has been active in the development of the community served by this branch. In 1916 he assisted in the organization of Northeast Building Association and has been its president ever since its establishment.

Widely Known in Capital

His career has long been associated with business and banking activities of the city. For 40 years he was in business at Riggs Market, located on P street between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets northwest. In 1922, he entered banking as a vice president of the former Merchants Bank & Trust Co. He assumed management of the Brookland Branch of this company. In 1930, on the consolidation of this company with Federal-American National Bank, he retained his office and duties with this same branch.

Mr. Sherwood, through his long residence in Brookland, has become associated with practically every phase of community development. His name has been connected with many of the civic enterprises responsible for the substantial growth of this section.

The coming annual convention of the American Bankers Association in Chicago, September 4 to 7, is looked forward to with particular interest by the District of Columbia Bankers Association. This is because the local association at its convention at Columbia Country Club, June 8, indorsed the election of Robert V. Fleming, president, Riggs National Bank, as second vice president of the national organization for the next administrative year.

Fleming Is Chairman.

Mr. Fleming is chairman of the national association's committee on Federal legislation and also is State chairman of its Federal legislative council and a member of the association's executive council. Among other local bankers expected to attend the Chicago meeting are E. E. Mountjoy, Washington representative of the national association; Francis G. Addison, jr., president, Security Savings & Commercial Bank, who has been a member of the national association's executive council, and is a former State chairman of its Federal legislative council.

Howard Moran, vice president, American Security & Trust Co., has been a member of a divisional executive committee for the national association, and C. H. Pope, vice president and treasurer, Munsey Trust Co., is a regional president representing the District of Columbia. Other representatives of the American Bankers Association in the local association are: Frank J. Stryker, president, Columbia National Bank, representing the national bank division; Harry G. Meem, president, Washington Loan & Trust Co., the trust company division; Lanier P. McLachlen, president, McLachlen Banking Corporation, State banks representative, and Clarence F. Burton, vice president and cashier, Washington Mechanics Savings Bank, representing the savings bank division.

T. Loehl O'Brien, who, in 1929, was a captain of the cadet corps at Central High School of this city, recently has entered the field of insurance work with an unusual record, having taken and passed all five examinations for the rating of chartered life underwriter this spring. It is customary for these examinations to be taken singly or in pairs. He also was graduated from the Wharton School of Commerce, University of Pennsylvania, this year.

Joins Insurance Agency.

Mr. O'Brien has just joined the local forces of Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., of which John F. Cremen is the well-known general agent.

Mr. O'Brien is the son of Thomas W. O'Brien, counsel for the United States Housing Corporation, Department of Labor, and professor of insurance law at Columbus University here. T. Loehl O'Brien is a member of Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity and lives with his family at 1845 Calvert street northwest.

Maurice Otterback, chairman of the board, Anacostia Bank, is back at his desk after an extended European trip.

George O. Vass, vice president and cashier, Riggs National Bank and president of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, has returned from his vacation. H. T. Bisselle, an assistant cashier of that institution, is now on vacation. Nelson B. O'Neal, an assistant vice president of this bank, has returned from a vacation at Atlantic City. N. J. Kenneth F. Brooks, an assistant trust officer of Riggs National Bank, also is back from his vacation.

U. S. Seeking Data On Small Cargoes

(Associated Press.)

Personal letters inclosing two questionnaires seeking "informed railroad opinion" of handling of less-than-carload freight were addressed yesterday by Joseph B. Eastman, Federal transportation coordinator, to presidents of more than 100 of the larger railroads.

"These inquiries" Eastman said, "are a part of the survey of merchandise traffic which is being conducted covering, among other things, the volume of the traffic, the channels and agencies via which it is now moving, methods used by the several agencies in handling same, charges which the traffic bears, cost of handling, and the proper sphere of each of the several transportation agencies."

The first questionnaire seeks statistical information and covers local experiments made by the roads in dealing with the problem. The second seeks the benefit of informed railroad opinion about many other phases of the merchandise problem.

Curb Follows Big Board in Price Slumps

Heavier Losses Reduced in Late Trading; Sales Up to 278,000 Shares.

New York, Aug. 16 (A.P.).—The Curb Market responded to weakness on the big board with a moderate sell-off. Pressure, however, abated in the late trading and losses of 1 to around 5 points were reduced by the close.

Aluminum Co. of America recovered a point after dropping 5, while General Tire & Rubber sold down to 90, off 5½ points on a nominal turnover. Alcohol shares, off 1½ to 3 points at one time, reduced net losses to fractional proportions, except in Hiram Walker, which finished 2 points lower.

In the power group, Electric Bond & Share halved a 1¾-point drop, while American Gas & Electric and Commonwealth Edison closed at their lows for the day, off around 2 points each. Oils were subject to fair-sized offerings, Humble lost 2¾ points, while Gulf and Standard Oil of Indiana eased a point each.

Transfers approximated 278,000 shares, compared with 166,000 for Tuesday.

General Mills, Inc., Nets $20,606,407

New York, Aug. 16 (Spl.).—Net income of General Mills, Inc., during the first five years of its corporate existence amounted to $20,606,407. Despite the downward trend of dollar volume of sales, earnings in excess of dividend requirements have been maintained through economies, increased efficiency and greater diversity of operations. Aggressive merchandising and advertising and the development of new products and processes have helped to sustain profits. Especial success has been achieved with such packaged products as "Bisquick," a prepared biscuit flour, "Wheaties," a breakfast cereal, and "Softasilk," a cake flour.

General Mills is a combination of several successful, long-established flour and feed companies. Washburn Crosby Co., a Minnesota corporation, which was the largest of the predecessor companies, had an earnings record that showed no losses for a period of over 30 years. Other predecessor companies likewise possessed long records of consistent earnings.

"As General Mills, Inc., activities become more diversified and coordinated, the savings and economies of large scale operations are being reflected in earnings," say a summary of the five years' operations now being mailed to stockholders.

Goods Markets.

New York, Aug. 16 (A.P.).—Gray goods markets were weak today in the cotton cloth division and trading light. Finished cottons sold moderately. Rayon yarns for October were in demand. Inactivity in wool dress goods was attributed to the general strike in the dress goods industry. Silk goods continued in light call. Burlaps eased a little on light business.

Wheat Slumps To Maximum In Selling Rush

Broader Buying Fails to Turn Market Tide; All Grains Drop.

Chicago, Aug. 16 (AP).—Before trading was one minute old today prices of all grains underwent a new maximum collapse, and later failed to recover in the slightest degree.

Accumulated selling orders, which had piled up during the last three days while the markets had been chained to an artificial, continuous limit on price fluctuations, were more than sufficient to overcome any immediate stimulus from altered rules of trading. The substitute rules lifted every ban on what the market might do, except that changes in values during any one day keep within 5 cents limit up or down from the previous day's latest quotations.

Pit observers said mob psychology in the shape of unreasoning fear was chiefly to blame for today's market action, and that public sentiment regarding grains was likely now at any time to make a sudden right-about-face.

Wheat 5 Cents Lower.

Wheat closed nominal at the day's bottom figures, 5 cents down from the average of yesterday's finish; corn 4 cents off, oats showing 3 cents decline and provisions at a setback of 50 cents.

Friends of higher prices gave particular emphasis to a statement from Secretary of Agriculture Wallace that the administration at Washington was trying to do as effectively as possible the fundamental things which would keep the value of wheat up, but was not going to indulge in sleight-of-hand business.

The point was also stressed that recent emergency market measures were only to give time to iron out an adverse situation arising from one extreme speculative account. It was further pointed out that since the season's peak prices for grain were reached about a month ago, wheat had dropped 34 cents, corn 27 cents, oats 15 cents, rye 43 cents, barley 50 cents, and that an upturn in values appeared at present to be much overdue.

Wider Buying Fails.

Hopes that broader buying interest would be attracted on price breaks were disappointed, however, for the time being. Some trade notables said the public was paying too much attention to technical conditions and too little to a broad view which suggested that values had not yet reflected various strong market factors, especially tremendous crop losses in all agricultural products, losses that would sooner or later have inevitable effects on supply and demand and on prices as well.

On the other hand, extreme cautiousness of buyers here was influenced in no small degree because of bearish action of the Winnipeg market, where a continuous arbitrary price limit instead of a daily changing limit was being enforced.

Although wheat trading here was at a standstill most of the day, an improvement was noticeable in the volume of corn and oats dealings.

Provisions, like grain, quickly reached today's minimum prices, and then stayed there.

Barometer Shows Trade Activity Cut

New York, Aug. 16 (Spl.)—The business activity barometer, compiled by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., droped from the peak of 72.5 last week to 71.7 for the current week, a decline of 1.1 per cent. This decline was the result of lower car loadings and power output and a further drop in the price index. The steel and bank clearing factors continued their upward trend. This week's index shows a gain of 45.4 per cent over the like week a year a ago and of 1.3 per cent over the corresponding week of 1931. Compared with the low of March the rise amounts to 62.2 per cent.

The Dun & Bradstreet business activity barometer for the past few weeks follows.

Railway Stock Deal Is Denied by Cord

Chicago, Aug. 16 (AP).—E. L. Cord today denied the reported purchase by him and associates of a block of 104,500 shares of Kansas City Southern Railway stock.

"Nothing to them," he said, concerning rumors of the transaction originating in Wall street circles.

New York, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Sun said today that E. L. Cord and associates were reported in Wall street to have purchased the block of 104,500 shares of Kansas City Southern Railway Co. stock recently sold by the Chicago Great Western Railroad Co.

The report, the newspaper said, found credence in many quarters of the financial district, although confirmation was lacking in circles close to the Cord intesests. The stock represents a 20 per cent interest in the outstanding shares of Kansas City Southern. The shares were sold by the Great Western in July to an unnamed purchaser.

The Cord interests recently expanded their sphere of influence in the transportation field by the purchase of control of the New York Shipbuilding Co., and the Checker Cab Manufacturing Corporation. The latter deal was announced on Monday.

U. S. Treasury Receipts.

(Associated Press.)

The position of the treasury on August 14 was: Receipts, 9,443,378.20; exoenditures, $13,752,123.75; balance, $753,325,-453.20; custom duties for month, $14,808,-709.01.

Receipts for fiscal year (since July 1), $264,761,808.52; expenditures, $443,728,-087.04 (including $145,655,719.67 emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures, $178,966,278.52.

Uncle Sam's Cash Now Is Largest Since War

(Associated Press.)

Uncle Sam had more cash in his pocket yesterday morning than at any time except during the war.

There was $1,247,389,348 of spendable money in the Treasury. It got there through the sale of $1,189,901,-650 of bonds and notes. This netted $389,755,150 to be spent on the administration's recovery program after deducting refunding operations and payments of interest on the public debt.

There already was a balance of $757,634,198.

Receipts for Fair Reach $13,211,214

Chicago, Aug. 16 (AP).—A total of $13,211,214.52 was hung up in the cash registers of A Century of Progress in the first half of its scheduled operation.

This was disclosed today by Martin M. Tveter, exposition comptroller. The fair's first half ended at midnight, August 13, the seventy-ninth day.

Receipts for admissions amounted to $3,111,782.04—not counting an advance sale of 2,193,253 tickets before the official opening day.

An additional $10,099,432.48 was spent by visitors, now numbered at over 9,000,000, in the various concessions within the grounds. The exposition's share of this sum was $375,000.

"The Streets of Paris" continues to lead the concessions, its income for the first half of the exposition being $813,716.16.

Electric Power Consumption For Nation Gains 15 Per Cent

New York, Aug. 16 (AP).—Electric power consumption for the country last week was up 15 per cent as compared with a year ago. The gain was only a shade less than the 15.6 per cent rise reported in the previous week and the peak improvement reported for the period ended July 15.

Th week's outturn, as reported by the Edison Electric Institute, amounted to 1,627,339,000 kilowatt-hours against 1,650,013,000 in the preceding week and 1,415,122,000 in the corresponding period last year. The loss from the week of August 5 was a seasonal recession, accentuated by some slowing down in industrial activity.

In the major geographical regions, output gains over the previous year were substantially maintained around recent levels. The central industrial district was up 21 per cent against 22.7 per cent in the previous week; Middle Atlantic up 10.8 against 12.8; and New England up 19.4 against 21.3. Southern States did slightly better with a 17.4 per cent rise against 17 per cent the week before. The Pacific Coast also showed improvement at a 6.8 per cent gain compared with 5.9 per cent in the previous week.

New York Central Lines Loadings Drop in Week

New York, Aug. 16 (AP).—New York Central Railroad Co. last week had total freight loadings of 100,439 cars compared with 104,759 in the previous week and 75,903 in the corresponding period last year. The gain over last year was 32.3 per cent against a rise of 39.8 per cent for the previous week against the comparable 1932 figures.

High Prices Start Tobacco Moving

Florence, S. C., Aug. 16 (AP).—Encouraged by a gradually rising market, farmers of the South Carolina belt brought hundreds of thousands of pounds of tobacco into warehouses today.

Prices advanced again yesterday, particularly for the superior grades, and many of the 16 markets reported "the best day" of the season Tuesday. Sales were heavy, with blocked sales in several warehouses. A record for the four selling days was established at Mullins, when 535,482 pounds were sold at an average of $13.47 a hundred.

As compared with an average on the opening day of $11.10, Lake City's official average yesterday was $14.38. The official report showed 518,427 pounds were sold with prices better for all grades. Sales at Fairmont and Whiteville, border markets, were the heaviest of the year with averages near $14.

Hercules Power Plant Announces Pay Raise

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 16 (AP).—The Hercules Powder Co. today announced an increase of 10 per cent for all salaried employes at the home office, branch offices and plants.

The increase, effective as of August 1, affects more than 600 employes and restores salaries to a level effective before two decreases were ordered more than a year ago. The five-day week for office workers, instituted more than a year ago, remains in effect.

The company last week announced shorter hours and increased wages at its various plants.

Midcontinent Oil Freights Changed

(Associated Press.)

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday held unreasonable the rate on gasoline and other petroleum products in carloads from the Mid-Continent field to Minnesota. The commission prescribed a new scale for the future and awarded large sums of reparation on past shipments.

The roads involved were ordered to establish on or before November 9 rates not exceeding 40 cents per 100 pounds from group 2 in the Mid-Continent field; 42 cents from group 3, and 44.5 cents from the north Texas group. Present emergency increases may be added.

The roads also were ordered to apply to transportation of fuel oil and other low grade petroleum products taking the same rates, to the same points, charges not exceeding 80 per cent of the contemporaneous rates on gasoline.

Hard-Coal Cargoes Decrease in July

New York, Aug. 16 (Spl.).—Shipments of anthracite for the month of July, 1933, as reported to the Anthracite Institute, Primos, Pa., amounted to 3,211,533 net tons. This is a decrease, as compared with shipments during the preceding month of June, of 300,849 net tons, or 8.57 per cent and when compared with July, 1932, shows an increase of 433,906 net tons, or 15.62 per cent.

Shipments by originating carriers for the month of July, 1933, as compared with the preceding month of June, and with July 1932, are as follows:

Cotton's Drop Of $2 Reduced By Late Rally

December Closes at 8.89 as General Market Drops 12 to 21 Points.

New York, Aug. 16 (AP).—A further decline of about $2 a bale in cotton was followed by partial rallies on covering today.

December contracts, after breaking to 8.66, or 44 points net lower and 354 points below the high record of last month, closed at 8.89, or 23 points up from the lowest, with the general market closing firm at net declines of 12 to 21 points.

Relatively steady Liverpool cables were offset by a favorable view of weather and crop conditions, and in addition to liquidation there was considerable selling through brokers with foreign connections. The South also was credited with selling more freely.

Offerings increased after the publication of the weekly weather report and the action of the wheat and stock markets seemed to stimulate the selling. Numerous stop orders were uncovered during the progress of the decline, which carried active months about 38 to 44 points below yesterday's closing quotations.

Offerings Tapered Off.

Offerings then tapered off and there were sharp rallies in the late trading on covering and scattered buying, accompanied by talk of a firm technical position and rerenewed talk of inflationary possibilities.

Exports today, 26,571 bales, making 304,050 so far this season. Port receipts, 12,388 bales. United States port stocks, 2,903,489 bales.

The relatively steady tone of Liverpool was attributed by private cables to trade calling and Bombay buying, which had absorbed continental liquidation and hedging during the earlier trading.

Houses with Liverpool, Continental and Far Eastern connections were among the earlier sellers here, but the pressure was attributed largely to liquidation of old long accounts, combined with the increased offerings from New Orleans and the South.

Bankers Back Bond Deposits In Refunding

Virginia Financiers to Aid Maryland Casualty Plan of Adjustment.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 16 (Spl.).—A committee of Virginia bankers has decided, unanimously, to recommend to owners of bonds secured by mortgages guaranteed by the Maryland Casualty Co. or by the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. that they deposit those bonds under a refunding plan now being conducted by three Baltimore banking houses, it was announced yesterday (Saturday) by Harold G. Brown, vice president of the Shenandoah Valley National Bank, chairman of the committee. The committee announced that it would deposit all such bonds held by their banks or their clients.

Clifford D. Grim, of Hansbrough & Carter, Winchester, is chairman of a subcommittee which conducted a thorough investigation of the refunding plan. Virginia investors own nearly $5,000,000 of these bonds.

The investigation of the plan was made after a committee of ten Virginia bankers was formed on June 22 to consider it. This recommendation of the Virginia committee follows closely the announcement that every bank and trust company in Baltimore has recommended deposits by bond owners.

Plan Is Recommended.

Other large independent trust companies, and nationally known statistical organizations, each of which made an independent investigation for the benefit of its clients, also have recommended the plan.

The recommendation also is in line with the statement by Gov. Pollard before the convention of governors in San Francisco last month that "every dictate of public interest and justice calls for the readjustment of mortgage debt, the lowering of interest rates and extension of maturities."

Mr. Grim, who, with Ashton Dovell, attorney for the Peninsula Bank & Trust Co. of Williamsburg, visited Baltimore and studied all phases of the plan, said that the committee of Virginia bankers had decided to advise bond owners to deposit at once and to clear their deposits through the trust department of the Shenandoah Valley National Bank at Winchester. Mr. Grim also stated that the committee had been assured that flexibility of the plan would insure liquidation of the bonds and indentures as rapidly as the earnings of their collateral would permit, although maturity for the new securities is extended to 20 years under the plan.

Refunding Plan As Aid.

The refunding plan, which was made necessary by the collapse in real estate values during the depression, and wide-spread unemployment among wage earning home owners who could no longer meet interest and amortization charges on their mortgages, was developed by representatives of the bond owners in cooperation with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the two surety companies. As described in a circular issued by the plan's managers, two options are offered the owners of bonds affected by the plan.

Any owners of bonds interested in the refunding plan, Mr. Grim said, may obtain full information as to details from any of the following members of the committee, whose banks will arrange for deposit of the bonds through the Virginia committee: Chairman Harold G. Brown, vice president, Shenandoah Valley National Bank, Winchester, Va.; J. Sinclair Brown, president, Farmers National Bank, Salem, Va.; Clifford D. Grim, Hansbrough & Carter, investment bankers, Winchester, Va.; E. A. Sale, assistant to the president, Citizens National Bank, Covington, Va.; R. C. Slaughter, vice president, Citizens National Bank, Rorange, Va.; B. M. Hagan, cashier, Bank of Christiansburg, Christiansburg, Va.; T. A. Bain, manager bond department, Sea board Citizens National Bank, Norfolk, Va.; Homer L. Ferguson, jr., assistant trust officer, First National Bank, Newport News, Va.; John I. Sloat, cashier, Commercial & Savings Bank, Winchester, Va.; Secretary of Committee Giles H. Miller, jr., Culpeper National Bank, Culpeper, Va.; Ashton Dovell, attorney, Peninsula Bank & Trust Co., Williamsburg, Va.; Andrew Christian, of Christian. & Barton, Richmond attorneys, employed as counsel for the Virginia committee.

The three Baltimore banking houses which are managing the plan are Mackubin, Goodrich & Co., Baker, Watts & Co., and Stein Bros. & Boyce. The plan has been described as the largest refunding operation ever undertaken in the country. There are 35,000 owners of $85,000,000 of the bonds, located in every State in the Union.

Watermelon Crop Cut in Delaware

U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

College Park, Md., Aug. 16.—Delaware watermelon growers expect to harvest a crop of about 203,000 melons this year, according to Richard C. Ross, Federal agricultural statistician for Delaware. This production would be nearly 15 per cent smaller than the 1932 crop of 238,000 melons.

Weather conditions were not favorable for the best development of melons during July and yields per acre are expected to average lower than last year. Acreage is somewhat larger than a year ago.

Production of watermelons in the late group of States this year is expected to be 12 per cent smaller than the 1932 production but more than a fourth larger than the 5-year average production for the years 1927 to 1931. Both reported acreage and indicated yield per acre are about 5 per cent below last year's estimates. The total commercial production now forecast for the United States, including that harvested in the early areas, is 11 per cent smaller than last year's crop and 23 per cent smaller than the 5-year average production.

New Attractions in the Theaters Detailed Before Their Newness Has Grown Dim

Local Revue Is Feature of an Eventful Week

Four New Films, Holdover, Two Advance Openings and Tom Howard.

By Nelson B. Bell.

Today this department of The Post inaugurates what it feels will be a helpful service to its readers by presenting in detail, and with suitable pictorial embellishment, the motion picture theater bills which normally are presented to the public for the first time on Friday mornings, except in the case of the Columbia Theater, which has adopted an ancient and honorable custom of offering its new bills on Mondays.

This makes available to prospective or potential ticket buyers a comprehensive survey of what may be expected on the screens and stages of all the downtown, first-run houses a full day in advance of the opening of the new programs.

The advance opening of the return engagement of George Arliss in "Voltaire," at the Metropolitan, on Wednesday, and the similarly premature opening of "Slim" Summerville and ZaSu Pitts in "Her First Mate," at RKO-Keith's today, militate slightly against the anticipatory margin of 24 hours in the present instance, but hereafter, with fair regularity, Thursday's Post will each week fully apprise amusement-seekers and showshoppers of what will be available to satisfy their theatrical tastes, tendencies and predilections on the morrow.

The Sabbath dramatic department, devoted to special news and feature stories relating to the cinema, the legitimate stage, parks and allied amusement, will be maintained as heretofore.

In the meantime, there are items at hand that should be set down for the information and edification of the faithful, following which, with reasonable luck, we will get back to the matter of the new bills in the local cathedrals of the celluloids.

Golden Gate Opera.

For instance, from San Francisco is flashed word that, although the city's eleventh annual grand opera season is still almost three months away, and has not yet been accorded a public seat sale, it is already approximately five-sixths sold out.

The gross on ten nights of opera between November 3 and December 1 is estimated at $120,000, according to reliable report. Orders already received for seats by the sponsors of San Francisco's grand opera—and this without public solicitation—exceed $100,000.

All of the lower priced seats—the scale starts at $1, with a $5 top, except for the boxes—have been sold for the season.

Twenty stars, headed by Lawrence Tibbett, are being imported for the season. Tibbett, a Californian himself, will do "The Emperor Jones," in which he triumphed last season at the Metropolitan, and also will sing in "Traviata" and "I Pagliacci."

Then there will be Lucrezia Bori, making her first opera appearance by the Golden Gate; Cyrena Van Gordon, Gertrude Kappel, another singer new to San Francisco, and Kathryn Meisle and Claudia Muzio, who opened San Francisco's $5,000,000 War Memorial Opera House last year with her triumphant "Tosca."

Paul Althouse will be among those present for the first time in half a dozen years, and Giovanni Martinelli, Richard Bonelli, Alfred Gandolfi and Dino Borgiolli also will be heard.

An Earlier Favorite.

This is no new thing for San Francisco, this enthusiasm over a season of the best obtainable grand opera.

I recall once listening to a magnificent rendition of the soprano role of "Lucia Di Lammermoor" in the handsome Municipal Opera House in San Juan, Porto Rico, during which, in the so-called "mad scene," a diva of great range and flexibility of voice literally "made a fool of the flute." She was heralded merely as an artiste popular in San Francisco, en route back to Europe via the West Indies, Caracas, Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires, there to thrill continental audiences with the incomparable beauties of an unexampled vocal organ.

It was not until some years later, under the guidance of Oscar Hammerstein, that her fame on the Eastern Seaboard matched that which she already had achieved on the Pacific Coast.

The artiste to whom I refer, in case you remember the name, was Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini, the greatest coloratura of her generation.

Significant of the recent trend, of which more or less has been said here of late, is the fact that following the engagement of George Arliss in "Voltaire" at the Metropolitan—which, according to dead reckoning, would be on Friday, August 25—the attraction at that house will be "Double Harness," the Radio production in which Ann Harding and William Powell are costarred for the first time. This is another downton return engagement, demonstrating further that a theater devoted entirely to bookings of this character might not be such bad business.

Running Away From Relapse.

Another flash from the Coast has it that Dick Powell has taken two weeks' vacation from the Warner Brothers-First National lot, fearful of a relapse threatened by his resumption of work in "Footlight Parade" too soon after his recent attack of pneumonia.

When Dick returns to Burbank—provided his prospective partner is back from a visit to New York—he will be costarred with Ruby Keeler (Mrs. Al Jolson) in a new piece of footage to be called "Sweethearts Forever."

Parking Facilities.

A little nearer home, it should be known, are such factual items as that Buddy Harrod and His Orchestra is the dance band attraction engaged for tomorrow night at Chevy Chase Lake, where Eddie Carr is catering to the musical and moist needs of the younger dancing set. Harrod, whose organization is well known from their regular broadcasts from Yoeng's Restaurant, New York, has just completed an engagement at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago. They will be at Chevy Chase Lake tomorrow night only, when dancing may be enjoyed—if that is the way you feel about it—from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m., which ought to be long enough for anybody.

Then there is the matter of Glen Echo Park, where another of those swim meets is to be held next Monday night, at 8:30 sharp. Events for men, women and boys are carded, all sanctioned by the D. C. A. A. U. All of the regular park attractions will be in full operation, of course, in addition to these special water events in the Crystal Pool.

Over at Seaside Park, which is by way of being at Chesapeake Beach, Md., Saturday's special attraction will be the visit of the Loew's Washington Theaters Cadet Band, organized and conducted by Capt. J. B. MacKenzie. The youngsters will be guests of the park management, but in the early evening will give a concert on the grounds and later will play for dancing in the Seaside Ballroom.

It is reported that Allen Jenkins, who encountered his greatest stage opportunity as the imported gunman in "Blessed Event," with Roger Pryor, and has been playing tough eggs on the screen almost continuously since, when off the lots always appears in a beret, of all things! A Hell's Kitchen cap, maybe, but who'd ever guess a beret for that lug?

Black Beret Party.

And that reminds me. In a recent newsreel was a shot of Jack Johnson, "Li'l Artha," one time heavyweight champion of the world, later fugitive from justice and exile, and latterly a self-expatriated hanger-on on the fringes of Paris night life.

Jack, looking about as fit as he was some years back when I saw him last, featuring a floor show in a side-street Atlantic City cabaret, is now doorman and bouncer in an obscure Montmartre cafe.

He was wearing a beret, too, when the cameraman pointed the lens at him!

And now, getting back to the new bills in the picture houses, those responsible for the dissemination of reliable information concerning the charms of the cinema and the variegations of vaudeville would have us believe—and I don't see why not—that they will be approximately as follows:

Loew's Fox

The professional world, entertainingly speaking, steps aside this week and takes a humble bow as 60 of Washington's most talented dancers, vocalists, comics and entertainment specialists blend their accomplishments in a gay, musical fast-paced revue, "Going Native," appearing tomorrow on the stage at Loew's Fox Theater.

Brook Johns, another native product, whose dynamic personality and banjo have carved for him a sizable niche on Broadway and other notable stages, will m. c., this tuneful revue, staged by Gene Ford, of the Loew production department, under the personal supervision of Louis K. Sydney. Ned McGurn, whose dancing arrangements were incorporated in Earl Carrol's "Vanities" and other stage productions, has perfected the dancing numbers for "Going Native."

"Going Native" has all the elements of a pretentious attraction and, it is believed, will delightfully surprise Loew's Fox Theater patrons.

Augmenting the lavish revue will be the screen feature, "The Devil's in Love," with Loretta Young and Victor Jory in the featured roles.

This Fox picture presents a graphic story of a young Foreign Legion surgeon who is exiled from his associates following a false accusation of murder. Replete with action, this production reaches a dramatic and romantic climax as the banished officer braves the unusual risks to save the lives of his former comrades.

David Manners and Herbert Mundin have prominent roles in this story by Harrey Hervey, which was directed by William Dieterle.

A complete list of short subjects, news and comedies supplement the featured stage and screen attractions.

Victor Jory, whose first starring picture is "The Devil's in Love," which opens tomorrow at Loew's Fox, is a former boxer and wrestler, having once been light heavyweight champion of British Columbia and later California National Guard boxing and wrestling champion. He gave up active participation in these strenuous sports to go on the stage, but is always in training.

He maintains his connection with boxing now by managing three boys who fight frequently at the Pasadena Arena, being the only fight manager who can give his proteges a good whipping if he feels so minded.

Earle

"She Had to Say Yes," the screen feature opening tomorrow at Warner Bros. Earle Theater, brings to the screen four Hollywood favorites, Loretta Young, Winnie Lightner, Lyle Talbot and Regis Toomey.

The stage bill features the droll comedian of stage, screen and radio, Tom Howard.

The story of "She Had to Say Yes" is based on actual fact, and deals with a new angle of the age-old "gold digging" game, in which the firm represented makes use of its own secretaries and stenographers as "customers' girls." It is their business to spend the evening with out-of-town buyers who are looking for entertainment as well as the purchase of goods.

The picture is said to be gay and entertaining to a high degree, with strong dramatic moments in the girls' midnight frolics with none too scrupulous escorts.

The stage show is a joyous one, headed by the favorite Tom Howard, droll comedian, presenting, assisted by a company of four funmakers, a comedy skit entitled "The Hold Up." Other entertainers are Irene Vermillion, the pert personality, assisted by the Beverly Sisters; Joe and Jane McKenna in "Mirth and Melody," and Bob Ripa, the juggling genius.

Short reels, the McNamee news and the Earle Orchestral prelude complete the program.

Suzanne Kilborn, wife of Chester Morris, makes her bow in talking pictures in a featured role in "She Had to Say Yes."

She has had plenty of theatrical experience, however, having been a favorite on the stage in musical comedies for some time. Her mother, Cynthia Kellogg, was a famous singer and trained Suzanne in singing and dancing almost from infancy.

Five years ago Miss Kilborn took a brief vacation from the stage to play in a silent picture, but immediately returned to musical comedy work. Miss Kilborn visited the First National studios when her husband was playing opposite Joan Blondell in "Blondie Johnson." She had no thought of entering pictures, but it was suggested that she have a test made. The next day she was engaged to play an important role in "She Had to Say Yes."

She has the part of a blonde vamp, one of the "customers' girls" employed by a cloak and suit company to entertain out-of-town buyers and to "yes" them into signing profitable contracts.

RKO-Keith's

Evidently created for laughing purposes only—and fulfilling that purpose in a most commendable fashion — Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts are sharing starring honors in "Her First Mate," currently showing at RKO-Keith's.

This unusual duo, the solemn-faced and "dry" Slim Summerville and the fluttering ZaSu Pitts, have appeared in two previous comedies, both of which were highly successful. "Her First Mate," the current release in a proposed series of such laughmakers, gives every indication that Carl Laemmle, producing head of Universal Pictures, has hit upon a happy combination.

"Her First Mate" is from the stage play "Salt Water," by Dan Jarrett, Frank Craven and John Golden and in the cast supporting Summerville and Miss Pitts are Una Merbel, Warren Hymer, Berton Churchill, George Marion and Henry Armetta.

The supplementary bill consists of "Jimmie Gleason's New Deal," a brief two-reel comedy; another in the series of screen snapshots, presenting intimate views of Hollywood screen players; a Pooch, the Pup, animated cartoon and the Pathe News.

ZaSu Pitts and Slim Summerville possess very contrasting attributes. For instance, with Slim 'tis a "dead pan," (meaning out of the argot, an expressionless face) and with ZaSu 'tis a pair of fluttering hands and a woe-begone expression.

Bring these two together, and you have the groundwork of a laugh riot!

When ZaSu Pitts first went into pictures her hands were the bane of her life. She didn't know what to do with them. They were forever getting where they shouldn't be and many a director has felt like murdering ZaSu, and would have been justified in so doing.

But soon somebody, a little smarter than the others, saw the possibilities of comedy in those hands of ZaSu's, and ZaSu found her place in the movies—an individual place that no one else will ever be able to fill.

"Her First Mate" is a story of a married couple who had never gotten on very well together and who, in addition, had never gotten very far away from Snag Harbor, the little town where both were reared. Slim loves the sea and ZaSu does not love the sea—and there you are!

Columbia

"Life in the Raw," the new Zane Grey story, with George O'Brien in the featured role, is the new screen attraction that opens Monday at Loew's Columbia Theater.

It brings together the two foremost interpreters of Western life, in both acting and writing, in a production that has all the popular elements of romantic adventure.

O'Brien, who returns to the screen after being away for six months, has a vehicle that permits him to add to his reputation as the premier Western star in talking pictures. He rides hard, fights hard and has an abundance of dangerous adventures backed by a romance with an inexperienced Eastern girl who finds herself stranded amid frontier intrigues.

Claire Trevor, the beautiful new recruit from the New York stage, is O'Brien's new leading lady. In addition to starring in numerous stage hits she earned considerable distinction for her work in "Whistling in the Dark," in which she played opposite Ernest Truex.

The supporting cast has a fine set of comedy and character actors, such as Greta Nissen, Francis Ford, Warner Richmond, Gaylord Pendleton, Alan Edwards and Nigel de Brulier.

Louis King directed. The dancing ensembles in various sequences were perfected by Sammy Lee.

Short features, comedy and newsreel round out the bill.

Metropolitan

"Voltaire," Warner Bros. magnificent drama starring the screen's greatest character artist, George Arliss, is the current attraction at Warner Bros. Metropolitan Theater. It has been brought back by popular request after a triumphant week at the Earle Theater.

"Voltaire" features one spectacular incident in the life of the brilliant poet-philosopher who was a friend of royalty in Europe, but a champion of the common people in his native France.

With the famous Calas case serving as the principal story about which the plot revolves, Arliss has evolved a character study and a living picture of France in the extravagant times of King Louis XV.

Sumptuously mounted in sets of exceptional size and magnificence, "Voltaire" unfolds a gripping melodrama in an atmosphere of breathtaking beauty and grandeur. The story moves from Voltaire's Paris apartments into the boudoirs of Mme. de Pompadour, through the stately gilded halls of the king's palace and on to the unrivaled elegance of Versailles.

The cast in support of George Arliss includes such well-known players as Doris Kenyon, Alan Mowbray, Margaret Lindsay, Reginald Owen, Theodore Newton and Gordon Westcott.

A specially selected array of short subjects, including "The Double Crossing of Columbus," with Charles Judels and the Paramount Sound News will complete the program.

Palace.

Having definitely established themselves on the most popular starring team ever to cast their lovable forms across the talking picture screen, Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery are staying over for a second week with "Tugboat Annie," at the Loew's Palace Theater.

So notable was the response to their collective efforts in this engrossing production, that the management has bowed to public demand and decided to hold over for this week this saga of laughs, tears and thrills.

"Tugboat Annie" is a fitting sequel to "Min and Bill," which first brought the Dressler-Beery team together. Their current production from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios is a perfect blending of comedy a la Beery and Dressler, heart interest and dramatic climax with genuine thrills in a closing sea rescue that is unusual.

Marie is pictured as the thoroughly human wife of a drunken tugboat captain, devoted to her husband and son, who ultimately fulfills their ambitions for him and captains a huge ocean liner. Marie and Wally have their domestic tiffs, always laugh provoking, and their ultimate reconciliations, always heart satisfying.

Robert Young and Maureen O'Sullivan lead in the supporting cast. Others are Willard Robertson, Frankie Darro, Tommy Young, Jack Penwick and Paul Hurst.

"Tugboat Annie" is based on the celebrated stories by Norman Reilly Raine, published serially in the Saturday Evening Post.

Mervyn Leroy, who has directed some of the most outstanding box-office attractions of the last few years, also directed this Beery-Dressler feature.

Nats Trim Chisox, 5-1, for 8th in Row; Top Yanks by 6 1-2 Games

Year's 16th Is Won by Whitehill

Cronin Pounds Homer; Goose Goslin Slams Two Doubles.

Appling's Circuit Clout In Only Run Obtained Off Nat Hurler.

By Shirley L. Povich.
(Sports Editor of The Post.)

COMISKEY Park, Chicago, Aug. 16.—Those confirmed inflationists, the Nats, jammed through a three-point program of American League legislation today, expanding their winning streak to eight straight, deflating the White Sox, and increasing their league lead over the Yankees to 6½ games, all in one paragraph.

The party whip, Earl Whitehill, left-handed the White Sox into submission, while the Browns in St. Louis threw their power to the Nats by vetoing the Yankees, 13-3. And here in Chicago, Whitehill's Washington delegation gave him a 5-1 plurality against the White Sox pitching after all outlying innings had been heard from.

Thus the Nats are fast assuming dictatorial powers in the pennant race with their present lead greater than any margin enjoyed by any club in either league this year. If there are now any dissenting votes in the belief that the Nats are not pennant bound, the Yankees constitute a minority of one.

Whitehill in Fine Form.

Party Whip Whitehill was in superb form this afternoon in his brush with Milton Gaston, the converted Nat, permitting the White Sox only seven hits, which gave them little voice in the matter of the ball game. It was Whitehill's sixteenth triumph of the year.

Washington-Chicago games are getting to be an exact science, what with the Nats winning for the second straight day by the identical 5-to-1 score, and making the same number of hits as on the occasion of their triumph of yesterday.

The Nats' program today was simple. With Whitehill unraveling the Sox punch, Washington scored methodically in all the even innings. They scored once in the second, once in the fourth, once in the sixth and twice in the eighth to pile up their majority.

Chairman pro tem of the Nats' batting attack was Luke Sewell, the Alabaman, who was found at the batting end of a hit-and-run play in the second and another hit-and-run play in the fourth. Each time he hit and each time the runner ran home to give the Nats the two runs that would have been sufficient regardless of the returns of the last five precincts.

Four times against Whitehill, the Sox opened an inning with a safe hit, but it is significant that the only time they scored was when Appling opened the fifth inning with a terrific home run into the center field bleachers. At that, Joe Cronin evened the home run score for the day, when he knocked an entirely superfluous homer into the left field stands in the sixth.

Whitehill Tightens Reins.

The Sox went to great lengths and scored their only run of the day in the fifth on a home run, single and a double. The single and double followed the homer with none out, whereupon Party Whip Whitehill tightened the party lines and permitted no more damage at a time when he seemed to be wavering.

The individual program of Heinie Manush was also carried out to success after some disappointing delay when he smacked a double in his fourth and last appearance at the plate to extend to 23 his consecutive-game hitting streak, which had bumped up against Second Baseman Rhyne three times in a row and was all but fractured.

The Nats took a two-run lead, one run at a time under almost identical conditions. Kuhel walked to open the second, was sacrificed to second by Bluege, and scored on Sewell's single. Kuhel singled in the fourth, was sacrificed to second by Bluege, and scored on Sewell's single.

Homer Opens Sox' Fifth.

Appling's homer to open the fifth got the Sox back a run and then Dykes singled and went to third on Rhyne's double. Whitehill called an abrupt halt by tossing out Grube, striking out Gaston and forcing Swanson to fly to Schulte.

Cronin's home run in the sixth upped the score to 3 to 1, and it became 5 to 1 in the eighth when Goslin got his second double of the game, scored on a double by Manush, who went to third on Cronin's infield out, and scored with a slide into the plate when Kress took Schulte's grounder and foolishly attempted to make the play at home.

With the Nats holding a 6½-game lead, the pennant race provides a bit of pertinent speculation, as follows:

If the Nats win only half of their remaining 44 games, the Yankees must win 29 and lose 16 of their remaining 45 games to gain a tie.

Thus if Washington plays only at a .500 gait during the remainder of the season, the Yankees must play at a .644 pace in their remaining 45 games, as contrasted to their .595 average at present.

Graveyard Blues Win.

The Graveyard Blues defeated the Buddy Myers on the Tech Field yesterday by a score of 22 to 4. The Blues want games. Interested managers call North 4059.

Pirates Divide 2 Tilts With Dodgers

Lose First, 2-1, in 11th, but Come back to Win, 11-7, in Second game.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Dodgers and the second-place Pittsburgh Pirates divided a pair of oddly assorted games today. A combination of Danny Taylor's home-run hitting and Van Lingle Mungo's pitching gave Brooklyn the opener, 2 to 1, in eleven innings; then the Pirates came back to slam out an 11-to-7 victory.

The even break cost the Pirates a half game in their race to overtake the New York Giants, who won a single game. It left them four games behind the league leaders.

Mungo gave the Pirates only seven hits in the opening duel with Larry French, but the Pittsburgh southpaw matched his flinging and yielded only six blows. Taylor made up the difference, clouting a home run in the eleventh to win the game after knotting the count with a four-bagger in the sixth.

In the second game, the Bucs went to work on Owen Carroll in the second inning and batted heavily and impartially against his two successors, Joe Shaute and Hollis Thurston. Tony Piet's homer accounted for the first two Pirate tallies.

Cards and Phillies Divide Double Bill

St. Louis Wins First, 7 to 6, on Homer in 12th, but Loses Second, 2-0.

Philadelphia, Aug. 16 (AP). — A home run by Jimmy Collins, St. Louis Cardinals' first baseman, in the twelfth inning of a hard-fought first game spoiled the Phillies' chances of taking both ends of a double-header today. The Shottonmen lost the first game, 7 to 6, but won the second behind the shutout pitching of Austin (Cy) Moore, 2 to 0.

Hildebrand Gives Way to Harder, Who is Credited With Decision.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 16 (AP). Successive singles by Porter, Cissell and Averill in the ninth inning gave the Cleveland Indians the winning run today as the Tribe gained a 5-to-4 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Oral Hildebrand, big right-hander, and Merritt "Sugar" Cain opposed each other on the mound at the start, but Hildebrand gave way to a pinch-hitter in the sixth and Harder finished, getting credit for the victory.

Lew Fonseca Out 3 Days After Row

Chicago, Aug. 16 (U.P.).—President William Harridge of the American Baseball League announced today the suspension for three days of Lew Fonseca, manager of the Chicago White Sox.

Harridge said the suspension was for using abusive language and refusing to leave the players' bench after being ordered by an umpire to do so.

The dispute which led to the suspension developed in yesterday's game between the Sox and Washington Nationals. Fonseca and other Sox players claimed that a batted ball was foul. Umpire Lou Kolls ruled it fair and it let in three Washington runs. Washington won, 5 to 2.

Helen Moody Advances Easily

Defeats Grace Surber in Two Sets, Losing but Three Games.

Other Favorites Score; Play Due to Become Heated Today.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 16 (AP).—The field of competitors for the women's national tennis championship was well narrowed down today to those who "belong," the select 16 stars of this country and Great Britain, who gained the right to battle on in tomorrow's third round.

As was to be anticipated, members of the net game's upper crust were not unduly exerted except in a few rare instances. There are not enough really high ranking women players, as a matter of fact, to sustain anything like close competition through six days of play. Tomorrow things should begin getting warm.

One Slight Casualty.

Up to this point the seeded list had sustained only one slight casualty. That came today when Joan Ridley, of England, seeded No. 5 on the foreign list, succumbed to the steady game of Mrs. A. J. Lamme, jr., of Rye, N. Y., by scores of 8—6, 4—6, 6—4. Miss Ridley's defeat caused little surprise, as the British girl has been playing only fair tennis this season. Mrs. Lamme is ranked No. 20 in this country.

As usual, the day's most exuberant crowd trooped over to an obscure court to watch Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, the seven-time champion, score an easy victory over Grace Surber, champion of Jackson Heights, N. Y., 6—2, 6—1.

Helen Jacobs, who still is the defending champion, despite the inclination of many observers to attach her crown without a struggle, didn't draw a long breath in eliminating Katheryn Pearson, of Houston, Tex., 6—2, 6—1.

Alice Marble, Sarah Palfrey and Carolin Babcock, the trio who comprise the "top crop" of American stars, all came through with brilliant victories today. One of the three is expected, in time, to crack the long reign of the California Helens and establish a dynasty of her own.

Miss Marble defeated Virginia

Tigers Down Red Sox On Seven Hits, 6 to 5

Detroit, Aug. 16 (AP).—Detroit made the best possible use of seven hits today and defeated Boston, 6 to 5, to take a one-game edge in the current series. Carl Fischer relieved Vic Frasier on the mound for Detroit in the eighth after two singles and a long fly had given the Sox a run.

Marty McManus, manager of the Sox, was banished in the first for protesting a ruling that Gerald Walker was safe at third on a steal.

Vines in Form; Routs Pair of Foes

National Champion Downs Williams and Grant in Straight Sets.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 16 (AP). Any doubts that Ellsworth Vines, national tennis champion, has not recovered from his Davis Cup collapse were removed today when the lanky Californian titlist polished off two capable rivals with neatness and dispatch to lead the parade of seeded players into the Newport Casino tournament's round of eight.

Vines, who seemed safely along the road to his third straight Casino victory, was seldom in better form as he registered straight set victories over R. Norris Williams, the Philadelphia veteran and the brilliant little Bryan Grant from Atlanta.

Tries All Weapons.

Vines tried every weapon in his tennis armory to overcome Williams, 6—1, 6—3, in a third round match. He was so keyed up to gain a speedy victory over the veteran that he followed his forcing shots to the net to slice off placements, aggressive tactics that he uses only in a crisis. Williams, however, made his task an easy one by trying to storm the barrier himself and was passed repeatedly by Vines, who totaled 16 earned points to 12 and 32 errors to 48.

The title defender was much more decisive against Grant in defeating the stubby Southerner 6—2, 6—2.

Vines ran up the amazing total of 29 earned points, including 26 placements, to three, but made 37 errors to 33 for Grant. Both were charged with the high total of 21 outs during their 16 game match.

Wilmer Allison, Frank M. Shields and Clifford Sutter, who followed Vines on the seeded list, easily

Mary Reynolds Takes $50,000 Hambletonian

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 16 (U.P.).—Mary Reynolds, a high-stepping filly, carrying the black-and-white silks of William N. Reynolds, of Winston-Salem, N. C., outdistanced 11 of the Nation's finest trotters today to win the seventh renewal of the classic $50,000 Hambletonian Stake.

Winning two of the three heats, Mary Reynolds brought her wealthy tobacco merchant owner harness racing's blue ribbon event for the first time and increased her winnings by $28,323. As treasurer of the Hambletonian Society Mr. Reynolds took a check for this amount out of his right pocket and placed it in his left.

Swerves Badly to Beat Himself in Stretch; Baby Stare Third.

Barn Swallow, Victor In $11,525 Saratoga Feature Race.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP).—Under a punishing ride by Jockey Charley Corbett, Don Manuel, Jack Howard's candidate for the Juvenile Stakes, to be run next Saturday, took the Silver Lake Purse at Hawthorne today. Five other eligibles for the baby stake race appeared in this number, which was at 5½ furlongs. Penncote, highly regarded by the betting public, swerved badly in the stretch and was beaten by Don Manuel by half a length. Baby Stare took down the minor end of the purse.

Don Manuel, under severe pressure from the beginning, led all the way, but Penncote might have won if his rider could have kept him running straight. The time for the dash was 1:07 1-5, and Don Manuel paid $5.86 in the $2 mutuels.

Barn Swallow Victor.

Saratoga Springs Race Track, N. Y., Aug. 16 (AP).—Edward Riley Bradley's Barn Swallow won the fifty-third running of the coveted Alabama Stakes, oldest 3-year-old filly fixture in the country, in queenly fashion here this afternoon.

The daughter of Black Servant rang up her first triumph since the Kentucky Oaks without being extended, passing the pagoda pole with four lengths advantage over the driving Adolph E. Pons' representative, Swivel. Edelweiss, winner of the Coaching Club American Oaks, was a poor third, eight additional lengths out of it.

Win Worth $11,525.

Under 124 pounds, two less than the package carried by Edelweiss, the Bradley miss stepped the mile and a quarter in 2:06 3-5, without being asked to better that mark. The victory was worth $11,525 to the Bradley coffers and the winner was a 6-to-5 favorite. The race gave Owner Bradley and Jockey Don Meade their second success of the day.

There was plenty of money for Swivel. This filly won so handsomely at Havre de Grace in the spring that she was considered a genuine threat for the Kentucky Derby, but she fell a victim to the coughing epidemic in Maryland. She also had to pass up the Coaching Club Oaks at Belmont when she sustained an infection of a heel. She recuperated and was beaten three times on Chicago tracks, only to work well for today's classic.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

ECHO RIVER in the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky plays strange pranks with sound—a fact from which it derives its name. The strange reverberation on Echo River makes a single shot from a pistol sound like the roll of a score of cannon; the splash of a paddle in the water sounds like a rushing torrent—but perhaps the strangest is the echo and reecho of musical sounds.

If a person sings, say, four harmonious notes, the river's echo takes up the song and returns all four notes in a blended chord. One clever enough can actually sing a vocal quartet all by himself—with, of course, the aid of the echoes.

"Little Samson," as Charles Louis Fuchs, a New York boy, is called, won for himself this title when at the age of three and a half years he was able to lift a 61-pound weight. His other feats of strength are numerous. He can chin himself four times, tear half a pack of playing cards in two or do a squat with a 35-pound weight on his shoulders. Strange as it seems, those are things that some grown men might have difficulty doing.

Like the strawberry, which sends out shoots along the ground from which roots and eventually new plants grow, the walking fern spreads by "point-to-point" jumps. More spectacular than the strawberry, however, the walking fern spreads its leaves outward and down until the tips touch the soil; then a new fern grows there.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

At the Post . . .

with Bill Bennings.

Hawthorne, August 16.

Dear Al:

They just can't keep a good man down. Yesterday they shut Mrs. Bennings' lovely lad right out of the picture. But today—ah, today—he popped right back with F-O-U-R W-I-N-N-E-R-S. Yes, sir, four of a kind. Here they are: Merry Chatter, Sarazen II, Don Manuel and Don Tasker. And the last named was a $9.14 mutuel. My pal, Jack Westrope, was held to a single success, which puts me even with him for the week. I made Mike dig out the musty chart file again tonight, and we went deep into the books. Here's what we discovered.

BILL.

First race—Boy Valet seems best suited of these maidens. Comes to this test well recommended. Wacoche breaks from an inside position and will be dangerous. Skimalong for the minor award.

Second race—I'm stringing along with Lamp Black. This is an honest horse. Will be hard to beat tomorrow. Cold Check is the likely favorite and should be no worse than second. The disappointing Martie Flynn for the show end.

Third race—I tried to catch Barry and then let him slip out of my grip when he cashed the other day. Looks like two in a row for this fellow. He's sharp as a tack now. March King and Black Log for the other money positions.

Fourth race—Dust Girl gets the Bennings call in this sprint. A speedy miss that goes about her work in a business-like manner. Essie Wessie is fast and can't be overlooked. Technocracy for the show.

Fifth race—Hernando will be hard to beat here despite the appearances of Merrily On and Pancho Lopez. Merrily On has burned up a lot of win money of late and for some reason I can't see the stable expecting a short price. Pancho Lopez is too uncertain in the stretch.

Sixth race—Al Neiman failed me the last time but I'm a glutton for punishment and I'm going right back for another try. Sad Knight, in present form, will be close. Hillsborough for the remainder.

Seventh race—A lot depends on Westrope in this race. Looks like he will ride Miss Melody and if so, I'm taking the mare. Evergold is the one that figures close. Lemon Hill showed some of the speed that I warned you about in that last effort. Goes back to a sprint here.

Eighth race—This may be that set-up that Brown Wisdom has been held for. This one has been making several moves in each race and seems ripe for a set of brackets. Ed Lark and Peace Lady for the place and show.

Quantico Marine Riflemen Win Four of Five Events in Middle Atlantic Shoot

Coast Guard Entry Wins In Final

Jones Needs 2 Perfect Scores to Win Out In Drizzling Rain.

Beall, Harker, King and Ulrich Score for Leathernecks.

QUANTICO Va., Aug. 16 (Spl.). Capturing four out of five of the matches on the card, the Marine Corps riflemen hogged the limelight at the opening of the four-day Middle Atlantic States and national championship rifle and pistol tournament over the Marine ranges here today. All winners' scores will be considered in deciding the national championships after all of about 25 State and regional shoots, similar to the Quantico meet, are concluded.

Sergt. O. L. Beall, Sergt. H. K. Harker, First Sergt H. R. King and Corpl. C. Ulrick were the leathernecks who turned in hard-won victories for their corps. The last match of the day, however, was taken by a Coast Guardsman, Earl C. Jones, boatswain's mate, first class.

Ulrick Wins Four Events.

Ulrick started the Marine splurge by winning the Marine Corps cup match, which called for ten shots at each 600 and 1,000 yards. He peppered the target for a 98-100 with 12 of his shots going for V's, followed by another Marine, Corpl. L. A. O. Nelson, who also had a 98, but only 10 of his 20 shots got into the V ring, a smaller circle within the 5 rings of the target.

The National Rifle Association members' trophy match, ten shots at 600 yards, turned into a tussle between Sergt. King and Coast Guardsman Jones, the former finally emerging as the winner. Each had perfect scores of 50 and eight V's, but the Marine's last shot was a V while his rival's last shot, while a 5, did not get into the V ring, which, under the rules of breaking ties in such a situation, gave the Marines their second match. Sergt. Beall gave the Marines their third straight victory when he copped the Leech Cup match, which calls for seven shots at each 800, 900 and 1,000 yards, by turning in a perfect score of 105 with five of his seven shots at the longest range getting into the V ring. Coast Guardsman Goulden and Sergt. Maj. Fisher, of the Marines, also had 105's, the former having two V's and the latter one at the 1,000-yard range.

Harker Wins Navy Cup.

The Navy Cup match was the last to go to the Marines for the day when Sergt. Harker got a 95 out of a possible 100. The shooting in this event was at 200 yards from the standing position. The next four high all had 94's.

Boatswain's Mate Jones came through with a win for the Coast Guard in the final match, which got under way in a drizzle of rain. Jones had plenty of competition for the match, however, for the five who finished high in the event all had perfect scores of 50 and, as it is a rapid-fire match at 200 yards, a shoot-off was the only way of deciding the ties. Jones cinched the match in the first shoot-off by turning in another perfect 50

The card for tomorrow comprises the Wimbledon Cup match, 1,000 yards; Coast Guard trophy match, 200 and 300 yards, rapid fire; Scott trophy match, 300 yards rapid fire, and the Championship Regimental Team match, teams of six shooters, 200 yards standing and 600 yards prone.

Yankees Bow To Browns, 13-3

Lloyds Would Quote on Golf Aces—If Told About Weather

LONDON, Aug. 16 (AP).—Insurance brokers connected with Lloyds, whose business it is to insure people against any sort of hazard, from twins to shipwrecks, reserved decision today on a new question: Odds against making a hole-in-one in golf.

Lloyds would be quite willing to make a quotation, but not without knowing first all about the weather, the bunkers and the character of the green.

However, Douglas Cox, head of another London house and a golfer himself, said the odds against any one of 500 competitors holing an ace would be 100 to 1 at a minimum.

This would be too short for gambling purposes, where the chances of a hole-in-one have been figured as high as 20,000 to 1, but probably would be conservative enough for insurance purposes. In other words, $5 premium would pay for every $500 of insurance.

Lloyds and other agencies pointed out the difficulties of any definite basis for figuring the approximate odds against a hole-in-one, due to the wide variation in golfing conditions and terrain. Thousands of professional golfers, for instance, have been shooting at the famous Eden Hole, the eleventh at St. Andrews, for generations, but the records have yet to show a hole-in-one there in championship play.

Jack Hagen, pro at the Salisbury Club, Long Island, first of 340 competitiors in a special hole-in-one tournament conducted this week by the New York World-Telegram, sank his third try on a 148-yard hole.

A. A. U's. Mile Swim Title Events Sunday

Races for the men's and women's A. A. U. mile championship of the District will be swum from the Washington Canoe Club Sunday afternoon. Thornton Burns, of the Shoreham Team, holder of the District quarter-mile title, and Ernest Boggs, Y. M. C. A., half-mile champion, will be among those competing for the men's title. Rita Augusterfer, Annabelle Whaler, Betty O'Tolle and Caroline Cox will participate in the women's event.

Canzoneri In Training For Ross Bout Sept. 12

New York, Aug. 16 (AP).—Tony Canzoneri, who dropped his world lightweight title unexpectedly to Barney Ross at Chicago on June 23, has decided to take no chances on not being in condition for their 15-round return match at the Polo Grounds September 12.

He went into training at Pompton Lakes, N. J., a week before Ross is due at another Jersey camp—Lake Swannanoa.

Braves Beat Cubs With Rally, 6 to 1

Tinning, in Slab Duel With Frankhouse, Weakens in 8th Inning.

Boston, Aug. 16 (A.P.).—An eighth inning attack on Bud Tinning and Leroy Herrmann, recently recalled from Los Angeles, gave the Braves six runs and a 6-to-1 victory over the Cubs today. It was the Tribe's second straight from the National League champions.

For seven innings, Tinning and Fred Frankhouse staged a mound duel, but the Cub hurler weakened in the eighth and was driven from the hill after three runs had crossed the plate.

The Cubs made eight hits off Frankhouse and were shut out until the ninth, when Manager Grimm accounted for their lone score with a home run into the right field pavilion.

Rosedale Wins Meet for 5th Year

About 250 Boys Take Part; Hayes Places Second With 53 Points.

ROSEDALE PLAYGROUND won the Eastern Conference meet, conducted by the Department of Playgrounds, for the fifth consecutive year yesterday at Eastern Stadium. About 250 boys took part in the meet that prepares the boys for the city finals next Tuesday in Central Stadium.

Points were divided as follows: Rosedale, 89½; Hayes, 53; Edmonds, 23; Ludlow, 15; Maury, 10; Stuart, 5, and Wheatley, 1. All of the boys who placed yesterday will receive conference stripes to wear on their track suits in the city meet.

Rosedale attained its supremacy by being permitted to use several stars in two events, as is the custom in conference meets, but it was clearly indicated that there will be a different story in the city finals when a boy may run in only one.

Peaslee Good Prospect.

Joseph Peaslee, Rosedale, looks like good material for the half-mile, as have a score or more others in the preliminary games. Tom Brew's Hayes squad looked very good and lost many points on Rosedale's repeaters. Earl Wheeler, of Edmonds, was his old flashy self in the 100-pound class dash. Earl holds the record in this event in the city meet. Today the final conference, Southern, will be held at the Central Stadium at 2 p. m.

$2 Refound Ticket Nets Man $2,967

Fort Erie, Ontario, Aug. 16 (AP).—A bettor who declined to reveal his identity had some anxious moments at the Fort Erie race track today when he discovered he had picked the daily double, to win $2,967.35 on a $2 wager, but had lost his ticket.

When Fire Real came down to win in the second after Dark Altos had won the first an excited individual was seen rushing to the judges' stand. When he calmed down sufficiently to talk he said he had held the ticket on the two horses in the double, but now he couldn't find it.

A search was made and the ticket found. Still declining to give his name, the bettor led an admiring parade to the pay-off window and collected his money.

Godwin and Grant On WOL Tonight

To Go Before Microphone On Weekly Program of Joe Turner.

Young and old exponents of two widely diversified forms of self-defense will share the spotlight tonight as Bob Godwin, prominent young light heavyweight boxer, and Joe Grant, erstwhile wrestling champion, step before the microphone of Station WOL on Joe Turner's weekly broadcast at 7:45.

Grant was considered one of the greatest middleweight wrestlers of his day. Godwin, holder of the Southern Light Heavyweight Championship and at one time recognized by the N. B. A. as world champion, faces Joe Knight, who also held the N. B. A. title at one time, in the feature of a boxing card to be held for the benefit of the Police and Firemen's Parade at Twin City Arena, Laurel, next Tuesday. The winner is expected to fight Maxie Rosenbloom for undisputed possession of the world light heavyweight crown.

Winfree Johnson Office Abolished

Athletic Directorship to Be Discontinued on September 15.

The office of director of athletics for the Welfare and Recreational Association, held by Winfree Johnson, will be discontinued in the immediate future, it was stated by F. W. Hoover, manager of the association, yesterday.

Johnson was employed by the association about three years ago to develop the use of athletic facilities to be established in new parks, which failed to materialize because Congress did not appropriate the money necessary. The date of the abolition of the athletic directorship has been tentatively set for September 15, Hoover said.

Beside his activities in behalf of the Welfare and Recreational Association, Johnson, who is secretary of the A. A. U., is closely identified with local amateur athletics, particularly swimming and tennis, in the sponsoring of which he has played a prominent part.

Knight to Face Bob Godwin Tuesday

Two Battlers Are Finally Signed for Encounter at Twin City.

ACTUAL signing of the contracts for the Bob Godwin-Joe Knight light-heavyweight battle at Twin City Tuesday climaxed a prolonged scramble on the part of local promoters to get the boys together for the local fancy. Always before, for one reason or another, efforts to lure them into the same local ring have proven unsuccessful, and it was only after much of this, that and the other that Promoter Charlie Cornell was able to coax them to do battle next week.

The desire on the part of local fight fandom to see the two contestants meet had its inception when Knight stepped from the ring last summer after having knocked out George Courtney in five rounds. Until that time Godwin, a middleweight, had displayed so much class as a light-heavyweight that only heavyweight opponents were thought suitable for him. The hard-punching southpaw loomed as a perfect opponent. Immediate efforts were made to match them, but, while the boys themselves, than whom there are no more bitter enemies, were willing, even eager, to fight, their managerial staffs would have no parts of the proposed bout.

Last winter Portner officials offered them everything but the ringposts and had no better luck. When the impending bout was first mentioned, Godwin's handlers were noncommittal. Knight immediately started flinging challenges high, wide and handsome. Without warning, the Godwins, who had been holding out for the lion's share of the receipts, accepted the terms offered. Then Knight's managers turned cold on the proposition. It was only after spending innumerable dollars on long-distance telephone calls and telegrams to his Florida headquarters that Knight was able to persuade his managers that he had to back up his challenges by accepting the match.

Mrs. Moody Among Net Choices to Win

Rice, of Boston, 6—0, 6—1; Miss Babcock turned back Beatrice Bryan, of Memphis, 6—0, 6—2, and Miss Palfrey eliminated Marjorie Sachs, of Cambridge, Mass, 6—0, 6—1. All three are playing brilliant tennis.

Other survivors included Mrs. John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia; Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Anna, Calif.; Carolyn Hirsch, of White Plains, N. Y.; Baroness Maud Levi, of New York, and the British contingent of Dorothy Round, Betty Nuthall, Peggy Scriven, Freda James, Mary Heeley and Mrs. L. R. C. Michell.

The first round of doubles was got out of the way, with Mrs. Moody and Mrs. Elizabeth Ryan supplying the day's feature with an artistic triumph over Mrs. Hester and Mrs. F. Leboutillier on the Stadium court. They dropped only one game.

Singles.

Second round—Dorothy Round, of England, defeated Edith Moore, Montclair, N. J., 6—0, 6—0, Mrs. L. R. C. Michell, England, defeated Theodosia Smith, Pasadena, 6—2, 6—1; Peggy Scriven, England, defeated Mrs. William V. Hester, Glen Cove, L. I., 6—3, 6—2; Mrs. A. J. Lamme, jr., Rye, N. Walt Mason, Himself

Baron Munchausen.

THE good old baron told his lies, which, in his day, caused much surprise, and listeners would say, aghast, "Well Ananias is outclassed" And eager scribes these falsehoods took, and had them published in a book, and generations read the lies, and laughed and wept and wiped their eyes. But centuries of progress show the baron's class was pretty low; his anecdotes seem pretty tame, and his invention weak and lame. Advance in lying has been great, and any modern candidates could back the baron off the walk, in half an hour of free-hand talk. We read a long Munchausen tale, and find it wearisome and stale, and wonder why our fathers roared with laughter where we're only bored. We wonder why it didn't die like any old forgotten lie, why half-baked publishers persist in bringing out the tiresome list, and why the baron's name lives on, where countless greater names are gone. One lie in fifty seems to click; the others make a reader sick, they are so labored and far-fetched, the truth is groaning while it's stretched. Just hear the modern candidate, when he is ready to orate, just mark him lying, high and wide, then let the poor old baron slide.

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York.—Off lower Fifth avenue you will find, in one of the side streets a gaudy facade quite unlike the sober brownstone houses that flank it on either side. The sign over the place says "Don Francisco," and the painting of a bullfighter at once gives the atmosphere proper for either Mexican or Spanish dishes—or both.

When you enter, Spanish capes and mantillas tapestry the walls, and, if you are expansive, your memory goes back to Ibanez's phrase of the bullfighter lying "like a tinseled frog on the sand." Briefly, in food, in music and in service the foreign atmosphere is genuine. But a hasty examination gave me the reason, which I pass on, thinking it amusing.

A Clothes Story.

Don Francisco is really a Mexican. As such, he emerged as a dancer in the wave of lacquer-haired hoofers who bloomed in popular favor following Valentino's heyday. But as time passed, so did vaudeville, and his ability to earn his living by the tango.

There he was, a year back, with a wardrobe of costumes that had cost him $1,200, with a wife, with a healthy appetite—but with no money.

Journeying to a theatrical costumer's for cash, he was offered $35 for his collection of clothes. As this would leave him as bad off in a couple of weeks (worse, really, because he then would have nothing), he turned down the offer.

A friend later offered him $75, and an idea struck him. Combining forces with his friend, he contributed the costumes, his friend contributed the $75, and they opened the restaurant—showing briefly the human side of what happened to one wardrobe.

Just a Starter.

Hervey Allen's best seller, "Anthony Adverse," is one of the longest novels ever written. Corey Ford recalls bumping into him on the street one day.

"I hear you've about finished a novel," Corey greeted him.

"Oh, no, I've just started it," demurred Allen. "I've written only the first 50,000 words!"

It was all of five years before he finished the task.

Mrs. Roy Manning Dickey, well-known editor, takes issue with those-who-think-otherwise and says fiction is swinging from stark realism, the upturning of the soil and such back to romance and sentiment.

"People of today," she says, "thrown against the harsher side of life because of the depression, are again seeking sentiment in their reading."

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

There is considerable difference of opinion as to the kind of hat that should be worn by those who must be in the bright sunlight in hot weather. A large part of the thinking people who live in the tropics and who must be outside in the daytime advocate the use of cork helmets. The theory on which this practice is based is that some parts of sunlight penetrate the skin and bones of the skull, and have a rather direct, harmful effect on the brain tissues lying just within. The route by which the harmful ingredients of the light get from the skin to the brain is not known.

Helmets are nearly impervious to heat, light, and air. The outer surface is light in color, while the under surface, at least of the visor, is green, or some shade calculated to lessen glare. The rim is planned to shade as much as possible of the face and head. Since the cork is built in a way that prevents the passing of air, there is full ventilation space between the inner hatband and the hat proper. The plan is well thought out and takes account of the requirements for comfort and protection against light and heat.

If a tropical helmet is not desired for any reason, the hat worn should meet as many of the specifications as possible. It should be light in color and also in weight. The weave should be open, but too much sunlight gets through a very loosely woven hat. If the sunlight is very bright it is better to use an umbrella as a sunshade, and either wear no hat or one that has a very open weave.

We often read advice given people who live in the tropics in which the wearing of a backbone pad is advised. This is a strip of material that is impervious to light, and is worn over the spine from the collar region down. The theory of its use is that bright light can penetrate from the skin surface through the bones of the spine to the spinal cord, and that a spine pad prevents this harmful influence. Since the clothing keeps the back fairly well protected, not many people in the tropics wear this type of pad, and elsewhere it is not used at all. The reason for referring to it here is to impress the harmful influence of too much light.

There is no justification for the limited custom of going hatless in hot weather. The natives of very hot countries generally have a heavy mat of close hair to protect their craniums from too much light. In spite of that fact they almost always contrive to get some kind of a head shade—a hat whenever that is possible, and hats are not easily obtainable where they live. No one in temperate climate need go to great trouble to get sunlight in midsummer, and taking it on the dome is worse than useless.

Military Rites Held for Camp Blast Victim

Honors Paid to Corporal Ice at Ritchie; Body Sent to Capital.

Camp Ritchie, Cascade, Md., Aug. 16 (Spl.).—Honored by a military funeral service today, the body of Corporal Egbert J. Ice, Company D, 121st Engineers, of Washington, who met his death yesterday when photographing activities of his company on demolition training in the field, was escorted to the Blue Ridge Summit depot by his former comrades and the Engineers' band, where it was put on the train for Washington.

Ice, who died in the Waynesboro (Pa.) Hospital four hours and a half after being struck by a fragment of rock hurled through the air by a detonation of dynamite, was brought to the camp this afternoon, being met at the reservation gates by Company D.

Regiment at Attention.

Upon entering the reservation, the flag was lowered at half staff and the hearse, with Company D as a guard of honor, moved with the muffled beat of drums to regimental headquarters, where the body lay in state.

Meanwhile the regiment had been formed on the parade ground, directly in front of the building, and stood at attention during the ceremony. Capt. Arthur L. Smith, regimental chaplain, who was with the youth when he died, and Lieut. Col. J. Churchill Gibson, chaplain of the Twenty-ninth Division, of Richmond, read the service for the dead, it being followed by the benediction by Col. Gibson. Sergt. Elmer Skinner, of the Military Police Company, sounded taps.

Troops View Body.

Until 2:30 p. m., troops filed through the headquarters building to view the body. Then it was escorted to the station. While marching from the building to the gates, the band played "Onward, Christian Soldiers," in half-itme, and three guns were fired as a salute to the dead. A dirge followed.

While the honor guard stood at attention and the band played "Nearer, My God, to Thee," the body was placed on the train. Upon arrival in Washington, Col. John S. Upham, was to take charge of the body and send it to Tockport, Ind., in compliance with wishes of the corporal's father, E. Clarence Ice, of Richton, Miss.

The guard of honor was composed of Privates Robert E. Shanahan, Roderick A. Bacon, William H. Baker and Donald M. Miller. The pallbearers, chosen from among Ice's former comrades in Company D, were Chauncey H. Patterson, Edward M. Morrison, jr., Maurice L. Crater, Raymond L. Taylor and Charles J. Dulin.

Training Continues.

During the morning the regiment continued the training program, with lectures on scouting and patrolling, ordnance, chemical warfare and antiair tactics, while the afternoon hours following the funeral were devoted to a field meet, which was won by Company C with 19 points as the high score. Companies E and B were second and third, respectively, with 17 and 13½ points. The winners:

100-yard dash—S. Ross, Company C, first; L. C. Streitberger, Company E, second; A. G. Mensik, third.

Italian Liner Rex Sets New Record

Gibraltar-New York Trip Made in 4 Days 13 Hours and 58 Minutes.

New York, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Italian liner Rex arrived today from Gibraltar, claiming a new record for a transatlantic crossing by ships.

The Rex made the trip from Gibraltar to Ambrose Lightship, at the entrance to New York Harbor, in 4 days 13 hours 58 minutes, at an average speed of 28.92 knots. The distance given was 3,181 miles.

The fastest previous crossing was made by the North German Lloyd liner Bremen, sailing the westward course from Cherbourg Breakwater to Ambrose Lightship, in September, 1932, in 4 days 15 hours 56 minutes. Her highest average speed, however, was made on the eastward trip from Ambrose to Cherbourg, over the long summer coure of 3,199 miles, June 30 last. On that voyage her average speed was 28.51 knots.

The Italian Line said today that the performance of the Rex made her the fastest ship afloat.

Unions Ask School Contract Be Voided

Charge Catalano Has Failed to Pay Back Wages He Promised.

Five representatives of building trades unions yesterday called on the District Commissioners and demanded they cancel the contract with the Catalano Construction Co., of Baltimore, for construction of the Phelps vocational school.

The delegation, headed by John Locker, charged the contractor had failed to live up to his agreement with the District heads to pay back wages to employes who had not been paid the prevailing wage.

While the Commissioners took the matter under advisement, they intimated that they would do nothing until after August 25, when the contractor is due to have made all settlements.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl.

"HAPPY DAYS," dedicated to the Civilian Conservation Corps, will be the big show tonight. (WMAL, 10:30 o'clock.) The first part of the program will be broadcast from here and will include a message to the boys from Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, greetings from Director Robert E. Fechner, head of the emergency conservation work; entertainment by members of the C. C. C. camps near Washington, an address by Col. Duncan Major, U. S. A.; some peppy selections by Capt. William J. Stannard and the U. S. Army Band.

The second part will originate in New York, with Eddie Dowling as master of ceremonies. Among those he has lined up are: The Pickens Sisters, Jack Denny and his band, Ray Perkins, John Fogarty, Jack and Loretta Clemens, Ethel Waters, James Hanley, J. Fred Coots, Annie, Judy and Zeke, Rae Dooley, Harry Hirshfield, Ernie Holtz and Rudy Vallee and his band.

Benjamin Franklin, experimenting with a kite, discovered electricity. Two small boys, experimenting along similar lines near Bellmore, L. I., one morning recently, put the transmitter of NBC's station WEAF off the air. The boys tried sailing their kite with thin wire instead of the usual string. The wire proved too heavy, pulled the kite down over the high tension wires leading to the transmitter, caused a short circuit, and the station ceased broadcasting until engineers could rig up emergency lines. The boys have made no formal report of the results of their experiments.

SENATOR JAMES COUZENS, of Michigan, putting aside the London Economic Conference and the Detroit banking situation, will tell us about "The NRA and the Senate." (WJSV, 10:30 p. m.) There will be a curtain raiser by Senator Kenneth D. McKellar, of Tennessee, "The Five Million Who Are Going Back to Work." (WJSV, 3:45 p. m.)

"Heart Disease and Middle Age," the topic of Dr. Ernst P. Boas, of the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association, will doubtless be of interest to many (WJSV, 10:45 a. m.) . . . Two great Indian festivals to be held in August, the Hopi snake dance and the Gallup ceremonial, will be described by Mary Tucker in the Woman's Radio Revue (WRC, 2:30 p. m.) . . . Tom Howard, comedian, and Bobby Gilbert, another comic from the vaudeville stage, will be the guests with Rudy Vallee in the Sunshine Hour over WRC at 7 p. m. Others will be Dorothy Gish, in a scene from "Autumn Crocus," the Koshetz Ukrainian Choir, Frank Luther and Zora Layman. . . . G. W. U. Forum offers "That Religion Called Nationalism" by Elmer Lewis Kayser (WMAL, 7:30 p. m.). . . . Edgar Allan Poe's "The Mask of the Red Death" will be the Dramatic Guild offering (WJSV, 7:30 p. m.). . . . Gladys Rice, soprano, will sing an entire program of love songs tonight as soloist with Howard Barlow and his concert orchestra (WJSV, 9:45 o'clock). . . . The great star-clock in the North, from which all the clocks in the world are set, proves, says Dr. R. H. Baker, astronomer of Harvard, that the speed of the earth's rotation is decreasing steadily. The day, Dr. Baker will prove over WMAL at 10:15 p. m., is growing longer by as much as a thousandth of a second each century.

"GOING Native," the all-Washington revue which opens at Loew's Fox Theater tomorrow will have a microphone appearance this afternoon over WJSV from 4:05 until 4:45 o'clock.

Brooke Johns will act as master of ceremonies and will bring his famous banjo along for a few speciality numbers. Others include Clare Borjes, singer; Henry Nestor, Washington's singing policeman; Almira Sessions, comedienne; Joseph Bernne, singer; Mildred Cherot, the giant blues singer; Evely Tyner, pianist; the Four Dots, and others.

Gene Ford, producer of the revue, and Ned McGurn, who staged the dances, will also be on deck. Thus the radio audience will have an earful today of what the visible audience will have an eyeful tomorrow.

"We have quite an imposing list of fine plays for the coming season and will be needing matured male voices," writes Ronald Dawson, of the Northern Dramatic Company of WOL. If you have a matured male voice and the yen to go on the radio, here's your big chance.

THE New Deal song which George M. Cohan wrote at the suggestion of the NRA officials, and which he will broadcast for the first time Sunday night, will be called "The Grand Old National Game." This game is poker, according to Cohan, who adds, "but the game of bluff is ancient stuff—

For we're now on the road
To a fair deal, that's every one's aim—
A square deal, no jake or no frame.
We've received a fresh pack of cards
With Franklin Roosevelt's kindest regards
For the new deal, the true deal
In the Grand Old National Game.

Cohan, who will introduce the New Deal song himself, will be supported in his first air revue Sunday night by Carol Deis, soprano, of Dayton, Ohio; the Revelers Quartet and Al Goodman's orchestra.

A double-header sports feature will be offered over Station WOL tonight at 7:45 o'clock on the weekly broadcast, made possible through the cooperation of Station WOL and Joe Turner, wrestling promoter.

Joe Grant, grand old man of District wrestling and one of the greatest middleweights of his day, shares the spotlight with Bob Godwin, Southern light-heavyweight champion, in this feature.

Godwin is one of the featured principals in the big benefit boxing show planned for Twin City arena Tuesday night, Joe Knight being his opponent.

Sleeping Sickness Wave Diminishes In St. Louis

St. Louis, Aug. 16 (AP).—The epidemic of "sleeping sickness," or encephalitis, in St. Louis and suburbs, appeared to be on the wane tonight.

Only five new cases of the disease—the fewest in number for several days—were reported in the last 24 hours, and no additional deaths have occurred.

30 Face Quiz In Slaying of Mrs. Schrodt

Mulligan, Held on Murder Charge, Clings to His Alibi.

Between 25 and 30 witnesses will be questioned concerning the alleged murder of Mrs. Ella M. Schrodt, 58, of Brentwood, Md., State's Attorney Alan Bowie said yesterday.

John C. Mulligan, 39, said to be the woman's common-law husband, is being held by Prince Georges County police on a technical charge of murder.

"Neither the names of these witnesses nor their connection with Mrs. Schrodt's death, will be revealed by the police," the State's attorney declared.

The disclosure, however, followed a statement from investigating authorities that "certain valuable information had been obtained." This was obtained during the questioning of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Dyer, Cottage City, Md., and their two small children.

The Dyers, according to the story told police, were visiting at the Mulligan home Monday night. Shortly after they are said to have left, Mrs. Schrodt, a former actress, was found lifeless on the bed.

Mulligan yesterday was still being questioned at intervals by county police and Lieut. W. R. Feihley, ace detective of the Baltimore police department. He clung to his story that he was asleep when the alleged murder occurred.

Attorneys J. Wilson Ryon and Albert R. Hassell, of Hyattsville, have been retained by Mulligan for his defense. Mrs. Schrodt's will, which bequeathed to Mulligan a $500 insurance policy made payable to her estate, a small amount of money, and her share in the home, was turned over to the attorneys.

Mrs. Schrodt's funeral, scheduled for today, has been postponed until tomorrow. Mulligan may be allowed to attend under police guard.

'Howdy, Jim'

And With That Postmaster General's Brother Continues Tour.

"Jim" Farley's big brother, John J. Farley, saw the Postmaster General yesterday for the first time since coming to the Capital Monday to "look things over" for his boss, Theodore Prince, New York stock broker.

They met in the White House, where Brother John had gone to see Stephen Early, one of the President's secretaries.

Each said "Hello." Each inquired about the other's health and that was all. John went about his business, the Postmaster General about his.

"Jim's too busy to be bothered with me," explained John, who lives in the same hotel with his brother.

Men Who Accused Police Are Indicted

In the indictments returned by the District grand jury yesterday were charges against two Negroes who had made brutality complaints against two Third Precinct detectives—Joseph W. Shimon and W. V. Christian.

Raymond Pearson and Thomas Washington were charged with joy riding and grand larceny. The detectives have been cleared of the "beating" charges.

Cheaper Dollar Advocates Here In Conferences

George LaBlanc, Banker; Robert Harriss, Broker, Predicted Panic.

George L. LaBlanc, New York banker, and Robert Harriss, nationally known commodity expert, conferred yesterday with some of the Cabinet officials and members of Congress, it was learned last night.

LaBlanc, former senior vice president of the Equitable Trust Co., and president of the Equitable Eastern Banking Corporation, is president of the Interstate Trust Co. Robert Harriss is a partner of Harriss & Vose, New York.

LaBlanc and Harriss for several years opposed the Hoover policies and differed with Wall street bankers and their economists on the currency question. They testified 18 months ago before the Ways and Means Committee, declaring the Hoover-Mills policy would be deflationary and would lead to Communism.

"The only hope," they said at that time, "was revaluation of the gold dollar."

Both LaBlanc and Harriss have repeatedly stated that the dollar must be cheapened and revalued on the approximate commodity level existing when the war deb

Women Excell In NRA Drive, Survey Shows

Littlepage Plans to Spur Male Workers; Taxi Men to Organize.

With women members of the local NRA army in the lead, Thomas P. Littlepage, general of the campaign, made plans last night to spur the male members into action.

Inspired by the report of 1,000 women workers returning to their homes footsore and weary from the task of distributing pledge cards to housewives, Mr. Littlepage issued orders to his educational and publicity committee to meet at 2 p. m. today.

He will instruct the committees to put into action the machinery organized to disseminate publicity throughout the city and send out speakers.

Girl Recovers Job.

The educational bureau at the Board of Trade has been busy answering inquiries from employers and receiving petitions for modifications in adhering to the President's reemployment agreement.

Petitions also are being received by Dorsey W. Hyde, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who has assisted several employers in adjusting their difficulties, enabling them to fly the Blue Eagle until a final opinion by the NRA.

An exception was made yesterday in the case of a Washington girl who is 15½ years old. She lost her position because of the provision in the President's reemployment agreement prohibiting minors under 16 to be employed more than three hours a day.

Taxi Men Meet Today.

The girl petitioned Mr. Hyde for aid. After ascertaining that the applicant had completed her education to the satisfaction of the Board of Education, and had received a work permit, Mr. Hyde communicated with NRA headquarters. He was authorized to write a letter to the effect that the girl could work without violating the President's agreement, and she got her job back.

Blue Eagles were obtained by 313 more employers yesterday, bringing the total to 7,410.

Taxicab operators and drivers will meet at 8 p. m. today at the District Building to lay plans for organizing a taxicab board of trade, increasing rates and changing zones.

Paper Picking Held Not Reprehensible

Judge Frees Man Earning Small Wages Cleaning Trash Containers.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt does not think that salvaging paper from trash containers in alleys is a reprehensible offense.

Arthur Hammonds, colored, was in Police Court yesterday on such a charge. He declared he did not know his action was against the law.

He said he sold the paper for 50 cents a hundred pounds to add to the $5.60 he earned a week as an unemployed relief worker. He has a wife and child, he said.

Judge Hitt released him on his personal bond, saying that in his neighborhood the District trash collection was infrequent.

Detective Clyde Rouse Reinstated by Board

Third Precinct Detective Clyde O. Rouse was reinstated to the department yesterday when the Police Trial Board failed to find sufficient evidence against him on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer.

Rouse was suspended when a revolver, said to have been taken from the Police Department, was found to have been used in a shooting at Nineteenth and K streets several weeks ago. The detective was cleared of a charge of having given the gun to one of the men taken into custody after the shooting.

Husband Asks Police To Find Missing Wife

Fearing foul play in the disappearance of his wife, William Gordon, 522 Tenth street southeast, last night appealed to police for help in finding her. Mrs. Gordon disappeared from her home Saturday, he said.

Winners in Annual Georgetown Playground Baby Show

Post Staff Photos.

Lights to End Traffic Tangle

Signals to Guide Autos At Busy Intersection Starting Today.

"Lights!"

At 10 o'clock this morning this order will be given and John Marshall place and Pennsylvania avenue, where Constitution avenue also baffles the motorist, will be under control of 10 electric traffic signals.

The corner has caused the Traffic Department trouble since Constitution avenue was cut through. Under the new system, Pennsylvania avenue vehicles will be at a standstill while Constitution avenue traffic crosses the intersection.

The lights will be operated between 7 a. m. and midnight.

Within the next few weeks signals will be turned on at other corners along Pennsylvania avenue west to Fourteenth street. Traffic policemen displaced by lights will be transferred to duty at other intersections now guarded inadequately.

U. S. Called "Wineland" By Vikings Years Ago

Those Swedish Vikings called this country "Wineland"—but that was 900 years ago.

Baron Johan Beck-Friss, counsellor of the Swedish Legation, divulged this information yesterday at the meeting of the Washington Rotary club, but remarked they showed an astounding lack of foresight.

Former Texas Residents In Capital Form Club

Young Texas residents of Washington last night formed the Texas Young Men's Democratic Club at a meeting at the residence of Rawleigh Dawson, 1813 Sixteenth street northwest. Dawson, of San Benito, Tex., was named temporary chairman and committees appointed. The club will seek to bring together former residents of Texas.

Boy, 5, Enters Rackets by Offering Nickel to Contest Judge.

They held the tenth annual baby show at Georgetown playground yesterday, and none of the judges was injured.

More than 100 children competed in the five classes, or rather they submitted to competition by laughing, crying, or sitting still and bigeyed in their mothers' arms.

The feature of the show was Betty Ann Johnson, 8½ months old, of 1208 Owen Place northeast, who came to this northwest stronghold, who won the infant-class trophy hands down, or to be exact—with a hand in her tiny mouth.

In the 1-to-2-year-old class, Mary Vergo, of 3284 M street northwest, was the winner. The 2-to-3-year-old event was cinched by Billy Campbell, of 1502 Thirty-third street northwest. Smiling Vincent Scott, of 1234 Thirty-fourth street, carried off the honors in the 3-to-4-year-old division, and Joan Alban, of 3413 N street northwest, was declared the holder of the queen's crown in the 4-to-5-year-old group.

Dr. Philip Degnan, of Georgetown Hospital, and Mrs. Abbie Flynn, playground director, served as judges.

Even a baby show it seems, is not safe from some phase of the rackets. A 5-year-old boy handed a nickel to Dr. Degnan, he confessed, and asked him to do what he could toward making him the winner.

Three Men Indicted On Murder Charges

First degree murder indictments were returned against three Negroes by the District grand jury yesterday.

Robert B. Carter was charged with the killing of James Dozier, colored, on July 21. Elijah Strivers was accused of murdering Clarence Jones May 23, and Louis Johnson was charged with the death of James H. Collins, also colored, on July 30.

Dahlia Show Object of Meeting.

Plans for the annual dahlia show in September will be made at a meeting of the National Capital Dahlias and Iris Society at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the Carlton hotel. The show will be held on September 28 and 29.

Navy Job Rule Held No Help

Union President Charges Department Dismissing Many Workers.

Officials of the International Association of Machinists charged last night that the Navy's new five-day week pay cut order is not eliminating furloughs and stopping Navy Yard dismissals in line with Secretary of the Navy Swanson's claims.

N. P. Alifas, president of District 44, of the International Association, said the Boston Navy Yard dismissed a large block of workers yesterday and 300 more will go in a few weeks.

He said the New York Navy Yard is still operating on a four-day week and no move has been made to bring it into line with the general order.

His statement followed Secretary Swanson's insistence that the five-day week, and the one-sixth pay cut, will have to continue in Navy Yards until an adjustment of hours and pay for civilian workers has been worked out.

Holding the yards have accumulated a $500,000 deficit over their appropriated funds, Secretary Swanson said the short week order is necessary to prevent discharge of some of the 44,000 civilian workers in Navy Yards.

Thieves Take Grape Beverage.

Thieves with a taste for grape concentrate wine stole three cases of the beverage from the garage of Forrest Beacock, at 1772 P street northwest, police reported last night. They also got a $40 filter.

Youth Charges Police Torture For Confession

Says Detectives on Trial Screwed Manacle on Arm; Flaws Found.

The charge that an iron manacle had been screwed on his arm to force a confession from him was made yesterday in police court by George Mahoney, 19, colored.

Mahoney was the first prosecution witness against Charles C. Williams and Frank Ashley, Second Precinct policemen accused of assaulting him.

Bares Marks on Arm.

At the direction of the prosecutor, Michael Keough, assistant United States Attorney, Mahoney left the witness box to exhibit to the jurors marks on his arm which, he declared, were made by the manacle.

Mahoney testified that he was slapped and punched by the two officers to tell what he knew about a housebreaking on U street and they would "make things easy for him."

Mahoney is on bond in connection with the housebreaking, pending presentation of the case to the grand jury

Discrepancies Found.

During a severe cross-examination by the defense attorney, E. Russell Kelly, several discrepancies in the testimony of the complainant were brought out.

In answering questions of Kelly, Mahoney declared he "disremembered" certain parts of a signed statement he gave Inspector T. A. Bean, of the Police Department, in connection with the investigation.

The trial, before Judge Isaac R. Hitt, was recessed until today. The defendants are represented by Mr. Kelly and his brother, Joseph Kelly.

Woman Sues Firm That Seized Auto

Charges Company Refused to Wait 30 Minutes for Payment.

She lost her automobile in a dispute over 30 minutes.

Such was the declaration of Mrs. Claudia Hewlette, 1213 New York avenue northwest, in a suit filed yesterday at District Supreme Court.

Her action is against the Central Motor Sales Co., which, she declared, took a car she had purchased, refusing to wait half an hour for a $5 payment which she was in arrears.

She asked that the court compel the defendant to accept the payments now due and turn the car over to her.

Two Victims of Falls Taken to Hospitals

Two men were in serious condition last night as the result of falls.

Jerry Coughlin, 27, of Detroit, employed by a building cleaning concern, fell from a scaffold at Taft Junior High School. He suffered a fractured thigh, lacerations and possible fractured skull and was taken to Casualty Hospital. Found unconscious at the foot of basement steps at his home, Robert Haislip, 36, of 50 Randolph place, was taken to Sibley Hospital. It is believed he fell down the stairs suffering a possible fractured skull.

License Abolished For Solo Grade

Student Pilots Are Granted Certain Privileges in Flying.

Abolition of the grade of solo pilot license and granting to student pilots of certain solo flying privileges were announced by the Aeronautics Branch of the Department of Commerce yesterday.

Curtailed appropriations will hereafter prevent inspectors from visiting many fields of the country to give flight examinations. Student pilots heretofore have been prohibited from leaving the vicinity of the airport on which they were instructed without having a minimum of ten hours' experience in the air, and so they could not fly cross-country to see the inspector at his base.

They are now entitled to fly cross-country, but not to carry passengers, except other pilots. This accords with the department's policy of relaxing restrictions on private flying whenever this can be done with safety, according to Ewing Y. Mitchell, Secretary. The next grade above student pilot is private pilot, which requires 50 hours of accredited solo flying and a theoretical examination.

Muzzles Ordered For Biting Dogs

Herndon Canines Free Only to Use Teeth at Their Homes.

The powers of the mayor and the town sergeant at Herndon, Va., have been increased—or perhaps their troubles added to.

At its regular meeting this week the council adopted the following ordinance:

"Any dog attacking any person at any place, except upon the premises of its owner, shall, upon the discretion of the mayor or town sergeant, be ordered muzzled."

Executives to Discuss Reemployment Work

President Roosevelt's reemployment program will be discussed at the luncheon meeting of the Washington Trade Association Executives today at the Carlton Hotel. General Thomas S Hammond, executive director of the program, will be the principal speaker.

Crack-Up World War Pilot Plans Service to Humanity

Ernest DeVanie Is Doctor to Help the Hopeless and Forlorn.

Since the World War ended, Ernest De Vanie, a disabled pursuit pilot, with the Croix de Guerre, Distinguished Service Cross and the Flying Cross to his credit, has roamed the country "just studying human nature."

After 15 years contact with the well-known human race, and persistent studies in psychology, this veteran is going to hang out his shingle as "Doctor D."—to administer to the hopeless and the forlorn.

Doctor D. can tell by looking at your face just what manner of man you are—or woman—and what to do about it.

Cracked up over the battlefields of France, in the St. Michel drive, shot down with a fractured skull, the hinges of his jaw shattered, and the tip of his nose gone, the flying days of De Vanie are over; but his two strong legs, and his sturdy arms and hands have earned him a living in every State of the Union, working at odds and ends, never playing on his Army record—asking nothing of any man.

May Settle in Capital.

After all that, seeing the high and the mighty, the lowly and the humble, De Vanie is going to settle down—probably in Washington—and try to straighten out some of the mess the world finds itself in—after all these years of befuddling on the part of statesmen, politicians and what have you.

It rather irks this man that he can not get in the air again; that his days as a pilot are over, with 6,000 flying hours to his credit.

Since he must keep to the earth, his feet on the ground, he makes the best of the bargain.

Before going into the service De Vanie almost had completed a course at Tulane University, in New Orleans, coming within six months of his degree, but "dat ole debil" war got him, as it got many others. He said bye-bye to academic halls, never to reenter them again.

"I imagine it makes little difference what a man has in the way of college degrees," De Vanie says. "It's the constant striving and studying that helps—and puts a man where he wants to be."

Now Writing Book.

The prototype of Jack London, De Vanie is now writing a book, the story of a man who went to war for Uncle Sam back in the days of glory and who wound up as De Vanie did, on the rocks—after a glorious fighting career.

ERNEST DE VANIE, world flier now grounded, who has determined to drop his identity and start life all over as Doctor D., administering to the hopeless and forlorn.

To those veterans of the World War who "trade on their Army record," De Vanie, a lieutenant in the 194th Esquadrille, has nothing but scorn.

Born in Sweetwater, Tex., 43 years ago, this fellow nursed his wounds in silence, nor asked aid from anybody, not even Uncle Sam. That is the record he is proud of, and submitted as the test of manhood.

Any other way is the way of a weakling, says De Vanie.

Married and the father of two children—his family gone away from him—De Vanie has one big object in life; to break up divorces.

This he hopes to do by the simple expedient of keeping in-laws far away from brides and bridegrooms as earthly measurements permit.

His slogan is, "Outlaw in-laws."

Trial Board Will Air Park Police Charges

Tolson Named Chairman; Group Picked to Rush Future Hearings.

A permanent trial board to hear charges against park police was established yesterday by Arno B. Cammerer, director of the new Office of National Parks, Buildings and Reservations, which recently took over Washington parks.

The board will be similar to the trial group that weighs charges against regular District police. Formerly a temporary board was appointed whenever charges were brought against a park policeman.

F. F. Gill, who has charge of the guards in Washington's public buildings, said he would not establish a permanent trial board for these guards, but might appoint a temporary board to hear any serious charges.

The three members named to the Park Police Board are Hillory A. Tolson, chairman; G. C. Gist, and Lieut. Henry Helms, of the Park Police Force.

Tolson, an attorney in the office of National Parks, Buildings and Reservations, was observer for the old Park Service during the Senate investigation into the Grand Teton Park land purchases. He was appointed because of his legal ability, Cammerer said.

Gist, who was disbursing officer of the old Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, was named because of his administrative experience. Lieut. Helms will bring his police experience to the board's aid.

There are no cases on the trial board docket, but it was established to insure a speedy hearing of any future cases.

District's Plea For 37 Millions Given Hearing

Early Ruling On Loan Is Promised By Public Work Administration.

District officials were given an hour-and-a-half hearing yesterday afternoon by a subcommittee of the Public Works Administration on their requests for grants of $25,000,000 to the municipal government proper and approximately $12,000,000 to the reorganized parks office, now a unit in the Interior Department.

No announcement was made by the subcommittee following the parley other than to say that its recommendation probably would be made to the general board today, and that an early decision may be expected.

King Expects $10,000,000.

While Senator King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, stated that he expected the District to get some $10,000,000 for public works, District officials did not reflect such optimism.

Members of the subcommittee, headed by Turner Battle, assistant to Secretary of Labor Perkins, questioned the District officials regarding some of the major projects proposed, among which are the municipal center, a new jail, a new morgue, a National Guard armory, the Michigan avenue viaduct, a new adult tuberculosis hospital, several schools and branch libraries and a half dozen sewer-system improvements.

The parks officials likewise were questioned on the projects compiled by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, while director of the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks.

Matching Question Avoided.

Although the size of the District's allocation is believed to depend upon how much the municipal government can raise to match Federal grants, this question was not discussed.

Actually, the District can comply with the 70-30 per cent condition only on four projects. For all the others the Public Works Administration would have to make 100 per cent grants. The District has appropriations to start the contagious disease ward at Gallinger Hospital, the Anacostia Junior High School and the Woodrow Wilson High School. An appropriation of $575,000 is contained in the special gasoline tax surplus authorization for Calvert Street Bridge, but this is being held up by the Budget Bureau. For these four projects the District asked $960,000 from the Public Works Administration.

Treasury Represented.

Sitting with Battle on the subcommittee were Maj. Carey H. Brown, of the Public Works Administration, and L. W. Roberts, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. Maj Brown was at different times an Assistant Engineer Commissioner in the District government, an assistant to the Director of Public Buildings and Public Parks, and an assistant to the United States Engineer for the District.

Commissioners Reichelderfer and Gotwals were accompanied by Auditor Donovan and Assistant Engineer Commissioner Hodgson, who is also acting as liaision officer between the Public Works Administration and the Commissioners.

Park officials present were F. T. Gartside, C. W. Eliot 2d, J. C. Nolan and J. F. Gill.

Bathtub Sleeper Aroused by Police

"Quick—there's a man locked in the bathroom trying to kill himself."

The call came from 1115 Ninth street northwest, an apartment house. The fire rescue squad and a police squad car rushed to the scene. Up on the third floor they found anxious tenants pounding on the bathroom door.

Breaking in the door, police found a young man asleep in the bathtub—unhurt. He gave his name as John Tyson, 27, of Cherrydale. He said he had come to the apartment house to visit a friend and went to the bathroom first to make himself presentable and fell asleep. Police suggested that he go home and catch up on the sleep he had lost.

Pressman Is Indicted For Fire In News Office

An indictment of "malicious burning of movable property" was returned by the grand jury yesterday against Frank H. Bielaski, a pressman, alleged to have set fire to a bundle of newspapers in the basement of The Washington Daily News building.

Bielaski is said to have told police that he was drunk at the time and thought it would be "fun to watch the building burn."

3 Freed of Speakeasy Kidnaping Charges

An alleged kidnaping in which James P. Barger, 490 M street southwest, was said to have been taken from speakeasy to speakeasy in an effort to identify him as a police informer, was ignored in the report of the District grand jury yesterday.

The jury declined to indict Pete Smith, John Thomas and Buck Robbins in this connection.

Owners Insist President End House Razing

Demolition Near Capitol Destroying Rent Values, Says Petition.

Owners of property within the area being cleared for enlargement of the Capitol Grounds, but as yet unpurchased, yesterday asked President Roosevelt for a "new deal."

They protested against the continuance of the demolition of buildings in the area until all the property is acquired. They pointed out in their petition to the President that the noise and the dust of the demolition work practically destroys the residential and rental values of their properties.

Nicola Reale, owner of property in the area, and one of the committee of three, that called on the President, explained that Congress authorized the payment of prices 30 per cent in excess of the assessed values in the condemnation proceedings. Subsequently the small property owners obtained court action holding that prices 61 per cent in excess of the assessed values would be nearer the true value of the properties.

Mr. Reale also pointed out that prices 127 per cent in excess of their assessed values were paid for properties on the site of the new House Office Building; 110 per cent on site of Supreme Court Building; 127 per cent for Library of Congress annex, and 156 for site of Botanic Garden.
